SUMMARY.

The allied warships in the Dardanelles have penetrated to Sari Sighlar Bay, and bombarded Chanak and Kilid Bahr.

The Turks were driven into the woods behind Crithia, where they were severely bombarded.

Fighting continues far inland from Gaba Tepe, but our men hold the ridges secure.

It is reported from Athens that the Turks massacred half a company of Australians.

The Australians fought obstinately, inflicting great losses on the enemy.

A great panic was occasioned in Constantinople by the arrival of 15,000 wounded.

A great British attack against La Bassee commenced at dawn on Saturday.

The duels lasted seven hours on Saturday, and were resumed on Sunday. They are still raging.

Under the big guns the Allies' infantry are pressing forward for a great thrust at the La Bassee stronghold.

The French are supporting the British with great vigour.

A Paris communique states: Despite German counter-attacks, we maintained our gains north of Arras, and enlarged them.

The Anglo-French offensive covers a front of 25 miles. The advance in the French sector is more than the gain at Neuve Chapelle.

Desperate engagements are reported in Western Galicia. The enemy has crossed the Wisloka, near Krosno.

The Germans brought up eight army corps from Cracow, massing artillery in overwhelming force on the Dunalec.

There is a growing agitation in England for the internment of alien enemies, whether they are naturalised or not.

The sinking of the Lusitania has aroused intense anger in Italy.

"Il Secolo" says the torpedoing of the Lusitania happened at an opportune moment.

"We are on the eve of entering into war," it adds, "and participating in a struggle against tyrants and bullies."

A Zeppelin dropped 80 bombs on Southend (Essex) and Westcliff. Houses were wrecked and buildings set on fire.

The raid has stimulated recruiting in London. There was a brisk response to a Navy poster.

TWO WEEKS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

THE PANAMA PACIFIC EXPOSITION
is now open. Forty-one Nations represented at the Exposition emphasises its International Character. It is the most colossal of Expositions the world has ever seen; and its interest to the man of business and to the tourist is something that may not be duplicated for many years. Like Niagara Falls, this great Exposition, which has taken years to prepare, cannot be adequately described, but we have literature on its wonders which will be sent to you on application.

SEVEN WEEKS IN ALL.
Approximately from Sydney to San Francisco and back occupies 5 weeks at sea, 2 on shore. In these 2 weeks you can see the Exposition, the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mtns., etc. No other line has so fast a time-table; but our return tickets are interchangeable with the other trans-Pacific Companies. Our route is via Honolulu going; Honolulu and Samoa returning.

GLANGORRA HOMESPUN SUITINGS

—RENDERED FULLY ANTISEPTIC.

We are introducing something particularly noteworthy and novel in the form of a hygienic Tweed, which bears the full endorsement of the Institute of Hygiene, London.

Since the certificate of the Institute has been granted for Glangorra Homespuns, it is evident that they are truly antiseptic.

Bacteriological tests by the Institute of Hygiene proved that "Glangorra" Suitings are not only made sterile, but that they remain sterile for a considerable time.

Every fibre in the yarn, and every pore in that fibre, is thoroughly impregnated with the most powerful antiseptics.

Quite apart from this, they will appeal to men because they are the real hand-spun and hand-woven Tweeds—beautifully blended as to colourings, and unusually soft and warm in texture.

Rarely, if ever, have such distinctive single suit lengths of REAL HOMESPUNS been brought to Australia.

We introduce a limited number for our clientele, confident that the suitings will appeal to those who like something quite out of the ordinary.

£7/7/ THE SUIT TO ORDER.

ART OF DRESSING WELL.

It USED to be SAID that you could TELL a LADY by her SHOES and GLOVES; her GOWN might be OUT-OF-DATE, but her GLOVES and SHOES were ALWAYS irreproachable, remarks the "Daily Telegraph" in FASHION NOTES. And SURELY this IDEA still HOLDS good. For to WEAR either WORN GLOVES, TRODDEN-DOWN SHOES, or INDIFFERENT HOSE with a NEW Gown would SPOIL the WHOLE effect.

THESE are the DAYS of NEW FROCKS for WINTER WEAR, and, therefore, these are the DAYS for NEW FOOTWEAR and GLOVES. When it comes to the QUESTION of SELECTING the new APPAREL, FOOTWEAR, or GLOVES, there is NO PLACE to EQUAL the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM for VALUE and VARIETY. Put to the TEST, the WONDERFUL VARIETY we offer COMPLETELY OVERSHADOWS COMPETITIVE EFFORT, and ABSOLUTELY the BEST VALUE in the LAND is assured by

BELGIAN DAY.

There is one mind animating all women to-day. Belgian Day must be the biggest day Australia has ever known. It is one of those compensations that mother nature, red in tooth and claw with ravine though she may sometimes be, can apply when things seem at their gloomiest and dullest. We have something to look forward to, and we can set aside our sorrow, not forgetting the brave ones who have fallen so gloriously, but working for an object in which we all take the very keenest interest. The bright sunny days make us feel that the world is born again every morning, and with faces all set in one direction we go on with our task, not altogether light heartedly—for a light heart to-day would be a hard heart—but with a sense of hope and coming success. Nobody has any doubt about the overwhelming success we are all going to have on Belgian Day. We are all in this thing, even if we only put 2d in a lucky dip or swell the sum in a collecting box by the same humble amount; we shall be doing something to make Friday "our" day as well as Belgium's. It is a sinister word, "The Day." But Friday will be a day to be proud of.

Not for us women are the glories of the £500 cheques, or the limelight, and the notoriety. When these large public achievements are afoot woman plays the part of Ruth, and acts the gleaner. Men bang the big drums, and drag in the big sheaves. Women walk mostly after and gather up the stray ears, they plan and plot to get up schemes that will attract sixpences, and they devise means of getting little gifts to be sold for 3d each. A knot of workers on Monday morning were planning for Belgian Day at one of the innumerable informal meetings which have been going on since the large gathering last Thursday. One bold spirit declared herself in favour of 2s 6d tickets for a raffle with a 5-guinea prize. "Oh, you are ambitious," cried the others, "we are only hoping to get sixpenny tickets for that." This is the spirit that feels that "every little helps." Women know how to make a little money go a long way, and they also know how to make every penny do its possible in the way of value-getting. That is why men organisers always appeal to women to make a thorough canvass, and to extract the last little coin from the pockets of the heedless.

But there will be no heedless persons about on Belgian Day. There never was in all the world a better advertised movement. Ignorance of the object will be no excuse. Nobody can be uninformed of the reason why he or she will be stuck up on Friday, and made to stand and deliver a coin for Belgium.

The prize offered for the best stall is attracting many competitors. One firm is almost certain that the stall it is arranging will meet the judge's eye, and from the preparations made and the money spent, it will most likely run into a place, at any rate. But there are others working just as hard, and as for the helpers, judging from the way in which the city and suburbs have been canvassed for pretty girls, Friday promises to be remarkable for its beauty show, if for nothing else. The girl who is not helping may consider herself hopelessly plain. Perhaps some may shake their heads and say, this is a frivolous spirit to be showing; but the fact remains that stall holders are relying very much on their girl helpers. Collectors did splendidly on Hospital Saturday; the ambition now is to double that sum. The theatrical profession, both on the footlights side of the stage and on the clerical and business side, is one of the most counted-upon supports of Belgian Day. The public should not forget that this readiness of our entertainers to come forward in causes like the present is doubly valuable, because the managers know better than anybody the art of organising, and also the names of those taking an active part hold by themselves a "draw" more powerful than any private person can hope to attain. Actors and actresses are members of a profession which is most exacting and wearing on the nerves, yet they are seldom found shirking any effort requiring tact and unselfishness when it is for the good of others. In this appeal, Mrs. E. J. Tait, who is managing the stall to be erected outside Her Majesty's, takes a prominent place, as the stand is one of the best in the city. Associated with Mrs. Tait will be Miss Muriel Starr, Miss Marie Lowe, Mrs. Harry Lupino, Miss [illegible], Miss Maggie Dickenson, and Miss Emily Harmer, besides other ladies who are specialising on the attractive powers of a wonderful "sixpenny dip." This is to contain full value for each coin, while there are to be numerous prizes worth many times that sum. The above few gossipy notes may serve to promote the idea it is intended to convey, which is that women are everywhere devoting themselves to doing on Friday next their very utmost to prove themselves sensible of the greatness of the issues involved, and grateful for the services rendered by Belgium, not only to Europe, but to us Australians.

HOW A GIRL HELPS.

The following extracts are made from a letter received from a young English girl who lives at Rouen with her mother and brother:—

"My new vocation in life is that of barmaid, though I deal in nothing stronger than tea or coffee. Local English ladies are giving their services to the Y.M.C.A., who have started five different centres for the benefit of the English soldiers in the town. The Folies Bergère, a music hall on the island in the river, has been rented, and I have been there every day for a week. The hours are from 2 to 8 p.m., except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when we are open till nearly 11, and as that is really more than one can manage at a stretch, in future we are going to divide the time and do it in relays from 2 to 6 and 6 to 11. Two women are needed, and there are always two men of the Y.M.C.A., and this does not give us a minute to spare, for there is a constant stream of cleaning and washing up to be done, if there is a lull in the serving or preparing of food. Our busiest time is from 6 onwards, when the soldiers arrive in crowds. Yesterday we took 316 francs in record takings. We sell tea, cocoa, buns, cakes, bread and butter, meat sandwiches, oranges, packets of biscuits, tobacco, cigarettes, matches, chocolate, etc. Notepaper is provided free, and there are writing tables and newspapers, and a piano, which hardly ever has a minute's rest. Some of the men play really well. On Sunday nights for an hour there are hymns, the men choosing their favourites. Most of those who come to this island depot are Army Service men, motor lorry drivers, who do transport between here and the front. We gradually get to know them, and they like to show us photographs of their wives and children. We have about 100 in regular attendance, and they are beginning to come from other parts of the town. On concert nights we have over a thousand. The concerts are got up by the men themselves, many among whom have been professional singers in peace time. These places are really a godsend to all these men, who needed a comfortable place to sit and smoke in, besides which their ignorance of the language and the coinage of the country made them liable to waste their money in French restaurants or hotels."

GIRLS' SCHOOL FROCKS.

With the coming-in of the wider skirts, a new necessity arises with regard to girls' school outfits, for our daughters in their early 'teens will not be satisfied with skimpy tight skirts of serge or of gaberdine, while their elders are appearing in widely-flared jupes, not much longer than the schoolgirl's frock. A school outfit for winter presents itself as a question of importance during May, for earlier than just now it is impossible to get children to put on warm clothes with any feeling except strong distaste. "You run about, my little maid, your limbs they are alive," we unconsciously quote as we somewhat enviously note the contempt which the average N.S.W. girl has for natural wool underwear and flannel petticoats. The ideal wear for such young and vigorous vitality is just a wool singlet, stay band of woven cotton, quite soft and pliable, white knickers, navy bloomers, either of knitted wool or vyella, navy serge skirt, white Japanese silk blouse finished with a sailor tie, generally in the school colours. A sports coat is indispensable, and in the region of pure utility, a macintosh and goloshes. These are the foundation-stones of every growing girl's wardrobe structure, and it will be found that most girls are quite satisfied with ringing the changes on these articles of attire. The school is a great leveller. Its members hate the thought of being odd or unlike the other girls "in our form," and mothers, as a rule, remembering their own early days, think twice before asking their daughter to undergo the ordeal of wearing anything at which her congeners would laugh.

Short skirts, midway between knee and ankle length, are being now made with a flare at the hem, but except for the ultra-fashionable, it is not at all likely that their introduction will be anything but gradual. A slight opening at the bottom of one side seam, or the introduction of a few inverted pleats in both seams, will give the requisite width. The waist-band still remains hidden, and for the school blouse and skirts this mode is ideal. To keep the skirt always up to concert pitch of tidiness the home dressmaker should renew the Petersham belting when it becomes limp. The cost is quite tiny, and the trouble is well repaid in the freshened look of the skirt. The extreme simplicity of girls' dress nowadays has a charm of its own. Since the war, all fancy notions and fripperies, never in the best taste for children, have disappeared altogether. A well cut serge, whipcord or cheviot, pencil line Ceylon flannel, or a tiny check in black and white, or Rob Roy tartan, finished with black trimming, made tailor-wise, marks the well-dressed ingenue; Coats should be hip length, and finished off with a belt. Several smart effects may be obtained by belting only the back of the coat, or using a buckle or some large buttons. In fact, the belted all-round effect is seldom seen. The Russian style does not go well with short skirts.

Once accustomed to the comfort of bloomers, wearers, both old and young, will return to petticoats with great reluctance. Nor is there any reason for petticoats to be worn under short skirts. For little girls of twelve and under, the bloomers should match the skirt in colour if not in material. Some mothers like to show the knees of the bloomers under the extremely abbreviated skirts; in some cases the skirt is nothing but a mere frill at the lower edge of the broad band. These very long-waisted and very short-skirted frocks look like having an innings all the winter. But it is better to have them a little longer than the bloomers, which give a quaint air of trying to be trouserettes, recalling the days of "Harry and Lucy," or, the Purple Jar," and other Edgeworthian tales, when unduly long in the leg. Bloomers are very easily made, and to be successful should be manufactured by the child's dressmaker or sewing maid (who is often "mother"). Ready-made bloomers cost two or three times as much, and never fit well. Elastic at the waist and at each knee makes the garment sit snugly. The little maid who possesses two school frocks, with bloomers to match, will be quite set up while the frocks last, which is not saying that the garments will see a venerable old age, for little active girls wear out a "power" of clothes. For tiny girls the complete knitted outfit looks pretty, cap, coat, jersey, and bloomers, all to match. A skirt may or may not be worn as well. For older girls, between 8 and 12, the jersey is to be as much worn as ever this winter. Indeed, more than ever, if that be possible to such a universal fashion. A kilted skirt is easily achieved, and a neat serviceable school costume is the result.

School girls do not look well in tartan blouses. A whole frock of tartan is pretty, and to be welcomed as a change from the blouse and skirt, but the blouse as a separate proposition should be white, or be one of the striped delaines. These are made very prettily, exactly like a boy's tennis shirt, the patch pocket and all. The sleeves are put in like shirt sleeves, which greatly helps the workmanlike effect. Large armholes look well, and the square armhole, though perhaps too "grown up" for a juvenile wearer, is a new note. Roll collars and a slight V opening in front, claim popularity with soft turn-over collars of the material, fastened high in front with a pin or little brooch. As above stated, a boy's tennis shirt serves as an excellent pattern for a blouse of this kind. Big block stripes abound on blouse materials, now in narrower and wider patterns, and all the pretty colours, and the growing girl may make her choice in these. But the very narrow blue or pink striped delaines with a cream ground demand but little from either purse or skill, and always remain favourites.

Muslin and lace collars should fit well. It is invariably a difficult task to hunt through a counter of collars and vests and find them small enough or girlish enough. Goitre would seem to be the affliction of those for whom the cheap ready-made muslin collar manufacturer caters; they are all so very much too large. These apparent simplicities of the toilette are most deceptive. They seldom fit. To add distinction to the simplest school frock nothing can beat a prettily hand-embroidered "Peter Pan" or "sailor" collar. Even cut from a piece of plain linen with a buttonhole edge, such a finish is greatly to be preferred to a quite elaborate collar of imitation lace, which washes into rags.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

Old Newspaper.—In answer to the query "What can be done with our old newspapers?" a varied list may be made out. They are useful for cleaning mirrors; first damp a good-sized piece slightly and crush up, clean the mirrors with that and polish with a dry piece crushed up. They will put a good final polish on windows or picture glasses. Some people use them to rub up knives with after cleaning. Grates and stoves that just need a "rub up" are far better done with newspaper than a brush. If used, too, before blackleading, they will make the stove easier to polish, if used after will put an extra "shine" on. A couple of sheets of newspaper spread on the floor in front of the gas stove will prevent grease spots, etc., and if spread on the table when "dishing up" saucepans and other things may be put down without soiling it. They are also very useful to prevent draughts or dust coming beneath outside doors. Measure the width of your doorway, cut a number of papers the desired size, roll up very tightly and secure at both ends and in middle with fine twine. Cover neatly with cretonne. When soiled these rolls will burn under the copper and can easily be replaced.

They can also be used instead of felt paper to lay under linoleums in halls, etc. Several thicknesses must be used, and they will deaden the sound and make the lino. wear longer. In some cases of sickness, where the patient is helpless, newspaper properly used will save a good deal of washing.

In house-moving, tied round the legs of chairs, tables, etc., they will prevent scratches, and are useful in all kinds of packing.

MAC.

Guava Jelly.—Small red guavas are the best for jelly. Get them ripe and fresh; slice, and put in a preserving pan, cover with water, and boil for three or four hours. Strain the liquor through a hair sieve, and leave till next day; add to each pint of juice 1lb of sugar and a little lemon juice, put into a preserving pan, and stir till the sugar is dissolved. Boil till it will jelly; this usually takes from one to two hours; add a little more lemon juice and pour into glasses.

HOME AFFAIRS.

PLAIN COOKERY.

The party of girls who came to Australia under the Queen's Work for Women Fund scheme were equipped with a newly acquired knowledge of cookery and household matters. Those of their number who had had no experience at all in the work to which they were going—that of domestic service—learnt cookery at the training centre of the central committee on women's employment at Grosvenor-place. Their anxiety to learn made up for the ignorance of some of the girls. The cookery course was very practical, for luncheons for the staff and dinners for the women in the neighbouring workrooms were prepared every day by the girls, who took turn about to cook a joint and look after soups, vegetables, and sweets. Their instructor came from the National Training School of Cookery, which has proved itself such a valuable ally in the cause of real education; that is, knowing how to make the best of everything we have or use. In the possession of a national school, the whole science of the household is brought up out of oblivion, and placed on a level with technical training in men's trades. Although a long stride in the right direction has been made of late by our Department of Public Instruction, a national school of cookery is still a desideratum.

Plain cookery is the most important branch of the cuisine, and the woman who can truthfully call herself a "good plain cook" need not fear for her future. Work is always waiting for her, and with the work really handsome wages. A mistress may ask, "Are you a good plain cook?" and the applicant may reply, "Yes," and show references backing up her statement, without either of them knowing exactly in what that qualification consists. A few words, therefore, may be found useful by those who imagine that plain cooking need not be feared by any applicant for a cook-general's position, as "any old thing" is included under the term. Fried sausages or bread-and-butter pudding both are easy to make. Anybody can prepare either, therefore anybody can do plain cooking. But even simple dishes like the above may be ruined in the cooking, as most of us know to our cost, and the "plain" chef must know much more than that. Take, by way of illustration, the menu at any well-served cafe or restaurant luncheon table which has a tariff of, say, 2s 6d, or thereabouts, for the table d'hote menu, or a minimum of 1s 6d a la carte. Every dish mentioned comes under the heading of plain cookery—except, perhaps, ice creams, and even these are now in such general use, and freezers are so cheap that it is quite usual to expect a plain cook to know how to make them.

Victoria sandwiches, "ribbon," "tiger," "angel," and "tennis" cake ought all to be within the powers of the plain cook. Fancy dishes and cakes do not present any difficulties to a smart woman who knows her work. There are three "R's" in the cuisine—frying, boiling, and baking. When these are mastered the rest is easy. Frying is the commonest way of preparing food, and also the nastiest and most indigestible when done by an unskilful hand. There are two ways of frying—the deep and the shallow. Deep frying is the French way. Their cooks are not afraid of using plenty boiling fat, which must be at smoking heat, with a faint blue vapour arising, before plunging into the pan the potato chips, the chicken or turkey legs, the parsley, or what not. Deep frying requires careful draining, just as does the other kind, which is more adapted to fish, rissoles, omelets, and so forth. The art in frying consists in crisping the things. Badly fried "plats" are sodden and greasy.

Boiling includes stewing, which, after all, is a very different process. It is about the easiest way to cook anything. But the old jibe at a bad cook—"she can't boil water without burning it"—shows that many mistakes lie in wait to trap the unwary cook. The most common error, especially with a woman who uses gas fuel, is to boil everything too fast. A careful person turns down the jet as soon as the saucepan or kettle comes to the boil. About one half the usual pressure will boil a large joint, but some maids seem fairly to revel in holding a galloping race between the pots on the stove. The saucepan which sends its lid dancing and rattling the merriest and loudest, and its steam escaping in dense clouds, apparently wins on points in this plan for sending up the gas bill. Stew should never be boiled. Very little heat will keep stew simmering. A leg of mutton should be boiled in as little water as will cook the joint; the turnips should be boiled separately, and then the liquor, skimmed, will go towards making to-morrow's soup. Caper sauce is often made of the liquor (skimmed), with flour and milk added. Some persons prefer it this way to having the sauce entirely of milk thickened with flour. Boiled mutton, with mashed turnips and with caper sauce (the capers should be finely chopped, and no vinegar should be allowed, or it will curdle the sauce), is a very suitable family dinner for this time of year.

Visitors to the camps are learning much about the cookery there. Some useful hints about the conservation of heat are to be obtained at the camp kitchens. The underground fireplace, with its rows of enormous cooking-pots, ought to show us who are inclined to be lavish with firing how much result is obtained by scientific adjustment of means to an end. Baking, which nowadays practically includes roasting, is a matter of knowing your oven and its temperature. Beef requires a moderate oven, lamb a quick oven. With gas-cookers it is very necessary, in order to get the oven right, to ascertain the pressure. Sometimes the gas supplied is feeble, and at others it positively rushes through the pipes. The careless housewife sometimes "forgets to remember" this, and disaster follows.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

A Mother writes: I have relations now at the Dardanelles. Writing from Egypt they are asking continually for socks. I have a parcel ready; please tell me how I can forward them.—Forward them to the Egypt address by parcel post, giving the addressee's full name, regimental number, company, etc.—you paying postage. This is the most direct way; or address them in full, care of Victoria Barracks, Paddington; the authorities will forward the parcel gratis.

My Nieces.—L.H., Lindfield: The contrast between the bride-niece and the nurse-niece is well put, but, from the conclusion you draw, there is reason to dissent. The bride, if she fulfils her destiny and has a family in the course of years, has chosen a "better part" even than the nurse. The nurse can at best only restore the ravages of the past. The bride can help to recreate the world and make possible a happy future.

Guava Jelly.—Correspondent is thanked for useful recipe. No name sent.

Cottage.—Toffee is made in several ways. This is one kind much beloved by children. Take two cups white sugar, one cup of water, a dessert-spoonful of vinegar, and some drops of vanilla or lemon essence. Butter the saucepan well, put in ingredients, and do not stir. Drop a little in water, when it is brittle the toffee is done. Another kind is made with brown sugar, 1lb to 2oz of butter, and half teacup of cream or milk. Boil for twenty minutes. Treacle toffee is made with golden syrup, and brown sugar in equal quantities; good ¼lb butter to the 1lb mixture, add butter last, and a pinch of cream of tartar. Stir till mixed. Stirring toffee when boiling makes it sugary. Butter the plate before pouring out.

Knitted Socks.—G.D., Trangie: Direction for knitting socks have been frequently given and cannot now be repeated owing to the space they take up. If you write to the Red Cross headquarters, 215 George-street North, and send three penny stamps, they will send full printed directions. The best kind of wool is grey Alloa yarn, needles size 12. The legs should be at least twelve inches long before the turning of the heel (for an average size foot). It is very difficult to follow knitting directions from the printed page. Have you not a friend who could show you on the sock itself how to do it?

WOMEN'S WORK IN WAR TIME.

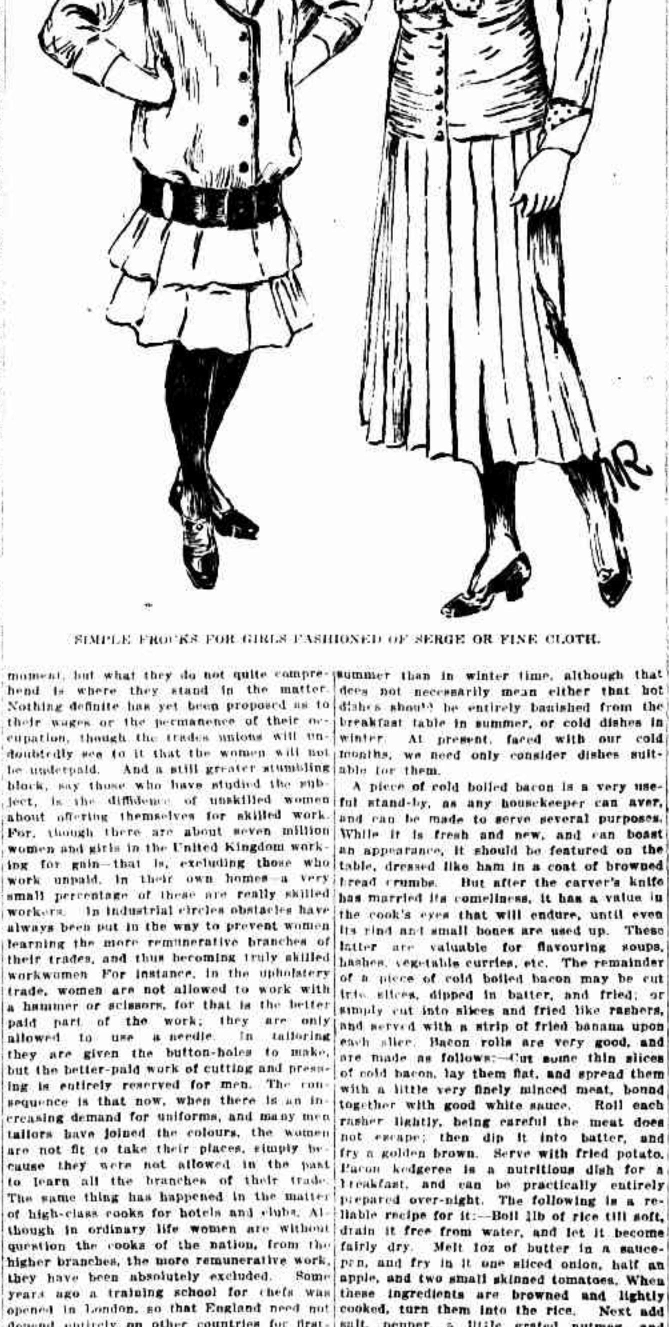
The call of the Government to the women of England to free more men for the army by volunteering for labour of different kinds, is one of the most important results of the war, so far as women are concerned. For it is an action that is bound inevitably to have a tremendous and far-reaching effect upon the economic conditions of women in the United Kingdom. So far the response to the Government's call has been good, but not nearly as good as was expected, a fact which has given rise to surprise and comment. It has even been suggested by some critics that women are slow in grasping the situation, and that they do not realise their great opportunity of serving their country, as well as of benefiting themselves. The volunteers for service up to date have been from all classes of the community, but the greatest response has been from women of the middle class who have offered their services for clerical work, and this has been taken by some as a sign that the women of the industrial classes, of whom there is greater need in the present crisis, do not understand the position.

But the reason is farther to seek than that. The women of the industrial class realise well enough the importance of more help at this moment, but what they do not quite comprehend is where they stand in the matter. Nothing definite has yet been proposed as to their wages or the permanence of their occupation, though the trades unions will undoubtedly see to it that the women will not be underpaid. And a still greater stumbling block, say those who have studied the subject, is the diffidence of unskilled women about offering themselves for skilled work. For, though there are about seven million women and girls in the United Kingdom working for gain—that is, excluding those who work unpaid, in their own homes—a very small percentage of these are really skilled workers. In industrial circles obstacles have always been put in the way to prevent women learning the more remunerative branches of their trades, and thus becoming truly skilled workwomen. For instance, in the upholstery trade, women are not allowed to work with a hammer or scissors, for that is the better paid part of the work; they are only allowed to use a needle. In tailoring they are given the button-holes to make, but the better-paid work of cutting and pressing is entirely reserved for men. The consequence is that now, when there is an increasing demand for uniforms, and many men tailors have joined the colours, the women are not fit to take their places, simply because they were not allowed in the past to learn all the branches of their trade. The same thing has happened in the matter of high-class cooks for hotels and clubs. Although in ordinary life women are without question the cooks of the nation, from the higher branches, the more remunerative work, they have been absolutely excluded. Some years ago a training school for chefs was opened in London, so that England need not depend entirely on other countries for first-rate cooks. It was hoped that women would be allowed to enjoy the training, too. But no. The college authorities were willing, but the men's unions refused to let women enter these well-paid walks. The hotel proprietors said, "We cannot employ a woman chef, for if we do, all our staff will strike." So the college council argued, "Well, it is no use our training women chefs if there is no opening for them, so the cookery school must be for men only." The exodus of foreigners from the big hotels has greatly changed matters, and now proprietors would gladly welcome a woman chef. But there are none, and it takes two years to train them.

And so it is in one branch of work after another. The women have not been allowed to become skilled in their trades for fear of competing with men, and now they are not ready to do the work which the men have had to leave at the bugle's call.

It is a great chance for those far-sighted people, who have always urged that women were as important a part of the nation as men, to say, "I told you so." But they are not wasting time in anything so petty. They are justifying their former attitude by their own personal application to the present problem, and are joining forces admirably with their quondam enemies to improve the conditions. Differences of opinion or other matters have all been buried for the time being, and women of every shade of political thought are joined together in the effort to help the Government in its present scheme. Suffrage and anti-suffrage bodies, labour and capital, Socialists and individualists, are all working for the common cause. And it is interesting to find that with people of so many opinions on other matters, there is one united opinion on this particular subject, and that is that the Government must first train the women it seeks to employ.

AMY H. MACK.



SIMPLE FROCKS FOR GIRLS FASHIONED OF SERGE OR FINE CLOTH.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

Bacon and eggs, bloaters and marmalade are commonly supposed to furnish the British breakfast table from January to December, year in, year out. On the Continent, a breakfast of coffee and rolls is considered an ample and healthy meal upon which to commence one's day's work, and even here in Australia there are those who thrive upon such light fare, and urge they feel clearer-witted and more alert than on a fuller diet.

But Australia is essentially a meat-eating nation—even early in a morning when she has only just rubbed her eyes and turned out of bed. Chops, steak, sausages, cold meat, and eggs furnish her breakfast table, summer and winter alike.

The present prospect is that we shall either have to increase our household expenditure, or change at once our national habit of breaking our fast with a meat diet. A fair-sized chop costs now 2d or 3d; steak is even dearer, and cold joint is expensive diet for the breakfast table, while eggs are alarmingly dear.

How to furnish our breakfast tables with nourishing, inexpensive, and suitable food, is a problem that requires care, thought, and management for its solution. Cold dishes will be more welcome in summer than in winter time, although that does not necessarily mean either that hot dishes should be entirely banished from the breakfast table in summer, or cold dishes in winter. At present, faced with our cold months, we need only consider dishes suitable for them.

A piece of cold boiled bacon is a very useful stand-by, as any housekeeper can aver, and can be made to serve several purposes. While it is fresh and new, and can boast an appearance, it should be featured on the table, dressed like ham in a coat of browned bread crumbs. But after the carver's knife has marred its comeliness, it has a value in the cook's eyes that will endure, until even its rind and small bones are used up. These latter are valuable for flavouring soups, hashes, vegetable curries, etc. The remainder of a piece of cold boiled bacon may be cut into slices, dipped in batter, and fried; or simply cut into slices and fried like rashers, and served with a strip of fried banana upon each slice. Bacon rolls are very good, and are made as follows:—Cut some thin slices of cold bacon, lay them flat, and spread them with a little very finely minced meat, bound together with good white sauce. Roll each rasher lightly, being careful the meat does not escape; then dip it into batter, and fry a golden brown. Serve with fried potato. Bacon kedgeree is a nutritious dish for a breakfast, and can be practically entirely prepared over-night. The following is a reliable recipe for it:—Boil ½lb of rice till soft, drain it free from water, and let it become fairly dry. Melt 1oz of butter in a saucepan, and fry in it one sliced onion, half an apple, and two small skinned tomatoes. When these ingredients are browned and lightly cooked, turn them into the rice. Next add salt, pepper, a little grated nutmeg, and 6 ounces of the cold boiled bacon cut into dice. Stir all together over the fire till thoroughly hot, and serve with sippets of toast or fried bread arranged round the dish. Although reference in each recipe is to boiled bacon, it is generally considered to be a mistake to boil bacon at all. It should be placed in a steamer with its rind on, and steamed till tender. By cooking it in this way it retains its flavour, and suffers no waste.

Butter remains still at last week's price—1/4½ a lb. Eggs, in spite of gloomy prognostications to the contrary, have grown a shade cheaper. They are now 2/10 a dozen. Cheese is still 1/ a lb, and bacon rashers 1/0½ to 1/6 a lb.

* * * * *

The fruit market has changed very little. A fresh shipment of Fiji bananas has lately arrived, and one may buy this very favourite fruit for /9 and 1/ a dozen; sugar bananas run from /6 a dozen upwards. Large yellow guavas may be bought for 6d a dozen; persimmons run from 1/ to 2/ a dozen. Pears do not at present wear a handsome appearance, and their price varies from 6d to 1/6 a dozen. Apples are far less plentiful than awhile ago, although they still remain our most plentiful fruit. They are 6d, 1/, and 2/ a dozen. Tomatoes suffered very much from the rain; they are plentiful and cheap—3d, 6d, and 9d a dozen. Rhubarb at 3d a bunch, is excellent. Passionfruit may be bought in abundance for 3d and 6d a dozen. Pineapples are sound, and good ones may be bought for 6d each. One cannot recommend strawberries just now; they are both dear and undersized. Small baskets of small berries cost 2/6 and 3/ each.

Peas and beans are each available and good, at 2/6 a peck. Marrows run from 6d to 1/ apiece; cabbages from 5d to 10d; and cauliflowers, 10d to 1s each. Artichokes are now in and cost 3d a lb. Sweet potatoes are 2d lb, and carrots, parsnips, and beetroot 2d a bunch. Potatoes are growing cheaper and older. The price this week is 2/3 a quarter.

RED CROSS INTERLUDES.

The Red Cross room at the Town Hall is a hive of industry these days. The amount of work to do reminds one of the fabled well of truth—without a bottom. From the lady who does the cutting out and "dispensing," to those who stow the finished work away, there is a zeal and earnestness only to be found in voluntary service. The supervisor applies sympathetic, as well as technical, knowledge to her work. A distressed damsel came to her for aid. A fellow-worker had told her that the wrong side of the seams went on the right side of the garments, which puzzled our young friend. Appealed to, the supervisor said:—

"Yes, you would be right in ordinary work, but this is different. As you know, the wrong side of a seam leaves a small ridge of material, and we will not have anything to hurt our men."

There is a spirit of "camaraderie" growing up amongst the workers, which can only be likened to the camping spirit in men. Any way, it is the nearest approach to it that women can get at the present time. It is imbuing them with more of the public spirit, which is the essence of citizenship. There is very little, if any, foolish snobbery—which has ever been the safeguard of small natures. Navy serge skirt and black taffeta work side by side, without any "who are you," and "what are you," which so frequently enter into women's intercourse with each other. Corrections are given and taken in good part. Other people's alterations—the most distasteful thing a woman can be given to do—are undertaken, if not with joy, at least with resignation as one woman ungrammatically but philosophically put it (she had been given a shirt to unpick).

"If it isn't me, it's you, so what's the odds?"

Serious workers though they be, there are occasional interludes that keep "Jack" from becoming a "dull boy." One young girl, who was attempting her first pair of pyjamas, was heard woefully bemoaning the fact that—to use her own words—"my poor man won't be able to get in." In justice to her, she made three pairs after that, each with its own legitimate entrance.

The other day a solitary pyjama leg was found wandering about without "visible means of support." Its companion was searched for high and low for some time, without success. Then one of the searchers had a happy inspiration. "It must be intended for a man with one leg"—a form of anticipation that we thought rather cruel on the part of the authorities—until we found the other leg.

The most welcome stir of the day is introduced on the entry of a soldier or "one of our boys," as they are affectionately termed. All the women take a kind of proprietary interest in him. He is their "pattern" so to speak, and who does not like to study the original of his or her copy? Of course, to some unimaginative souls who cannot rise above their work, he may appear as just so much animated "trouser leg" or "double seam;" but to those with finer perceptions he is the inspiration itself. One of these valiant knights did, indeed, lend himself on one occasion for the inglorious purpose of being "tried on," and it was a heartening sight to see big Tommy with a dressing gown (as yet minus sleeves) of a beautiful rich shade of purple, on top of his khaki overcoat. The effect was artistic in the extreme, if somewhat "sudden." The addition of small "Madame" trying to reach his shoulder to put pins in, and a bevy of pretty young girls looking on in admiration, completed the picture. Ah, the "service has its compensations."

A WORKER.

MELBOURNE NOTES

Lady Helen Munro Ferguson presided at a demonstration under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association in the Town Hall lately. Members from the several departmental centres illustrated in pageant form the ideals and activities of the association. Music was liberally provided by Dr. Price, Mr. A. Zelman, Madame Rogers, and Mr. J. Danks.

The general public is beginning to interest itself in the movement known as the Children's Welfare Society. Members of the committee are encouraged by this fact. At first when all day institution visits were planned only those belonging to the committee made application to join the company, but now numbers of strangers avail themselves of the privilege. This was the case recently when the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Oakleigh, was visited. The Reverend Mother and sisters conducted visitors over the building, and showed them the children at work and play. Lantern slides are being prepared for the purpose of carrying out illustrated addresses on child welfare work in town and country centres.

Every chair was occupied in the State drawing-room of Federal Government House on the afternoon of the 6th inst., when a representative meeting of ladies was held to arrange plans for the first "Button Day," which is fixed for May 24. In the absence of Lady Helen Ferguson, Lady Madden presided. Lady Forrest was present. Mrs. Andrew Fisher, Lady Peacock, Lady Hennessy, Lady Allen, Mrs. G. F. Pearce, Mrs. S. T. Staughton, and Miss Ada Armytage were elected vice-presidents. The ladies who controlled city sections on Flag Day and Rose Day have undertaken the same duties for Button Day, and numerous volunteers added their names as assistants.

Madame Melba (accompanied by her son and daughter-in-law) recently opened a jumble fair at Coldstream in aid of the Belgian Relief Fund. The result will be a sum of approximately £170 towards the fund.

Lady Denman opened a haven for stray and starving dogs at North Melbourne two years ago. The anniversary of that opening was celebrated last week, and quite a number of animal lovers visited the home. Mr. A. C. Morley was kept busy explaining the workings of the lethal chamber, which was recently installed there.

The second meeting of the Sisterhood of Peace at the Friends' House, Russell-street, was presided over by Mrs. W. R. Paling. Over 60 women were present, and the society now has a membership of 105.

Members of the Council of Sex Hygiene and Morality have now secured an office in Collins-street. Miss Rosetta Flynn, hon. secretary, will be in attendance there every afternoon to give information about the movement. A literature committee has been formed in connection with the council.

Mayors of five municipalities have placed kitchens in their Town Halls at the disposal of women in their districts interested in Red Cross cooking lessons. The object of those who learn is to impart the benefits of the teaching to the poor. Factory employees are also to receive the advantages, one establishment having already made a start to provide soup for the midday meal. Evening classes are to be resumed at the Guild Hall, and the examination matter will be printed in order to overcome the difficulty some experience in taking notes. Miss R. M. Vaile has arranged for practical work with members of St. John's Ambulance and the Red Cross Society, and on one evening boys from two institutions will be taken.

Prior to the departure of Dr. Grace Vale (one of the pioneer medical women of Victoria) to take a position as school officer for the New South Wales Education Department, she was entertained at an au revoir tea-party by her former colleagues in the studio of Miss May Vale, her sister. Dr. Grace Vale, who has practised in Ballarat for nearly 20 years, has always been interested in social work, particularly child welfare.

NEAR AND FAR.

Lady Edeline Strickland will open the fete to be held by the Catholic Women's Association, at the rooms, Oxford-street, on Saturday. Part of the returns will go towards the Belgian Fund. On Friday Mrs. Melville and Miss Connelly and 20 girls helpers will hold the stall at the corner of Bourke and Oxford streets.

The party of ladies accompanying the Premiers for the Conference were shown over the University on Monday by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Barff. Afterwards Miss Macdonald entertained the party at tea at the Women's College.

News came by the mail that Mrs. Peter Rabett and her daughter have arrived in London from Cairo, where they were visiting Major Rex Rabett, Australian Artillery, and his bride, the latter a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Euston Squire, formerly of Sydney. Mrs. Day, of the Children's Health Department in Sydney, is in Boulogne, helping with the Red Cross Railway Buffets, and much interested in the experience.

A meeting of the women's section of the Town-planning Association was held yesterday at the Town Hall, Mrs. Vincent M'Cauley in the chair. Reports from different sub-committees were received, and a long discussion took place on a motion by Mrs. Burley Griffin referring to a list of regulations for the organisation of the council. It was decided to consider the matter, and discuss it in a fortnight's time. Some of the committees which it is proposed to form deal with affiliation to other bodies, with civic education of members, with the legal aspect, and such topics as gardens, social development, and sanitary improvements. Miss G. King's paper, "Slum Housing," was distributed to those present for the purpose of studying it.

A general meeting of the Commonwealth Patriotic Association was held yesterday afternoon, presided over by Dr. Mary Booth. The constitution of the Association was under consideration, and also the election of officers. It was decided that a general meeting be held on Tuesday, 25th, at King's Hall. Women desiring to become members may enrol by applying to the treasurer, Miss Beale, Llanarth, Burwood.

At Uig lodge, Point Piper, last Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Earp entertained some friends to say farewell to Colonel Reuter Roth and his officers of the Field Ambulance (Dandy Fifth). During the afternoon the host and hostess presented to the Colonel a tailor's hand-sewing machine to take to the front, this having been the only thing required to complete the equipment. Colonel Roth made a charming speech in reply, recalling the happy evenings spent at Uig lodge with first aid and nursing course. Mrs. Earp sang several songs, and Mr. Roland Foster gave delightful renderings of old English folk songs, which caused much amusement. Among those present were Mrs. Reuter Roth and Miss Olga Roth, Lieutenant-Colonel Lane Mullins and Mrs. Mullins, Mrs. Harry Finn and Miss Moya Finn, Mrs. I. C. Wright, Miss Wright, and Miss Margery Wright, Mrs. Montgomerie Severn, Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine, Mrs. Herbert Easton, Mrs. Thomas Hughes, Mrs. O'Gorman Hughes, Miss Violet Paget, Major Moseley, Major Phipps, Captain Chapman, Captain Davenport, Captain James, Lieutenant Francis, and Lieutenant Anderson Stuart.

Miss Monie, of the Red Cross Produce Department, 213 George-street, is offering prizes of 2 guineas and 1 guinea for the best pair of hand-knitted socks. The socks are to be the property of the Red Cross. Competitors must send the coupon to be found in the current number of the Red Cross Record, which is to hand to-day. Country subscribers should note that the price, with postage of the magazine, which is the official publication of the society, New South Wales branch, is 4d.

At the Catholic Women's Association rooms on Monday night, the Very Rev. M. O'Farrell gave an instructive lecture on "Catholic women and social service," to a large audience. Mrs. J. Barlow was in the chair. The lecturer gave details of work done by similar associations in England and elsewhere, and hoped that the desirable object of having a residential club for young women would in time become accomplished.

Miss Gladys Laycock has painted a miniature of Lord Kitchener, which has been presented to the Belgian Fund, to be auctioned on the stage at the matinee on Friday.

The Queen Victoria Club has an interesting syllabus for the winter. There is to be a war lecture once a month. The first will be by Miss Gladys Marks, who has just returned from England on women's work in wartime. The second by the Hon. George Earp on "The War and its Causes, direct and indirect." There are also in addition to the knitting afternoons to be lectures on music by leading musicians, Mr. Roland Foster on voice production, and Messrs. Joseph Bradley and Arundel Orchard. Many new members are joining to avail themselves of these opportunities.

* * * * *

The abrupt termination to the Peace Congress at the Hague was noted with interest by women here who had received communications on the subject of world peace. Voluminous literature was sent out by the Women's Peace Society, of which Miss Jane Addams is president in the United States. All the type-written letters were signed "Rosika Schwimmer" in German script. Mrs. Schwimmer is the secretary, and, though living in America, evidently retains her German sympathies. As the meeting broke up in the way described in the cables, it looks as if the conference had been planned to help the enemy's cause.

WAR FUNDS.

Never before in the history of the State, or even of the world, perhaps, has the energy of which women are capable been so much needed, and never before has the call been so splendidly responded to. Women who have hitherto shunned the public arena, and prided themselves on their devotion to the domesticities, have come forward, and are among our foremost and best workers in the Red Cross and other patriotic fields. But it is to be regretted that there are some few whose zeal is allowed to outrun their discretion, and who appear inclined to obey the injunction "Get money, honestly if you can, but get it." They believe that in a good cause everything is justifiable; but is it? In one centre recently a band of enthusiastic ladies organised a huge patriotic carnival, at which every possible means of raising money was to be resorted to, including an art union, raffling, and a spinning jenny. On the question arising as to whether these gentle arts would be permitted, particularly the latter, which has been ordered off every show ground in the State, it was announced that one need only ask the permission of the Attorney-General. It is comforting to observe, however, that the good sense of the majority prevailed, and the spinning jenny at least was struck off the list of attractions to this carnival.

This matter is one which should be studied by each woman for herself. Are we justified even in the case of providing war funds, in doing evil that good may come? Surely, in a country, rich as ours, and free as yet from any real cares, sufficient money can be obtained in an honourable manner without resorting to questionable means or requiring anyone to break the law. We often hear that "all is fair in love and war," but none of us believes it.

EXCELLENT DENTISTRY.

There are two splendid reasons why my Dental service is so popular. My 5 years' written guarantee, given with all plates and fillings, and my gentle and painless methods. Think of the assurance my patients have with one of these guarantees. They know that if a tooth breaks off a plate or a filling fails, I will repair it free even 5 years after.

Couple with this the most expert work, surgeries equipped with all the latest electric appliances, and every facility for sterilising, and you have a Dental Service absolutely without equal in the city.

I can extract any number of teeth in one sitting entirely without pain. I will put £5 on the table and make you a present of it if you feel even a twinge with the worst abscessed tooth. I DO NOT PRICK the gums, but leave them quite healthy, and if you have a weak heart or are delicate my anaesthetic is just what you require. I have extracted all the teeth of of one old lady over 80 years of age, and she suffered neither pain nor ill effects. I often have patients of three years of age.

Open till 6 p.m. daily (Saturdays included); Until 9 p.m. Fridays.

An excellent response was made on Monday by owners and trainers of racehorses to the call for entries for the race meeting which takes place on the 24th inst. at Randwick in aid of the Belgian National Fund, the half-dozen items on the programme attracting no fewer than 239 nominations, including four from Melbourne.

The following donations were received yesterday at the office of the Australian Jockey Club towards the meeting to be held in aid of the Belgian National Fund:—Members of the A.J.C., Messrs. E. J. Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that the b c Telecles, by Poseidon from Trinket, was sold on Monday to Messrs. Wilkinson and Lavender, Ltd., for 140 guineas.

The jockey Nerine, who fell off Eastern Sea in the Welter Handicap at the S.A.J.C. races on Saturday (telegraphs our Adelaide correspondent), died late on Sunday evening. The lad was most popular with the sporting fraternity in this State. He was a capable horseman, and will be greatly missed in sporting circles.

Training operations were conducted on the magpie track yesterday morning at Randwick, where Spring Girl opened proceedings by running five furlongs in 1m 8s. Miss Mooltan and Simon Frisco started off to traverse a round (1m 1f), but the latter pulled up at the end of a mile, and the mare came on alone, and recorded 2m 4s for the distance. Eugeny covered a mile at a steady pace, and Silvamor spurted a short distance. Big Bob and Warrabinga accounted for a round at a sturdy gait, and Ocean Blue and Coat o' Mail spurted a few furlongs. King Mostyn ran round the course in 2m 4s, while Hardy Norseman spurted half a mile. Necktie managed a useful round, and Flamboyant accounted for six furlongs in easy fashion. Taunter ran the last mile of a mile and a quarter in 1m 50s, but Sweet Malt and Royal Laddie were treated to half-mile spurts. Pink and Blue ran nine furlongs in 2m 4s, while Gillallambi occupied 1m 21s for six furlongs. Maltster Lass ran five furlongs, but Elystan went a furlong further. Merrimax, Golden Hop, Sir Vive, Torquinn, and Lingle, all worked usefully. Metallicus beat a companion over six furlongs, run in 1m 25s, on the tan, where Matouree ran a round in 2m 25s. Tartan's Double, Lavello, Hecate, and Speedfast, were sent at half-pace. Silver Steel, Giru, and Vif did useful tasks on the cinders.

SWIMMING.

PRAISE FOR AUSTRALIANS.

Mr. Francis Evans, who managed the Hawaiian team of swimmers on their tour of Australia and New Zealand last season, gave the "Sunday Advertiser" a very interesting interview on his return to Honolulu. Kahanamoku and Cunha took part in 60 races—27 in New Zealand and 33 in Australia—and also gave eight exhibitions of surf-board riding. Kahanamoku finished first in 20 races in New Zealand and 25 in Australia, despite ear trouble and sickness caused by the heat. Mr. Evans gives many figures regarding the tour, but his most interesting remarks were those relating to the standard and popularity of the sport here.

While Honolulu has every facility and a far superior climate to that of the Antipodes for holding swimming meets—they call them carnivals there—we are far behind the times here. The system of handicapping there is unsurpassed, and if Honolulu were to adopt the system, interest would increase a thousand per cent. In a handicap event everyone has a chance. In those races the number of entries has been as high as 125, and the way the system gets those men in the water and takes their times is marvellous. Boys begin at 10 years of age, and compete with men of 40, and likewise against champions of the world.

Time is a great thing with the Australian (continued the manager). Their carnivals, despite their being 15 to 20 events on the programme, are finished within two and a half hours. Everything is system with them, and it is the finest system in the world. Coupled with the swimming the Australians always have a diving event, and this is one of the features of the carnival. They wind up usually with the spreading dive, which is a flight of 10 or 12 men leaving the different platforms at once in a swan-dive. I never saw such interesting events in my life. Another thing which greatly helps make the carnivals a success is the dividing of the lanes. This is done with a rope stretched the whole length of the tank, with pieces of cork tied to same. A man will naturally touch this if he begins to get out of his lane, and immediately right himself.

As sportsmen the Australians are the best in the world, and they are so keen for a square deal that once they declined to stage an event in which Kahanamoku was an entrant for the reason that he had just completed a long train journey, and was not in a fit condition to race. (This was the proposed race between him and Longworth.)

In conclusion, I must say that the Australian people are the best and cleanest of sportsmen, and Kahanamoku, Cunha, and myself were treated so well and honourably all the way through that words cannot be found to express our gratitude.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION GAME.

VALEDICTORY TO OFFICIALS.

Major Buchanan when addressing the Drill Company last Saturday paid the Rugby Union a high compliment. He said that the union could not expect to send over 600 men to the war and also have a big attendance for drill at home, and he emphasised the need for every player to act as a recruiting sergeant, and see that the "barrackers" also put in an appearance next drill day.

On Saturday evening presentations were made to Major McManamey, Lieutenant Middleton, and Quartermaster-sergeant Beddie. Major McManamey is the president of the New South Wales Rugby Union, and has won renown in every position it has been possible for him to occupy in the game during his 33 years' connection. He was a player in the original interstate game with Queensland in 1882, and, according to an account in the "Sydney Mail," was "an excellent dribbler and most tantalising to an enemy's quarter." Some years afterwards he became a referee, and developed into the best man in that respect Australia has known. Harold Judd, the old interstate forward, paid him a compliment when he said that if he had as much control at the front as he did over the game there was a fine military achievement ahead of him. As an administrator Mr. McManamey stands alone, and has done over 30 years' work on various committees. He was 16 years a member of the selection committee, being one of the first of a selection which succeeded Mr. Mont. Arnold as sole selector, and acting right up to 1913. As president he has shown a fine lead. He is second in command of the 19th Battalion.

Lieutenant Middleton and Quartermaster-sergeant Beddie have done useful work on the management committee of the union, and the former was a member of many international sides, including the Wallabies. He was also a member of the Olympic Games eight-oar crew, and is a fine all-round athlete.

Major McManamey stated that if it was right for sons to go to the front, it was also right for those fathers who had had military training to go also, to be of what service they could in protecting those sons.

RUGBY LEAGUE GAME.

SEASON'S OPENING.

The New South Wales Rugby League officially opened the 1915 campaign on Saturday under favourable conditions—brilliant sunshine and big crowds. The approximate "gates" reached well over £500, which compares favourably with the amount taken last season.

CHAMPIONS' POOR DISPLAY.

The game at the Sydney Cricket Ground proved an agreeable surprise to the supporters of Glebe. South Sydney were expected to open the season brilliantly, but instead of displaying their wonted dash and resourcefulness, they exhibited mediocre form. They finished the opening spell with an advantage of a single point, but they did not look like winning, excepting during the opening 10 minutes—their forwards lacked animation, and the backs failed to grasp their opportunities. The backs have probably never played worse. Their passing was immethodical; in fact, they displayed no combination. Hallett's handling and kicking were equally at fault. However, what the match lacked in high-class play was made up for by the strenuous work of the Glebe forwards—vigorous rushes and deadly tackling. South Sydney also performed capitally in the latter phase of the game. Glebe amply proved the truth of the old adage, "that it is finish than wins a hard-fought match," and their persistent efforts in the concluding fifteen minutes of the game thoroughly entitled them to the honours of the day.

The Red forwards, beaten only in isolated instances, were much the better lot. Claude O'Donnell, the ex-Union "rep.," had his first experience of League scrummaging methods, and was not long in proving M'Carthy's master in the art of heeling. The Southerners made O'Donnell's task comparatively easy when they adopted the "five" scrummage towards the close of the game.

In the loose, Gray and Pert, for Glebe were wonderfully quick on to the ball. The former was the "star" player of the match. He made many fine openings and showed a refreshing vigour and determination in all he did, and thus contributed largely to the side's success. Frank Burge's condition is not quite what it ought to be. His brother, A. B., too, was very sluggish. Regan and Bolewski were a happy pair both parting with the ball freely, whilst their general tactics and defence were good. Scannill was easily the best of Glebe's third line; he showed rare headiness at times, and performed ably in defence. Legg did many useful things, but should resort now and again to the cross-field kick instead of "hugging" the touchline. Hickey's generalship was capital, and played no mean part in Glebe's success, but the ex-Wallaby and Kangaroo centre three-quarter has lost all his old-time dash. Doerner, at full-back, performed meritoriously. His try was a fitting reward for his energetic following methods. He is a fine full-back in the making.

AN EXCITING GAME.

There have been few more strenuous exhibitions at Wentworth Park than that provided by Balmain and Newtown. The latter led by 5 points, and 15 minutes from the close of the play it looked as though they must win, for Balmain seemed utterly disconcerted. But the latter rallied for a while, and the scores were made level amid great excitement. Right up to the end the issue hung in the balance, and the Balmain spectators must have breathed a sigh of relief when Russell failed to goal from the penalties awarded in the closing stages of the game. The scores—11 all—reflect the run of the game. Each side landed four goals, and the respective goal-lines were only crossed on a single occasion. For Balmain Schultz was the pick of the vanguard, and Kelly, Fraser, and Halloway shared the honours of the back division. Ryan, Barnett, and M'Cue did a tremendous amount of work for Newtown's front line, and the bulk of the good work accomplished by the team's backs fell to the lot of R. Farnsworth, Collins, Bain, and Bolt.

ANNANDALE ECLIPSED.

Annandale were outclassed in all the finer points of the game by Eastern Suburbs at the Agricultural Ground. The Annandale forwards at times showed to advantage, and, on the whole, did well; but the clever Cubitt and the Eastern "threes" simply eclipsed their opponents. They gathered points in their most approved style, and finished winners by 25 points to 3. For Eastern Suburbs tries were secured by Frawley, Dalton, Duffy, Watkins, and Cubitt. Messenger converted three and landed three penalty goals. Brownlee registered Annandale's only score—a try.

FINE MATCH AT CONCORD.

Western Suburbs played finely against North Sydney at St. Luke's Park, and disputed the honours right up till the sounding of "no side" whistle. Their forwards played grittily against a very clever and fast lot of backs. However, the latter would not be stalled off, even though the tackling by Courtney and his men never let up for a single moment. Stewart, the ex-Newington College crack, who played a season or two back with Newtown League, made a favourable reappearance as full-back. Blinkhorn and Taplin, for the other backs, and Farney, for the forwards, also contributed largely to the northerner's victory.

THE ASSOCIATION GAME.

INTERESTING DISTRICT LEAGUES.

The rounds disposed of in the first League (Rawson Challenge Cup) have resulted in Pyrmont and Granville sharing the honours, next in order being Glebe. The State champions were expected to hold their present position, but, without detracting from the merit of their performances, the deeds of Pyrmont and Glebe stand out in bolder relief. The defeat of Annandale took some encompassing, but Pyrmont played with the vigour of youth and the spur of heredity, and are to be congratulated on their performance. If they can revive past glories of that district, they will be as worthy of immortal renown as are Rangers, Rovers, and Volunteer of old. Next Saturday, at University Oval, the leaders will meet, and a fine duel should ensue, notwithstanding the disparity in experience between Granville and Pyrmont. Glebe have performed excellently to date, and are fortunate in the possession of such keen enthusiasts as Messrs. Moore and McGee. From six playing members hardly a month ago the list has swelled out to nearly 30; so big things can be expected this season from the one-time champions. Drummoyne and Sydney are at the reverse end of the table, but, if effort counts at all, that state of affairs should not last long. Drummoyne have the advantage of splendid management, keen members, and a first-class playing area—Drummoyne Oval. Sydney, although dropping points, are improving, and will go far. The efforts made by levanting practitioners to send the club to oblivion have been a huge failure, and enthusiasts Hughes, Thompson, and Coomes are looking forward to better things. The closest of last Saturday's games was the early fixture at University Oval, where Pyrmont triumphed 2 to 1.

On Empire Day teams will travel to Wollongong and Newcastle under the aegis of the Club League and the Newcastle branch, the return being arranged for June 3 in Sydney. These matches will give the interstate selectors a wide field of operation in view of the interstates scheduled for June and August. The teams for Empire Day will be selected on May 19, and clubs should have all nominations forward not later than May 18. Besides these inter-association courtesies, and Empire match is listed for University Oval, Australia v British Isles, and nominations for places should be sent in at once. Thirroul will also come to town to play Y.M.C.A. on the same day, at University Oval.

Matters have shaped a promising course on the South Coast, and the new helmsman—J. M'Dougall—is sanguine of a good season despite a late start. A progressive step has been made in resting the management of the code in the officials—Messrs. Rae, Dalton, M'Dougall, Ferns, Kerr, Cunningham, and Broadhead—who will report monthly to a delegate meeting. Senior teams should be in evidence at Thirroul, Bulli, Scarborough, Corrimal, and Balgownie, whilst a plethora of lower grades already exists. Bode's fine grounds at Wollongong will be headquarters.

THE AUSTRALIAN GAME.

PROSPECTS OF THE SEASON.

The season will open on Saturday with the competition games for the League premiership, which carries with it the right to hold the Norwood Shield for a season, or until defeated for premier honours. The happenings of the last few months have to some extent dulled the enthusiasm of many ardent workers for the game. These circumstances, taken in conjunction with the war, leave room for doubt as to the coming season being as successful as its predecessor. The second Grade Association is a lethargic body, no real effort having been made to call the clubs together. Unless something be done speedily many fine products of school and junior football will be lost to the game. The majority of League clubs will apparently have a surfeit of players, due to influx from those States which have suffered so severely from drought and unemployment during the past six months.

South Sydney reports that two-thirds of last season's premier team will be unavailable through war and retirements. New players in Knight, Hagon, Breheny, Evans, and others will compensate for the losses. Sydney expect to place as good a team in the field as has ever appeared in the club's behalf. Their recruits are players of quality. Central-Western are confident they can improve on last season, when they occupied fourth position on the premiership list, beating Newtown in the play off for the semi-final games. Paddington have a large number of last season's players still available, and as they ran into third position last year, their chances for premier honours this season are bright.

Newtown will have a better team than last season; but from some unaccountable reason East Sydney have lost playing prestige under the district scheme. It is known what many good players reside within the district, and if these can be enrolled a forward move by the Easterners would be assured. North Sydney have unexpectedly failed to enter the ranks this season. The club delegates when attending the League's annual meeting gave no hint of such a happening. As the district will now become an unallotted one till the re-formation of the club, the players in the district will strengthen those clubs which they may join.

ATHLETICS.

CROSS-COUNTRY SEASON.

With the cancellation of the annual Parramatta-to-Sydney and three-mile cup open road races the already small programme of open events to be carried out this season will be further curtailed, and the list of road races open to all A.A.A. clubs will be the smallest on record. The three-mile handicap was first promoted by the South Sydney club in 1907, and has been conducted regularly each year by that body. A year later the Parramatta-to-Sydney race, which, with the lapsing of the Marathon race, became the longest distance event of the year, was organised. In the early stages this race was well supported, but the list of nominations has decreased upon each occasion, until it has been deemed advisable to eliminate it. However, members of the promoting club will not suffer by the new arrangement, as a splendid list of events for members has been drawn up, and never before have members of any body affiliated to the A.A.A. been so liberally catered for in the way of competition and prizes. The East Sydney club has fixed the five-miles novice cross-country championship for June 26, and the same club's open 2½ miles road race will take place on July 10. These, with the five-miles cross-country championship of the State on July 24, and the 10-miles championship to be controlled by the South Sydney club a week later, are at the present time the only open events listed for the consideration of athletes during the winter months.

It has not yet been definitely decided whether the Australasian cross-country championship will be conducted this year. It was Victoria's duty to control this race in 1914, but the association in that State deemed it inadvisable to promote the event owing to the war, and permission was granted to defer it for a year. Conditions are no brighter now, and the southern association has decided to ask for a mail vote amongst all bodies affiliated to the A.A.U. of Australia and New Zealand as to the advisability or otherwise of carrying out the championship this year. It appears almost certain that the vote will be against the promotion of the race, for each State will find it extremely difficult to organise a combination as strong as in the past, while the majority of associations are in such financial difficulties that trouble will be encountered in securing the necessary funds to send a team across. The question will be debated at the next meeting of the council of the New South Wales A.A.A., and the result will be forwarded to the Victorian Association.

At the Manly sports, to be held on Saturday next an 880 yards handicap, open to all members of the New South Wales A.A.A., will be included. The nominations are few, yet the quality engaged indicates that a keen race will be witnessed. Members of the New South Wales Walking and Field Games Club will compete in a one mile walking handicap.

There were few athletic meetings arranged for Saturday last, the rainfall during the previous week causing a number of clubs to refrain from setting down fixtures, as there appeared every likelihood of the day being wet. At Hurstville a carnival was held in aid of the Belgian Fund, excellent weather prevailing for the gathering. At this meeting clubs were offered the opportunity of providing events for members, and an open relay race was included, but as the majority of track men have retired for the season it was difficult to secure a nomination. The East Sydney and Walking and Field Games clubs, however, attended, the former body conducting three events, and the walkers indulged in a one mile handicap. The Botany Harriers were engaged at Booralie Park, where a three miles track race, also 75 yards, and three standing jumps handicaps were decided. A. Simmons recorded a dual victory, placing the last-named two events to his credit. The only other reunion was at Mascot, where Redfern and South Sydney clubs' cross-country runners combined in a journey over an excellent course. This route is an ideal one for long-distance training, including, as it does, a number of hills, fences, and water jumps.

BOWLS.

PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY MOSES AND LAWSON.

"A splendid game, won by the undoubted champions," was the general verdict regarding the final for the pairs championship of the State, played at Waverley green on Monday afternoon. The contestants were Harry Lawson and Harry Moses, of Ashfield Club, and Harvey Taft and Harry Thorpe, of City Club—a conflict of aitches in which the honours went to the pair of Harrys. There was a good attendance of prominent bowlers, including L. Waxman, single-handed champion of Australia; J. Harrison, A. Chandler, and J. Reeder (State selectors), W. Donaldson (pair champion with H. Thorpe, last year), J. Leitch (ex-State champion), W. Pettigrew (champion, 1914-15), H. Harris (City Club), and Dr. Lamrock (president, Waverley Club).

The weather was cool, the breeze light, and the green perfect. The game was such a good one that bowlers will appreciate a record with some detail:—

(1) Poor lead. Taft and Thorpe got the length with their third and fourth bowls. Moses drove twice, and failed. City counted 3.

(2) Lawson drew two beautiful leaders to the jack. They survived all attack, and City led 3-2.

(3) A weak lead. Moses drew two good counters. Thorpe rested one luckily, but was in turn rested out by Lawson. Taft sent up two fine shots, but no change took place. Ashfield led 4-3.

(4) Perfect draw to jack by Lawson. His two leaders beat Taft, who nevertheless, played a good one. Thorpe shifted the jack, and his bowl went with it. Taft drew another. Moses drove the jack into the ditch and lay one. Thorpe put his third and fourth bowls into the ditch. Ashfield, 5-3.

(5) A poor lead. Moses drew two. Thorpe played a yard on to the jack, and Ashfield back-wood counted two with a measure for three. Taft failed. Moses drew two more, Thorpe failed, and the tape gave Ashfield 4, making the score 9-3.

(6) Taft drew one. Moses rested it out and lay by the jack. Lawson drew another, and with his next went for backwood, but drew a third. Moses put a bowl at the back as the position was dangerous. Thorpe carried the jack, but Moses' back bowl became the shot. Thorpe had a chance to take it out for 6, and went close. It was a narrow escape for Ashfield. Score: 10-3.

(7) Lawson drew one. Thorpe promoted an Ashfield bowl to a counting position, and Moses promoted another and lay 3. Thorpe drove and made a dead-end. Playing off, Taft drew one. Moses put in a good second. Lawson was applauded for a lovely resting counter, and then drew another. Thorpe saved one, and Ashfield led, 11-3.

(8) Taft carried the jack and lay 2. Lawson and Moses put up a barrier against themselves, and after losing six ends running, City scored 2. Ashfield led 11-5.

(9) Lawson drew 2 in a shorter end. Taft drew second shot. With his last bowl Moses turned Taft's wood in, and City scored. Ashfield led 11-6.

(10) Taft drew 2 and Thorpe 1. With his fourth bowl Lawson got the shot. Thorpe drove and made a dead-end. Playing off, Taft drew one and Thorpe another. Moses first drew a second, and then the absolute—a beauty. Taft again got the shot amid cheers. Lawson made a fine effort. Moses was a shade wide, and a great end gave City 1. Ashfield led 11-7.

(11) Lawson drew 2—a perfect lead, one on the jack and one a bit behind. Thorpe drove and the jack went into the ditch with the nearest bowl four yards away. Moses drew a splendid one within two or three inches of the ditch. Lawson drew 2 more, not so close, and Taft put his two into the ditch. Thorpe drew a magnificent second shot. Ashfield led 12-7.

(12) Taft drew one. Moses went better with a toucher. When Thorpe played his last bowl Ashfield was 2, one was nipped out and Ashfield led 13-7.

(13) Lawson put in one. Thorpe, with a wick, got a second. Moses faced it and lay 2. With his third bowl Thorpe carried the jack and lay 2. Moses had a good chance to save, but was too heavy. Thorpe put in another and took 3. Ashfield led 13-10.

(14) A good lead with Taft lying one. Moses played a yard on, took the jack, and lay 3. A good effort by Thorpe failed, and Ashfield led 16-10.

(15) Taft carried the jack and lay 2. Thorpe added one. Moses drew the second—a great shot. Lawson drove, sent the jack on, and lay shot several feet away. With his fourth bowl he drew right on to kitty, carried it, and still lay one. Moses drew another. Thorpe drove without success, and Ashfield led 18-10.

(16) A weak lead, with Lawson lying 1. Moses drew to the jack, and put his second bowl alongside. Thorpe played firm, and just tickled the jack. Moses played his third bowl into his cluster, and lay 4. Thorpe played short with his third. With his last he played narrow, but front timber straightened his bowl, and finally sent it up to shot, saving four. Ashfield led 18-11.

(17) Lawson drew one. Thorpe carried the jack and got the shot (perhaps 2). Moses clouted both out with a terrific drive, and lay one. Lawson put in two more. On changing ends, Thorpe found he had by mistake already played three bowls instead of two. However, with his only bowl, he drew a magnificent counter. Moses had two consecutive bowls, but failed. Ashfield led 18-12.

(18) Taft drew 2, and Thorpe another. Moses saved one, and finally tried a drive, which found the narrowest possible passage between the jack and the absolute. Ashfield led 18-14.

(19) Taft played a perfect leading bowl, and Thorpe put in a second just behind it. Moses drove and made a dead-end. Playing off, Lawson drew nicely to the jack, but Taft rested him, and lay one. Moses replied with a great shot the absolute. Lawson drew another. The jack was in view, and Taft went up a dazzling shot right on to it, which carried it (an inch or two) against an Ashfield wood. Both were touching the jack. Thorpe failed to separate them. Having the lead, Moses was content with a tie, and threw away his fourth bowl. No score. Ashfield led 18-14.

(20) A weak lead. Moses got a rub from a front wood, and lay one. Lawson drew the absolute. Thorpe drove, but Ashfield counted three, which Moses, with his last, converted into 4. Ashfield led 22-14.

(21) Taft drew 2. Moses drew the shot. A good lead out, of which Ashfield got one. Final scores: Ashfield 23, City 14.

Lawson and Taft had a great battle. Analysis of the ends shows that there were five in which neither shone with his leading bowls. Of the remaining sixteen Taft had the advantage in nine and Lawson in seven. Taft put both bowls in five times, and Lawson four times. But with his third and fourth bowls Lawson was frequently deadly, and equalised matters. He showed a preference for long ends; there were no really short ends from first to last. City might profitably have tried short ends. Thorpe played a fine game, but was, nevertheless, the least effective on the day owing to the perverse luck with which he just missed effecting his object on various occasions. Moses played the best game of the four, and drove, drew, and played position shots like a master. It was a memorable game, and was not won until the 20th end.

The annual dinner of the Kuring-gai Club will be held at Warrawee on Saturday next as part of the programme of the postponed Belgian Fund fete, which takes place in the beautiful grounds of the club.

A metropolitan team will visit Berry on Saturday next in connection with the opening of the new green.

The Katoomba Club will hold competitions open to all visitors on Belgian Day, the proceeds to go ot the fund of our worthy Allies. Play will start at 10 a.m. with a rink competition.

BASEBALL.

COMPETITION GAMES.

The form in the various games in the district division on Saturday did not compare favourably with those of the opening rounds. From present appearances three teams—Waverley, Leichhardt, and Petersham—are appreciably better than the remainder. This is regrettable, as it necessarily follows that many of the contests are likely to be one-sided and lack interest, particularly when any of the three teams mentioned meet the presumably weaker ones. It is to be hoped that those teams that have been obliged to fill the blanks in their ranks with junior players will soon work up a degree of combination and efficiency somewhat equal to the best. Much is to be expected in this respect from Gordon and University, both of which have several new first-grade players who only need a little more experience.

The match between Petersham and Gordon was, after the first few innings, rendered interesting only by the individual plays and the likelihood of G. Campbell, pitching for Petersham, "chicagoing" the opposition. He succeeded. The Gordon side cannot be set down as being weak in batting, and on several occasions they looked dangerous with men on bases. Campbell, however, by steadiness, backed up by excellent fielding, got his side out of trouble every time. The fielding of Petersham was a treat, only one error, and that the failure of J. Smith to bring off the second part of a possible double play.

Paddington and St. George played a loose game at Waverley, neither team showing district division form. The scoring was equal—10/9. The former team has been weakened by the absence of the American contingent, which made the side formidable last season. They have had to recruit from the junior ranks, and will need several matches to work up combination. St. George, making their first appearance this season in the first grade, are not represented by their full strength. Their promotion has created a stir, one club of fine experience standing out against the management. It is hoped that better counsels will prevail, and permit of the strongest team being selected.

University were without F. M. Farrar as pitcher on Saturday; nevertheless, they defeated Mosman-North Sydney on the home ground of the latter. The winners scored the bulk of their runs in their fifth innings, when no fewer than eight runners crossed the plate. Previous to this the local team had been in the lead, but were only able to notch two runs in their last five innings—14-6.

Leichhardt, with their fine combination, had an easy win over Burwood—22-3. The result of the game was never in doubt, and there was, therefore, but little interest in the contest.

CRICKET REFORM.

I.

AN ECHO FROM ENGLAND.

The eight-ball-over proposal of the New South Wales Cricket Association, as we anticipated, met with no particular favour in the "old country." It found its way there, it is true, at a most inopportune time—when clubs were being disbanded right and left, and when the question of the hour was not how cricket should be played, but whether, for some indefinite time to come, cricket should be played at all. Moreover, the proposal first found its way there in the somewhat misleading cable message. "In order to restore the popularity of cricket, the New South Wales Association has resolved that eight balls shall constitute an over, provided that the other States of the Commonwealth agree." That message must certainly have appeared somewhat vague; the insertion of the words "in New South Wales" after "cricket" would have improved it. England does not feel the need for the restoration of the popularity of the game as we in Sydney have lately done. Neither do many other places where good first-class cricket is played. The need, in fact, is essentially a local one, and the remedy should have been made a purely local one. Naturally, therefore, the proposal found small welcome "at home." We doubt very much whether the New South Wales Association ever intended to suggest that eight balls to the over should be the universal usage. If so, it was a mistake to follow the course adopted. Further, apart from there being no call for the change, on the grounds specified, the English view readily doubted whether the remedy would be effective, and the critics there were moved to the commentary that "the popularity of cricket in Australia cannot be in desperate need of restoration if its health requires nothing more urgent than the increase of two balls per over."

A PURELY LOCAL CONCERN.

Now, the fact of the matter is that the whole affair should hardly have been brought before the English critics at all; it was never the intention of those who brought the matter forward that it should be more than a local concern. We cannot blame the cable man. The fault discovers itself in the resolution itself, and, therefore, on those who framed it, for to try to foist a local remedy for a local malady upon those at a distance, who do not want it, is not a policy worthy of commendation.

What is the history of the eight-ball proposal? Recently the need for improvement in our local cricket had been growing more and more insistent. The association appointed a special committee to inquire into the cause of the malady, and, if possible, suggest the remedy. After months of consideration, the committee submitted its report, which included, amongst many other things, a suggestion about the 8-ball over. The meeting of delegates pulled the latter to pieces, chopped it up, and tried to reconstruct by amendment, and, as so often happens in these circumstances, agreed upon a resolution which was neither one thing nor the other, and did not, we venture to think, represent the real views of the majority of the delegates. As will be remembered, it was decided to play eight balls to the over in all matches under the auspices of the association, provided the other States were agreeable. Why the conduct of our local competitions should depend upon the opinion of the other States is quite enigmatical. It is our local cricket that needs rejuvenating.

INNOVATION A PROBABLE LOCAL BOON.

The eight balls to the over proposal was a healthy attempt to enliven our local cricket in one of these places in which it most needs enlivening. One of the outstanding drawbacks to our local competitions is the limited time at the players' disposal on Saturday afternoons. By increasing the length of the over, it has been shown that the duration of actual play will be increased to an amount equivalent to an extra half hour's or more play under the present conditions in the afternoon. That extra half hour should be a veritable boon to local cricket; it is urgently needed, in fact. It is not called for in anything like the same degree in first-class cricket. Besides, there are other and better ways of increasing the day's play in interstate cricket (e.g., making an earlier commencement). Obviously, therefore, the eight-ball over proposal should have been limited to our local cricket as a means of improving local conditions. It is a mistake to expect more of it from the present. The obvious thing to do surely was to give it a trial in grade cricket, which could be done without any tampering with the laws of the game, and without going to other States for their opinion. If the innovation proved a success, no doubt it would be speedily adopted by other cricketing corporations, just as other innovations of local birth have been adopted and adapted to other conditions. Though its value as a time-saver is the all-important feature of the proposal, incidentally it may, to some extent, enliven proceedings on the field, though it would not "brighten" cricket in the manner that those who regard cricket as an entertainment rather than a game of skill desire that the game should be brightened. The actual attractiveness of the play, from this point of view, is for the most part a matter that rests with the players themselves. You cannot put the genius of a Trumper or a Jessop into players through the agency of any code of rules or regulations.

REFORM MEASURES STILL NEEDED.

All the same, there can be no doubt that the standard of our play needs improving. It has fallen, especially in grade matches, a good deal below what it should be, and what it used to be. The eight-ball over is not going to bring the standard of our play back to what it ought to be, but it has its place, with intelligent limitation, in the scheme of reform that the authorities are anxious to initiate. Precisely what are the reasons for the obvious deterioration of the standard of our play it is not easy to determine. Many reasons have been put forward—some very trivial, some of great import—and we believe it is only by a careful consideration of them all and a judicious selection that reform measures of real value may be evolved.

VICTOR TRUMPER'S HEALTH.

Cricketers and cricket enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that Victor Trumper, who has been confined to his home during the past nine weeks, is making steady progress towards convalescence. He is now able to get about a little.

CEYLON SCHOOLBOYS.

THE PROPOSED TOUR.

In Monday's "Herald" brief mention was made of a proposed visit of Public schoolboys from Ceylon to Australia. Whilst in Sydney recently, Principal A. G. Fraser, of Trinity College, Kandy, Ceylon, made the suggestion, and it is likely to bear fruit.

When the team of Australian cricketers, captained by the Rev. E. F. Waddy, visited Ceylon two years ago they were very well treated by the Trinity College officials, and some of the boys belonging to the college took part in a match played between Mr. Waddy's eleven and a combined Public schools' team.

During the past season the Trinity College team outplayed the other schools. They not only won the premiership, but their victories were so substantial that their smallest was by 240 runs. Principal Fraser thinks that it would be an excellent idea for a schoolboy team to come to Australia next year, just as much from the educational viewpoint as from that of the sporting. And if the tour be decided on, it has already been arranged that the boys be granted exemption to land in Australia.

The Rev. E. F. Waddy thinks that the proposed trip would do an incalculable amount of good, apart from the sporting and educational experience to be gained therefrom by the Ceylonese. When Mr. Waddy's team was in Ceylon the feeling towards Australia was very bitter there owing to Dr. Aserappa, a resident of Ceylon, being denied the privilege of landing in Australia. Now, if the boys from Ceylon be allowed to land—and it has been so arranged—then the anger of the Ceylonese will be appeased.

Mr. Waddy is not in favour of promoting international sporting events among men at the present juncture, but he thinks that no exception can be taken to fostering the Imperial spirit amongst the youth of the different parts of the Empire. It is intended that the visiting schoolboys should visit Melbourne as well as Sydney.

LAWN TENNIS.

HOLIDAY EVENTS.

There will be no interstate matches nor great tournaments for some time, the next meeting of importance being that in Brisbane in August, when the match between Queensland and New South Wales will be followed by the Australasian championships. The last time these were held in Brisbane was in 1907, when H. Rice won the singles, the doubles being secured somewhat unexpectedly by H. A. Parker and W. A. Gregg from H. Rice and G. W. Wright.

Although there will be no fixtures of moment before then, players will have many opportunities of taking part in competition. The holidays on Empire Day, King's Birthday, and Prince of Wales' Birthday will be utilised by many clubs for American system tournaments. The Western Suburbs Association is promoting one of these for May 24 on a somewhat larger scale than usual. With the object of assisting the Belgian Relief Fund, to which the proceeds are to be given, an endeavour is being made to arouse interest in the event by inviting the foremost players to participate, and a novel feature in the form of an aldermanic set is expected to prove an attraction.

Metropolitan teams will make their third annual expedition to country towns on King's Birthday. "Country Day" has not caught on as satisfactorily as "Country Week," probably because metropolitan players have so many more tournaments and matches than those in the country, that the element of novelty is absent. This applies more particularly to the higher-grade players who, in the past, have not supported "Country Day" to any considerable extent. This is regrettable, because they could do so much good, and give so much pleasure to others, by competing on country courts.

The familiar winter experience of a fine day and wet courts prevented the semi-finals of A grade being played on Saturday last, the ground being too wet as the result of rain on the previous day. With turf courts a means of expediting the drying of a court recently adopted in America cannot be employed. This was to pour petrol over them and ignite it. The plan was made use of on the hard courts at Palm Beach, where the championships of Florida were being played, and proved effective.

LACROSSE.

COMPETITION GAMES.

The second round of the lacrosse competition games was played on Saturday, and decided improvement in the play was noticeable. Petersham defeated University at Burwood in an interesting game. Petersham men were in far better form than on the previous Saturday; more attention was paid to combination, and the younger players will soon develop into very useful exponents. University played for the first time this season, and with some coaching should make a good solid team. Lacrosse players are gratified that the 'Varsity Club has succeeded in getting a team together.

Another match was played at Burwood, when Federal I. beat Birchgrove by 5 goals to 2. Both teams played well all-round. A slightly better method in the way of combination won the game.

The match between Manly District and Federal II., that was set down to be played at Moore Park, fell through owing to the latter team being some men short.

East Sydney easily accounted for St. George on the latter's ground, the scores being 10 goals to 2. The playing area at Kogarah is not calculated to produce the best results; and, considering this fact, the game was an exceedingly good one.

East Sydney tried out three new men in Mason, Hopkins, and Montana, all of whom acquitted themselves well, Mason scoring two goals. The most prominent men on the St. George side were Meyer, Houston, and Portus, the lastnamed scoring twice.

The referee problem was discussed at a recent meeting of the association, and Mr. Stan. Meyers was appointed an organising secretary, with a view to forming a referees' association and putting this phase of the game on a sound footing.

The association has secured the patronage of his Excellency the State Governor, the Lord Mayor, and the Consul for Belgium for the Hock-Crosse Carnival on May 29, tickets for which are now available.

LADIES' LACROSSE.

The Ladies' Association, which comprises the Olympian, Karweens A and B, and Manly clubs, together with the schools, will open the season's competitions at the end of May or early in June. Twenty-four players have been chosen to practise for the exhibition match at the carnival on May 29. A meeting was held last Saturday conjointly with the Women's Hockey Association, and some details were arranged in connection with that function. The following officers have been elected for the year:—President, Mrs. Long; vice-president, Miss J. Walker; hon. treasurer, Miss Maloney; hon. secretary, Miss Godbold; assistant hon. secretary, Miss Helm.

ROWING.

S. PEARCE V A. WILSON.

Sydney Pearce is very anxious to fix up the proposed long-distance match in pleasure skiffs against A. Wilson, and is willing to risk as much as £25 on the result. Not much is known of Wilson in Australia, but he challenged Ernest Barry to a match across the English channel. Wilson's challenge had gone unheeded since prior to the Anniversary Regatta, and the wonder is that a man of B. Thoroughgood's calibre did not respond to the challenge before.

Syd. Kemp and Claude Jardyne have joined Felton's camp at the Spit, Kemp as pace-maker and adviser, and Jardyne as massager. Towns will, of course, have the assistance of his brother George, as well as the best of boats and expert advice. The fact that Felton refused to row Towns for less than £250 a side points to the fact that he regards his second meeting with the ex-world's champion very seriously. Towns was determined to get the race, and although at first only prepared to row for £100 a side, found the full amount that Felton required.

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIPS.

HEAVY COURSES AND GOOD SCORES.

After several days of heavy rain, Saturday provided delightful weather, and the majority of clubs held competitions. The fairways and greens were everywhere on the heavy side, but generally this did not adversely affect the play, and scores were better than ordinarily. This was the case at Kensington, where the Australian Club held a bogey competition in aid of the Belgian Fund for one of a number of gold medals presented by two of the members. The event resulted in a triangular tie, G. T. Balcombe (scr.), A. E. Andrews (4), and P. McWilliam (12) each returning cards of 2 up, while T. Smith (scr.), E. L. Apperly (+1), E. A. Roberts (7), and G. Wright (15) were close behind with good returns of 1 up. Singularly enough, the majority of the players named failed over the last few holes, or the cards would have been still better. Balcombe was dormy 4, and had a good chance for a 74, but lost the last 3 holes badly. Andrews was 3 up with 4 to go, and McWilliam had a fine chance for 3 up, but came to grief at the last hole. Apperly, too, by fine play, was 4 up at the 14th, but lost 3 of the remaining 4 holes. The course was, perhaps, a little easier than usual, for, owing to flood waters, both the second and sixth holes were shortened, and elsewhere the forward tees were used. The ground was heavy, and gave very little run to the balls. Balcombe's card reads as follows:—

Out .... 4 5 4 4 5 5 2 4 4=37
In .... 5 2 5 4 4 5 3 5 7=40—77

A. E. Andrews is a rapidly-improving player, and on Saturday played very steadily, being only one over bogey for each half of the round, his card totalling 81—41 out and 40 home. McWilliam made a remarkable recovery, as after being 1 down at the turn, he halved and won alternate holes to the 17th, where he was 3 up. He had an easy half at the 18th, but put a short approach into the timber guarding the green, and lost his chance of an outright win.

Drummoyne, Killara, and Parramatta each held competitions for the war fund medals presented by the Suburban and Country Golf Association. In the first-mentioned club, no fewer than three players tied with cards of 3 up, and another, G. P. Arnold (9), was close behind with 2 up. R. R. Ferrier (8), G. Solomon (8), and A. V. Maxwell (18) will play off for the medal. At Killara three players returned cards of 2 down, which were, however, beaten by that of A. E. Hough (14), who was 2 down at the turn, but won the next 5 holes in figures creditable to a scratch player—4, 5, 3, 3, 4, bogey being 5, 5, 3, 4, 4. He did not maintain this form to the finish, as he could only halve one hole. The round of G. B. O. Tuck, who won the event at Parramatta, was the best recorded on the course for some time. He made few mistakes, and his card read: 78—6=72.

In view of the very heavy state of the Manly links, the round of 78 recorded by D. G. Ferrier (scr.) was a very fine performance. His figures, which are worthy of mention, were:—

Out: 4, 7, 4, 5, 7, 4, 3, 4, 4=42
In: 3, 4, 5, 4, 5, 3, 4, 3, 5=36

At Concord H. Osborne and R. H. Meares had a runaway win in the 4-ball match v bogey. They were 5 up going out, not losing a single hole, and coming home they won 4 holes, lost one, and halved 4, finishing 8 up, a fine return, even in a four-ball game. In a similar competition at Hunter's Hill, Doctors McDouall and Duncan tied with H. R. Lysaght and H. J. Somerset, the cards reading 5 up, two other pairs being 5 up. Another tie occurred at Dobroyde, where F. S. Shenstone (4), H. F. Jones (10), and W. H. Cockburn (15) were each 1 down.

The Royal Sydney Club has arranged special golf, tennis, and croquet competitions for Saturday and Monday, 22nd and 24th inst., in aid of the Belgian Fund, and it is expected that a substantial contribution will result.

N.S.W. LADIES' UNION.

OPEN BOGEY COMPETITION.

The New South Wales Ladies' Union opened the season at the Royal Sydney Club links with an open bogey competition, for which there were 77 entries. The fees were given to the Australian Hospital Fund, and, with the addition of donations from Misses Clift and Wray, the fund will benefit to the extent of £5. Results:—

Mrs. Thiel (18), 5 down; Miss Gould (10), 7 down; Mrs. Foggitt (18), 7 down; Miss Duret (14), 8 down; Miss Kiss (7), 8 down; Miss Davidson (11), 8 down; Miss Jenkins (12), 9 down; Miss J. Cape (13), 9 down; Mrs. Vicars (18), 9 down; Miss Hutton (18), 9 down.

HOCKEY.

THE CLUB GAMES.

The second round of the club games was played on Saturday, and it introduced many junior men to the higher ranks. It was apparent that, nothwithstanding the absence of a number of old representative players, the game is not likely to lose its grip.

Bohemians had an easy victory over Sydneians by 7 goals to 3. The losing side failed in combination, due somewhat to selfishness, every man wanting to score. The Bohemians, on the other hand, played a very good game, in which Castle and Davenport were prominent. Castle was at right half, and Davenport was very sure at centre half. Hastey and Aines did some clever work in the forward line.

A very interesting match was played between University I. and Pilgrims. These teams are old rivals, and it must afford some satisfaction to the students that victory has come to them at last. This was probably the best game of the day, and the result was 2 goals to 1. Pilgrims, however, were short a man, and Newsome was an absentee from his place amongst the forwards; but the 'Varsity team was also below strength.

Hawkesbury Agricultural College first grade team had another win, this time against Buccaneers, when superior condition again told. The game was played at the Richmond ground, and the final scores were 2 goals to 1. The college second team was beaten very easily by Bandits, who put up 10 goals against no score.

An unfortunate misunderstanding occurred in regard to the Corona-University II. fixture. The former team did not put in an appearance, and, of course, lost the match by forfeit. Club secretaries should endeavour to avoid such occurrences. Keen players anticipate their Saturday games, and disappointment in their non-fulfilment is not calculated to induce continued interest.

There is a dearth of umpires this season. On Saturday some of the games were played with one referee, and it would be a distinct advantage to the game if capable umpires could be prevailed upon to give their services.

Matters in connection with the "Hock-Crosse" Belgian Fund carnival on May 29 are progressing satisfactorily.

BOXING.

Prizes won in the recent amateur boxing and wrestling championships of the State will be presented at the A.B.C. Cafe to-morrow evening, when the winners and losers will be entertained by the N.S.W. Sports Club, Ltd.

The lightweight championship of Australia will be contested at the Rushcutter Bay Stadium on Saturday next, when Herb. McCoy will be called upon to defend his title against Jack Clune. McCoy won the honours from Hughie Mehegan, and he will be a formidable opponent for his youthful rival. Clune has had a remarkably successful career, for his ring engagements cover a period of only two years. Leaving the amateur ranks, he showed promise in short-distance bouts, and a trip to America made marked improvement in his boxing. Since then he has beaten all his opponents in twenty-round engagements, his last victory being over featherweight champion Jimmy Hill.

Englishman Tom Cowler, who defeated Gordon Coghill in the three rounds last Saturday night in Melbourne, will meet Ben Doyle on the 22nd inst. at the Rushcutter Bay Stadium.

BILLIARDS.

It was a warm night, and the mist had cleared, and attracted presently by the brightness of one of the little restaurants he passed he discovered that he was hungry. He went in, therefore, and ordered a meal. As he ate it he glanced at an evening paper and turned it over to find some account of the afternoon's meeting at Issy.

To his surprise he could find no reference to it. Considering its importance and the large crowd which had been present this was unaccountable. He told the waiter to bring another paper; in which again there was no such news. Then he glanced at the date, and the paper all but fell from his hands.

"Friday, May 8th." He could scarcely believe his eyes. He snatched up the paper he had read first. The date was the same. What could it mean? More than six weeks since that night he had parted from Dick Gendall at Calais.

Six weeks. It staggered him.

Presently he called the waiter and asked for his bill. "You haven't dated it," he said.

"Pardon, it is there. May 8th," was the reply.

"Oh, I didn't see it"; and he gave the man a note. "By the way, hasn't there been a big flying meeting to-day at Issy?" he asked when the change was brought.

"There is flying every day there."

"But I mean a special one; a big affair."

"No. The last was five or six weeks ago. You are interested in flying? I was there. It was magnificent. It made one hold one's breath. There was that man Jean Colonne; ah, what that man could do. Wonderful," and hands and eyes were turned to heaven to emphasise the words.

"I heard about it. Has he done anything lately?"

"No flying; but have you not heard— Coming, sir," he broke off as a customer called him, and he hurried away.

Bob went out into the street with his thoughts in a whirl.

Six weeks since he had been knocked over by that car with the red-haired girl in it. Where had he been all the time? What had he done in the interval?

He was too level-headed to give way to any panic; but he could not resist a passing shiver of uneasiness as he ran over all he had heard since he had found himself in the small room in the villa staring at his mother's miniature in the ring.

He recalled what Enid had said about having seen him before, and that he had ill-treated her and even struck her. He had regarded this at the time as the result of her hallucination; but, of course, it must be true. It was he who had been out of his mind, not she. It accounted for the panic-stricken dread of him which she had shown when he entered the room. He must indeed have been mad to strike her.

Yet he could not have been raving, or they would have put him under restraint in some asylum. He began to understand then. The car must have inflicted some injury to his brain and destroyed his memory. He had heard and read of many cases of the sort where people were sane and sensible enough to all appearance, but utterly oblivious of the past.

"Heaven only knows what I may have done in that condition," he thought.

There was Enid's statement that he had been an accomplice of that scoundrel, Gaudin, and that he had driven the red car. The villain himself had said something to the same effect, with the lurid addition that he had promised to marry his daughter, Estelle. A pretty mess, if that were true. But this only raised a smile at the idea. Engaged to a girl whose very name he couldn't believe he had ever heard before, and whose father was the leader of a gang of thieves.

He made a strenuous effort to force his memory to recall the name, but without result. His mind was an absolute blank in regard to every moment of the last six weeks of his life; and unless Enid could give him some clue, there was no chance of ever learning what he had done.

He was getting near the inn where he had stayed when it occurred to him that he had better be cautious. To turn up there after so long an absence might lead to all sorts of questions; and if it was really the case that he had been associated with a set of scoundrels the questions would be very awkward to answer.

He paused, therefore, and crossing over to the brilliantly-lighted window of a milliner's shop, looked at himself in one of the mirrors.

Could that scarecrow, grimed like a tramp, with a beard and hair cropped close as if fresh from gaol, be himself? He put his hands to his cheeks and chin to make certain that his eyes were not playing him a trick; and then laughed once more. Small wonder that Enid had taken him for a scoundrel and the companion of scoundrels, and urged him to live an honest life. The villain who was grinning back at him looked the part to the life.

The change was astounding. His best friend, even Dick Gendall himself, would have passed him in the street without a thought of the truth.

"So much the better," he exclaimed aloud as he walked on. He had only to get rid of the beard and buy a decent suit of clothes, and not a soul in all Paris would know him. It was as the scarecrow that the police were looking for him; and at the thought of the police he stopped again and looked about for a barber's shop.

Suddenly he started with a catch of the breath at something which reached his ears. The name of Jean Colonne. Pulling himself together he looked round. A cabaret was close by, and at one of the outside tables a couple of men were drinking. He edged closer to listen just as one of them rose to go.

"But my dear fellow, they don't know it's the same Jean Colonne," said the one who was still sitting.

"Of course, it's the same. I heard it from Dupensier, the detective. He got the facts himself from Rouvelle, the airman. The darling of the beggar. The pity is they didn't nab him to-night. They got wind of a haunt of the scoundrels at Chatillon, and just as they reached the place the car came out. Dupensier was there himself. They followed; but they might as well have chased the wind. There was a girl with him, and they tracked them as far as St. Maur and Joinville, and then found the car abandoned in the Bois de Vincennes. Of course, the fellow himself had disappeared; but they've got a clear description of him and the girl as well, and they're hot on the track. They declare they'll get him before morning."

"In Paris, and with plenty of money," cried his companion, with a sceptical laugh. "Not they."

"Well, we shall see. They know where he stayed during the Issy week. Well, I must be off"; and with that the speaker went away.

"We shall see, my friend," murmured Bob to himself. "The luck's with me at any rate, or I should have gone blundering into that rotten little inn. But I've no time to lose"; and he walked off with a wary eye for every policeman he met.

CHAPTER IX.
RECOGNITION.

Bob's first thought was to get rid of his beard, and he hesitated whether to face the risk of going into a barber's shop or to take a safer course of buying a razor and some soap, and shaving himself in some quiet spot.

He decided for the barber. He knew Paris well, and soon found a very small place where workmen were the usual customers. The man was talkative and curious, and some hints he dropped showed that he guessed something of his customer's reason for wishing to make so great a change in his looks at such an hour.

This set Bob thinking. He did not wish the thing to reach the ears of the police. There were two inducements to make such a man keep his lips shut. Money was one, and personal safety another. Bob needed a change of clothes and if he could get the man to sell him one, he would hesitate a lot before talking to the police.

He let him chatter, and began to drop hints on his side. An understanding was quickly come to. Some clothes were produced, a hundred franc note changed owners, and when Bob left the house, he felt and looked like a different man.

"Good old luck,' he said with a smile as he stood under a lamp and let a policeman have a great stare at him.

There was just the chance, however, that the barber might talk, so he went to a ready-made clothes' shop and bought a really respectable suit, and put it on there and then, giving a fictitious address for the other to be sent "home."

This enabled him to go to a decent hotel, and he tumbled into bed, worn out by the day's exciting experiences, and fell asleep as if he hadn't a worry in the world. What he would do next could wait until the morning. But one thing was certain. Jean Colonne, so far as he was concerned, was as dead as a door nail and should rest in his grave for all time.

He woke late the next morning and lay thinking out his plans. He had two great desires. To see Enid Truscott as soon as possible and to hide the fact that he had lost six weeks of his life, and cut all possible connection between himself and whatever he might have done in that time.

Both were pressing: but for reasons which made him both smile and sigh, his desire to see Enid carried the day. He would not lose a minute in putting himself right with her. The other things could wait.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona, 'Herald' Office."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

A. R. W.—(1.) The fowls have a disease known as "going light," which is really tuberculosis. There is no cure. (2.) Oil cake is not a poultry food in itself, but takes the place of bran as an ingredient with pollard.

L. L. E., Arncliffe.—The latest-issued particulars of the various competitions at the Hawkesbury College appeared in last Saturday's issue. A number of pens which had laid less than two dozen eggs were omitted.

Pallal.—You can purchase a wart ointment from any of the produce dealers; or make one of sulphur and fat. A packet of Epsom salts to each dozen fowls should be given in the drinking water. The disease is a blood one, and extended particulars will be found in "Diseases of Fowls," issued, and posted free, by the Department of Agriculture on application.

Miranda.—The value of the eggs laid by the winning pen of White Leghorns at Burnley was £8/5/. The six birds laid 141 dozens and 7 eggs, which were sold at 1/2 per dozen. The best record for six Black Orpingtons was 130 dozens and 2 eggs.

Piquo.—A trio of the breed you mention will cost in England anything from £10 to £20. A trio at the latter price will prove the better investment. The breed is a good one, and the competition not so keen as in the reds.

E. H. J.—There is no breed of fowls to correspond with the colour you mention. They are probably some cross. Langshans and White Leghorns might produce similar coloured specimens, but they would most likely have some feathers on their legs.

In the report of the Parramatta Poultry and Cage Bird Show, the second-prize winner in the White Orpington pullet class, exhibited by Mr. John Hirst, was omitted.

The past week showed a distinct falling off in poultry supplies, with a consequent hardening of prices. This feature was experienced by all the auctioneers, and not too soon, as the rates had for several months in many cases been most disappointing to breeders. As the quantities will now show a weekly decrease, a continued advance in price is assured. Hens have experienced a rise of 6d per pair, and late-hatched cockerels 9d. Meaty table birds during the depression always sold well.

While the 400 cases of American eggs sold at the excellent price of 2s per dozen, it is scarcely likely much profit will accrue to the exporter. There is 6d per dozen duty; packing and packages, freight and insurance, landing charges, etc, run into another 3d, which, with commission at both ends, will reduce the net returns to slightly over 1s per dozen—a price not encouraging to oversea business in this product.

The high records made at the various Gatton (Q.) egg-laying competitions have been responsible for a considerable increase in entries for the competition which began on April 1. Fifty-three pens are competing, including 40 pens of White Leghorns, seven pens of Black Orpingtons, two of Silver Wyandottes, two Rhode Island Reds, and one pen each of Plymouth Rocks and Brown Leghorns. For the first month Black Orpingtons won the prize with 123 eggs, beating the next pen, White Leghorns, by one egg. Fifteen of the competing pens are from this State.

Despite the fixed prices of the Necessary Commodities Commission, deputations, newspaper correspondence, etc, poultry men are in a worse plight than ever, because pollard at any price is almost unprocurable. Many poultry farmers thought they would have special consideration, but millers come first and fowls afterwards. The result has been a wholesale clearance from many farms.

Mr. A. Allen advises that a club to further the interests of Orpingtons, Langshans, Rhode Island Reds, Sussex, and Sicilian Buttercups, has been formed, with Dr. Stopford (Balmain), as president. Donations already amounting to £11 11s have been received, with further promises of support. Anyone desirous of becoming a member may do so by sending name and address to the treasurer, Mr. H. A. Woolnough, Rooty Hill; or the secretary, Mr. A. Allen, Box 1255, G.P.O., together with subscription of 5s.

The current number of the "Agricultural Gazette" contains the annual report of the import and export branch of the Department of Agriculture, which includes a statement of the quantities of eggs stored for the season 1914-15. Eggs in shell and pulp treated by this process totalled 10,550,944 eggs, against 10,420,704 in the previous year, and was the highest number since the commencement of this business some 18 years ago. Those who store new-laid eggs in reliable rooms have done exceedingly well, many realising up to 1/9 per dozen.

At a meeting of the committee of the Poultry Club of New South Wales, Mr. J. F. Dalrymple donated £6 of prize money to the Rhode Island Red classes, in which he will not compete. Dr. Stopford gives £5 5s, among five classes; Mr. A. E. Powell contributes £2 2s; and Mr. S. R. Watkins, £1 1s. There were other donations in kind, which will relieve the club of much financial liability.

THE KENNEL.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

H.A.F. (Brisbane).—Letter to hand.

F.R. (Sydney).—Received with thanks.

B.L. (Petersham).—The judge you name declines to officiate.

G.F.B. (Stanmore).—They should be fed twice a day; a light meal in the morning, and a good one at night. You will find books on dogs at the leading Sydney booksellers' shops.

Nominations for the Sires and Dams' Produce Stakes of the Fox-terrier Club tested the quality of several of the candidates on Saturday last at the Illawarra Club's show. There should be a very keen competition for the stakes. Entries close on May 22, and they will be judged on June 19.

A nice team of fox-terriers has left the Ivanhoe kennels, Mr. F. Roberts having sold them to a fancier in Southern Tasmania. They are Ivanhoe Reverie, by ch. Crumbo (imp.)—Ivanhoe Belle; Ivanhoe Result, by Ivanhoe Reflector—Ivanhoe Rosette; and Ivanhoe Rare One, by Rattlesden Rarity (imp.)—Ivanhoe Radiance, a winner at the late combined show. These terriers have all scored both in Victoria and New South Wales under many judges.

JUDGING AT SHOWS.

"Justice" writes commending the cattle-dog judging at the Royal Show:—The best way to find out whether a judge does his work well is to hear private opinions of ringsiders—not exhibitors. At this show it is certain the judge gave every satisfaction. A well-known squatter and his wife, after judging, remarked to the writer: "We picked the winner almost every time."

J. L. Raith and "Myrmidon" write criticising the judging at the Illawarra Fox-terrier Show on Saturday, of the former's St. Marys Merit, on the ground that decisions in one class were reversed in another.

FOX-TERRIER SHOW.

The second annual show of the Illawarra Fox-terrier Club was held on Saturday at the Moorefield Hotel, Kogarah. Mr. F. Young judged. The principal winners were:—

STOCK DOG SHOW.

The Cattle-dog and Sheep-dog Club held a parade on Saturday at Mr. G. Oldham's paddock, Leichhardt. The kelpie section showed a falling off, but the cattle-dogs made good classes. Mr. G. Scott judged the former and Mr. G. Fox the latter breed.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.

IN BANCO.

(Before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Gordon.)

TROUBLE OVER SHARES.

Stephenson v Tate and another.

Mr. Broomfield and Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co., appeared for the defendants, who appealed against the verdict; and Mr. E. M. Mitchell and Mr. P. Halse Rogers, instructed by Messrs. Mark Mitchell and Forsyth, for the plaintiff, in support of the verdict. The action, which was tried before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four in March last, was brought by John Eric Stephenson against Herbert Tate, managing director, and Cecil Tate, assistant managing director, of the Stanmore Preserving Company, Ltd., to recover compensation for neglect to register 100 fully paid up shares in the company, which had been issued to him by the defendants. The particulars of the dispute have already appeared. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, with damages £100, on the second and third counts of the plaintiff's amended declaration, and for the defendants on the first and fourth. Defendants now asked that the verdict should be set aside, and a nonsuit or a verdict for them entered, or that a new trial should be ordered, on grounds already stated.

After argument,

The Chief Justice said that the motion was to set aside the verdict of the jury on the second and third counts of the plaintiff's declaration. The second count set up an action for deceit, and it lay upon the plaintiff to prove that the defendants, as he alleged, falsely and fraudulently made the representation that was set out by the plaintiff. That question was entirely one for the jury. In answer to the first question put to them by his Honor, they said it was agreed between plaintiff and defendants that the scrip issued to plaintiff was to take effect from January 1, 1914. Notwithstanding that statement, they said, in answer to the next question, that both of the defendants represented to the plaintiff that he had been registered as a shareholder. He thought, on the evidence and the findings of the jury, that the second count of the plaintiff's declaration had not been made out, and that the verdict on that count must be set aside and entered for the defendants. In regard to the third count, it alleged that when the scrip was issued to the plaintiff, and when he was entitled to be registered, the defendants, who were directors, knowingly and wilfully authorised and permitted the company to omit registration, and that in consequence of that he was entitled to damages. In connection with that count, section 19 of the Companies Act had been cited, which provided a penalty for non-registration. That was a duty cast upon the company, and it appeared to him that it was not a duty cast upon the directors or one for which they could personally be made liable. It was not alleged, nor was it proved, that it was the duty of the defendants to register the scrip or that they wilfully induced the company to omit to register the scrip in the plaintiff's name. That being so, plaintiff also failed on the third count, and the verdict in his favour must be set aside and entered for defendants.

Mr. Justice Sly and Mr. Justice Gordon concurred.

Verdict for plaintiff set aside and entered for defendants; plaintiff to pay the costs of the motion.

CLAIM FOR RETURN OF DEPOSIT.

Ward v Jerome.

Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Messrs. Arnott and Connah, appeared for defendant, Armand Jerome, in support of the appeal against the verdict; and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Pitt, instructed by Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley, for the plaintiff, Hugh Joseph Ward, in support of the verdict. The action, which was tried before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four, in March last, and extended over six days, was brought by plaintiff (who is managing director of J. C. Williamson, Ltd.), to recover £500, paid on August 12 by him to the defendant in respect of the purchase of property known as "Stirling House," situated at Victoria-street, Darlinghurst, belonging to Rachel Stirling and Sarah Grieg.

The defendant originally filed a plea based on equitable grounds, but afterwards substituted a plea of never indebted. The jury found in favour of the plaintiff in the full amount claimed. Defendant now moved to have the verdict set aside and to enter a nonsuit or a verdict for defendant, or for a new trial, on various grounds.

The case stands part heard.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

Everingham v Penrith Council.

The suit remains part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

EXCHANGE OF COUNTRY PROPERTIES.

Foy v M'Leish.

The hearing was concluded of the suit in which John Foy prayed, among other things, for a declaration that certain agreements in connection with a hotel at Narrandera and certain lands at Barellan for exchange ought to be rescinded, and that the same be decreed accordingly; and that the defendant, Daniel Matthew M'Leish, be restrained by injunction from proceeding with a certain action at common law.

His Honor dismissed the suit, with costs.

Mr. S. A. Thompson, instructed by Mr. F. R. Cowper, agent for Messrs. Dibbs and Farrell, of Temora, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Langer Owen, K.C., and Mr. Parker, instructed by Messrs. Garland, Seaborn, and Abbott, for the defendant.

A BREWARRINA HOTEL.

O'Neill v Kirkham.

This was a suit in which Emma O'Neill prayed, among other things, that the defendant, Reuben Kirkham, be decreed specifically to perform a certain agreement with respect to the purchase of the Royal Hotel at Brewarrina.

Mr. R. H. L. Innes, instructed by Messrs. G. W. Phillips and Dean, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Hammond and Mr. Davidson, instructed by Mr. J. B. Frawley, for the defendant.

Plaintiff set out in her statement of claim, that prior to September 12 last, she was entitled for an estate in fee simple to the licensed premises at Brewarrina, known as the Royal Hotel, the license of which stood in the name of her husband, John O'Neill, who managed the hotel as trustee for and on her behalf. By an agreement in writing on the date mentioned, the defendant agreed to purchase for £850 the licensed premises, the license, and the whole of the furniture, with the exception of certain articles mutually agreed upon. It was a term of the agreement that a deposit of £10 was to be paid, and the balance of the purchase money on the completion of the contract. The defendant paid the deposit upon the signing of the agreement, and had since paid, or caused to be paid, to her agent, sums amounting to £437 in further part payment of the purchase money. In pursuance of the agreement, plaintiff had caused the license to be transferred to one, Alfred Kirkham, the son and nominee of defendant, and on September 19, the defendant entered into possession, and by himself or his agent had ever since remained so. Plaintiff had always been ready and willing to carry out her part of the agreement, but she alleged the defendant had refused to complete his part, and had demanded from her and her agent the repayment of the £10 deposit, and the £437, respectively. By reason of defendant's refusal to complete his part of the agreement, she had, and would, sustain serious loss and damage, and she, therefore prayed that he be ordered specifically to perform the agreement. She also asked that an inquiry be made by the Master in Equity as to what damages she was entitled to, either in addition to, or in lieu of specific performance of the agreement, and that defendant be ordered to pay her the amount so found to be due.

The defendant pleaded that since the payment of the £10 deposit he had not paid or caused to be paid, to plaintiff's agent, moneys amounting to £437 in pursuance of the agreement as alleged. He stated that a sum of £200, which had been paid to plaintiff's agent by his son on the same day as the deposit, was to be held by the agent in trust for defendant, pending the completion of the contract, and it had been paid to plaintiff without the knowledge, authority, or consent of his son or himself before the completion of the contract. He charged it to be the fact that he was induced to enter into the contract by the alleged fraudulent representations of the plaintiff that no notice had been served upon her by the licensing authorities requiring her to effect improvements and repairs to the premises, whereas notice had been served upon her, as she well knew, requiring her to do certain things involving an expenditure of about £500, which notice, he alleged, she had withheld from him, with the intention of inducing him to enter into the contract. Immediately he discovered that the representations were false, he repudiated the contract and communicated his repudiation to the plaintiff, called upon her to return the moneys paid in respect of the contract, and to accept a re-transfer of the license, but she had neglected and refused to do so. He submitted that, in the circumstances, it would be a hardship on him if the court decreed specific performance, inasmuch as it was necessary for the holder of the license to expend about £500 to preserve and obtain a renewal of the license.

The suit stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

EMPLOYER FINED.

In the case of Woods v Goldsmith, in which the plaintiff alleged that he had been wrongfully dismissed, his Honor found in favour of the plaintiff, and imposed a fine against defendant of £10 10s, and allowed 3 guineas costs.

Mr. Connington appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Cowper for the defendant.

CANISTER-MAKERS.

The Canister-makers Employees' Union applied for consent to appeal against the award of No. 15 Board.

His Honor gave his consent to appeal.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

Montague John Longford, a young man, was charged with receiving and taking into his possession on October 10, the sum of £15 10s, when in the employ of William Harrington Palmer, and fraudulently embezzling the money. Longford was further charged with receiving and fraudulently embezzling the sum of £10, on November 25, and with fraudulently omitting to pay the sum of £4 10s to William Harrington Palmer, on February 25, having received the said amount.

The accused was defended by Mr. McMahon.

Longford had been employed as a collector for Charles Reid and Co., a time-payment furniture firm, that had gone into liquidation; and the accused was then appointed by Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee, as a collector.

The accused gave evidence on his own behalf.

Accused was found guilty, and was remanded for sentence.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray.)

CLAIM FOR PROFESSIONAL SERVICES.

Perkins and another v Harrison and another.

Ernest Waddell Perkins and John Walker Stevenson, solicitors, practising under the name of Perkins, Stevenson, and Co., at 122 Pitt-street, Sydney, proceeded against Gavin Scoular Harrison, of Sydney, and Leslie Harrison, of Bona Vista, Raglan-street, Mosman, for the recovery of £16 0s 8d, alleged to be the amount due by the defendants for professional services rendered between February 16 and March 28, 1914.

Mr. J. Linton appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Milner Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover, for the defendant, Leslie Harrison, who pleaded never indebted on the ground that the plaintiffs were not employed by him. The defendant, G. S. Harrison, confessed judgment.

His Honor found a verdict for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse and a jury.)

Mr. C. A. White, Crown Prosecutor.

OPENING A LETTER.

James Charles Hackney, a young man, was charged with opening a letter at Wyong on March 8, the property of the Postmaster-General.

Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the accused, who pleaded guilty.

The Crown Prosecutor said that it was not suggested that the accused, who was a postal assistant at Wyong Post-office, had dishonest intentions, but the opening of a letter was a very serious offence.

His Honor said that the Postal Department was justified in bringing the matter before the Court. It is a very serious matter, and if overlooked it would be difficult to say where such practices might stop. In this case there did not appear to be any moral guilt.

Hackney was bound over to come up for sentence when called upon. "You are not of the class who ordinarily come here," said his Honor.

ACQUITTED.

Margaret Thomas, a middle-aged woman, was charged with stealing a piano, the property of O'Reilly's, Ltd., Sydney.

Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the accused.

It was stated that the piano was obtained on the time-payment system, on October 17, 1913, and before the instalments had been paid off the instrument was sold.

The accused said that she had received permission from a former assistant at O'Reilly's to sell the piano. She offered to pay £30 to the firm, which was the amount due, but they would not accept it, demanding £32 10s.

The jury acquitted the accused without leaving the box.

ALLEGED THEFT.

William Flynn, a young man, was charged with stealing 3cwt of metal, the property of Dobson, Franks, Ltd., at Waterloo, on March 1.

Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the accused.

For the defence it was stated that the metal was found in a paddock, and that the accused thought that it was of no use, and had been deposited there.

The accused was acquitted.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

SUPPLY OF FODDER.

It is obvious that the supply of fodder is occasioning much anxiety in various quarters, and fear is entertained as to the prospects for the coming winter. In this, as in other ways, the severity of the drought that has devastated such a large portion of Australia, and still prevails over a great area, is being brought home to the consumer. The supply of fodder is a most important matter also to thousands of farmers, who must obtain feed if they are to get their wheat crops in. At present a large number of farmers are unable to obtain fodder, and a most serious position has arisen, for the next wheat crop is threatened by this factor. It is not surprising, therefore, that the Fodder Board has decided upon drastic action. The fodder matter is now in the hands of the Minister for Lands and Agriculture, and yesterday the first meeting of the Fodder Board was held, when it was decided to seize supplies of fodder at certain centres in the south. It appears that doubt exists at present as to whether sufficient supplies are available here, and apparently the board is making sure of obtaining possession of what is in sight. Mr. Ashford is confident that there is ample fodder within the State, both for necessitous farmers now being supplied by the Government, and other farmers who receive supplies. As the position is urgent, drastic steps to supply farmers at once may be warranted; but there is grave reason for fear that another shortage of supplies will be found, unfortunately, to exist.

QUEENSLAND STOCK.

In view of anticipated effects of drought in the various States, the preliminary estimates of stock in Queensland give some surprising results. The estimate is based on figures of as many stations and holdings as are in hand at the time, probably a large proportion of the total, and the returns are made by the owners, as at January 1 last. In every case an increase is shown—in cattle of 47,708, and of sheep 1,191,000; also in horses and pigs. It was well-known that Queensland had not suffered from drought to the same extent as New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia, but it is hard to believe that she has had any prolonged dry spell at all, when, in face of the increased demands of the meat export trade, and supposed losses, she can show such a large increase in sheep, bringing the total to nearly 23 millions, a record in the history of the northern State. The losses attributed to stock-owners in Queensland could scarcely have been so great as had been supposed. Yet it is hard to understand why stock should be so dear.

A GOOD ORCHARD.

Messrs. Rowd Bros.' young orchard property at Wilberforce is a standing demonstration of the soil and district's capabilities from a fruittree point of view. Although only planted three years, some fine fruit was harvested this season. Owing to the known fertility of the soil, many local people were fully confident that trees would be grown, but not fruit. The orchardists have proved otherwise, by applying the principles of pruning in the right direction (i.e., not cutting over strong trees, because wood growth is in direct contrast to fruit growth), and giving the trees a very light winter pruning. Three, and even five boxes were taken from some varieties. This orchard is of value in more ways than one. Messrs. Rowd Bros. are new to fruit culture, and having no ideas to forget have followed the advice of an officer of the fruit branch of the Agricultural Department in handling the trees, and the result has been most satisfactory. They have carried on intercropping with the result that the orchard stands right from the financial point of view. Tomatoes, cabbages, corn, melons, pumpkins, and turnips, have been grown with profit.

PRICE OF BUTTER.

DAIRY FARMERS' PROTEST.

At a large meeting of dairy farmers, representing the Tweed and Richmond districts, held at Bangalow, the following motion was carried unanimously:—

That this meeting of representative dairymen of the Richmond and Tweed districts respectfully protests against the unjust attitude of the Necessary Commodities Control Commission in refusing to raise the price of butter, thereby sacrificing the interests of the producer to that of the consumer, and that a deputation consisting of representative dairymen, with power to add, be deputed to interview the Minister on our behalf, and, if deemed necessary by the Minister, to give evidence before the Necessary Commodities Control Commission, and to ask for an increase of 3d per lb on butter on the following grounds:—
(1) That with the decrease in production, the present prices ruling, depleted herds, loss in by-products, scarcity and high price ruling for fodder, we cannot carry on financially our industry as primary producers.
(2) That under existing conditions we will be reluctantly compelled to dispense with thousands of good employees.
(3) That we are being denied the rights of free inter-state trade.
(4) That we are being denied the privilege of providing the sinews of war for those who are fighting for our King and Empire.

A motion was also carried protesting against the commission proclaiming that in future the declared price of butter shall include boxes, in the following form:—
(1) That the custom has been in vogue for many years in every industry to charge for the package of all goods and general merchandise.
(2) That for every 56lb of butter packed in boxes it costs ¾d per lb for package alone.
(3) That the grocer can and does sell the package, which means that he gets the butter at less than market rates if the box is not charged in.
(4) That in the history of our industry it has been the first and only portion of a cost that we have been able to pass on.

TROUBLE IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), May 6.

The mere fact that the Government has prohibited the export of butter from New Zealand to Australia, except the Minister for Customs approves, has not done much towards solving the cost of living problem. It may possibly happen that needy heads of households will follow the line of least resistance and cut butter, except in its cheapest form for cooking purposes, out of the daily menage. One and seven pence a pound in a fairly large family is too much for people who are already paying spectacular prices for sugar and flour, and already a section of the public has threatened to do without butter altogether until the suppliers agree to retail it at something more nearly approximating its real value. The position is indeed acute. On April 30 the quantity of butter in cool store at the various ports of the Dominion was only 59,798 boxes—a shortage of 28,264 boxes compared with the quantity in store at the corresponding date last year (88,062 boxes), and which is roughly the provision made for Dominion requirements.

While it is apparently correct that large quantities of New Zealand butter have been imported by New South Wales houses in order to fill contracts with houses in the Dutch East Indies, the Straits Settlements, and other places in the East, it is beyond question that our butter has been purchased by Victorian firms for the supply of local needs, particularly in Melbourne. "It has come to the knowledge of the Government," says the Prime Minister (Mr. W. F. Massey) that butter which is being exported from New Zealand to the Commonwealth is being used by Australian merchants to fulfil contracts made with Java and other places, and it is evident that by so doing the Australian merchants are evading the payment of Customs duties. The prohibition of export without the consent of the Minister for Customs will prevent such transactions being carried out. "I am advised," he added, "that the supply of butter in sight in the Dominion is lower than usual; but if it were not for the shortage in Australia the position would not be acute. The production of butter in the south is being reduced by the cold weather having set in rather early this year, but in Taranaki and Auckland I believe good results are being obtained. The information I have obtained from the Department of Agriculture is to the effect that a number of small farmers, instead of following the usual practice of allowing their dairy cows to go dry during the cold months, intend to make butter right through the winter. Supplies from this source, if they prove to be considerable, should relieve the shortage."

It has not yet been made public, but it is none the less an approximate fact, that if the price of butter is further raised the wharf-labourers will refuse to handle it.

CHAFF BOARD.

Mr. Jacques, of the Pastoralists' Union, has been appointed a member of the board for the distribution of chaff to necessitous farmers.

A FARMER'S LOT.

Mr. E. S. Twigg, Cowra, writes:—Three years ago my overdraft bank account stood at two and a half thousand, and at the end of this year it will stand much higher, even if I do not lose my stock. This means that I have put in three of my best years of labour and capital for the benefit of whom?—Not myself and family. So it must be for the consumer of flour and for poultrymen, to stop their stock from dying. This great cry for a cheap loaf of bread is allright when other men have to finance it. Last year I printed figures in detail, showing that wheat-growing under ordinary crop average of 12 bushels to the acre cost 4s 2d per bushel, delivered at nearest railway station. So I held my wheat knowing that the price of wheat must go up or cost of growing must come down. Then last September the Government seized part of the wheat at Darling Harbour at 4s 2d, which left me 3s 8d, Cowra. Later they fixed the price at 5s. The difference between this price and the outside market value took £5000 out of my pocket. In past years when prices were very low, we held as much as possible for bad years, and the public were always pleased to have the produce. This year the State has not produced one-third crop, so that means that the wheat cost at the least to grow 10s to 12s per bushel. If the farmer was working for the lowest wages paid by the Government—9s for eight hours' work—and as owner of the farm had been working fully 10 hours a day for nine months and 11 hours for three months, his wages would turn out £180 a year. Take cost of food at 10s a week, and £8 a year for clothes and luxuries, and this would leave him a net wage of £150 a year.

The last three years of farming have been most deadly. Men who have been working on a large scale and young men starting out, are thoroughly disheartened, as they have not even made wages. In the face of all this nearly all the products we have grown have been seized. What for? Not to feed the worthy Belgians or Allies, but for people living in all the luxury of life. At present I have a farming plant (horses and implements) valued at over £8000 and my weekly and daily wages run into nearly £3000 a year. I came from Newbridge, Victoria, where we had the best farm for miles, and the Cowra and Armatree farms will stand inspection. My books are also open for same. Now I think in the interests of farming, the Government would do well to appoint a commission to take evidence in the country to see what wheat costs to grow, and to see what state the country is in. Another tax also facing the landowner is the supertax, to compel men to cultivate ground near a railway. The Government should prove first that the land will produce more by wheat-growing than by sheep. At present I, for one, if things are not altered soon, am not prepared to put in another three years wheat-growing for nothing, but will dispose of the men and lay the machinery idle till we, as farmers, get a fair deal, and the consumer pays a legitimate price for his bread. The sheep these last three years have paid me far better than wheat.

LAND BALLOT.

DUBBO.—The ballot for 13 homestead farm blocks near Balladoran, ranging in area from 620 acres to 1270 acres, took place before the Dubbo Land Board. Forty marbles were drawn before the whole of the blocks were allotted. Names on the first 20 were:—Max Samuels, Alexander Gillies, Arthur Frederick Dowdle, Stanly C. R. Farell, Arthur A. Townsend, James Martin Sutton, William George Challenger, Edward N. Craig, Albert J. Bennett, John G. Smith, Charles E. Tupper, Lance F. Conderoy, William James Hill, Ernest M. Ferguson, Edward P. Coffin, James White, Gustav A. Rocleow, John Breakell, Thomas H. Cooper, William George Cooper.

ROYAL SHOW.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

Responding to the invitation to express his views as the new president of the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales, Mr. Samuel Hordern struck a cheerful note in conversation yesterday.

"The great society of which I am now the president," Mr. Hordern said, "may be called the showcase of the pastoral, agricultural, and industrial wealth of New South Wales. In my view of things, the outlook is good and bright for the State and for the society. But for the drought this State would hardly have felt any of the ill-effects of the war. There is nothing to be gloomy about. It will be my aim, as president, to try to prove myself a not unworthy successor to the late Sir Francis Suttor. I have no new policy to unfold, and I have no revolutionary schemes of reform. While looking proudly upon the position to which I have been elected as the blue ribbon honour of all the Australasian agricultural societies, it is not my intention to meddle with what I may speak of as the working plan of the great Easter Show. I shall be well satisfied if I am successful, as the head of the council, in getting more adjoining land from the Federal Government to extend our now insufficient area. As we are blocked on the southern side by Centennial Park, we hope to induce the Government to give us the old rifle range. This would enable us to make better provision for the machinery displays. In all other respects I am sure that I would be guided by wisdom if I left the showground as it has been made by many years of patient toil, well-directed enterprise, and ever-increasing success."

In reply to a question about horses and the war, the new president said "those who think that all the good horses are being sent out of the country are wrong. The military authorities are taking what they can get. The drought has done more to deplete own stock than all the buying up of horses for our soldiers. At the same time it must be frankly admitted that the horses in this State have been on the decline for some years past. The export of mares and the growth and countenance of an inferior class of stallions are two contributing causes. It is the duty of the Government, I think, to remedy this deterioration by effectual legislation."

DISTRICT ITEMS.

DUBBO.—Mr. J. G. Gavel, Inspector of Stock, Dubbo, last week visited the Talbragar end of the territory, and found the farmers busy seeding. Large areas are being sown, and ploughing is proceeding in many of the paddocks passed. This indicates that increased areas will be cultivated, and if rain falls in seasonable time the yield in this district should be larger than that of last year. Stock are in good condition, but the dry weather is having a very noticeable effect on the grass, and with the winter coming on losses are unfortunately sure to be heavy, even if the much-needed rain comes very soon. Lambing has commenced, and is sure to be adversely effected by the conditions which prevail. Much of the stock in the immediate Dubbo district will be able to withstand the winter fairly well, as their condition is good, but sheep will suffer materially through the lambing and winter, especially if the winter is at all cold.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE ABROAD.

CHEESE.

LONDON, April 1.

The cheese market remains quiet but firm, and choicest Canadian is selling at from 96/ to 98/, New Zealand 96/ to 98/, and Australian ex Hurunui at 88/ to 92/. The principal demand is still for account of the Government. The general demand throughout the country is slow. The Australian cheese, which is from Queensland and New South Wales, has proved of very fair quality.

TALLOW.

At auction yesterday 1264 casks were offered, and 948 casks sold at late rates, except for good mutton, which was /6 per cwt. lower. The present quotations for Australasian sorts are:—Mutton, fine 42/ to 43/, fair to good 39/ to 41/, common to middling 36/ to 38/, low and inferior 34/ to 35/6; beef, fine 42/ to 44/, fair to good 38/6 to 41/, common to middling 36/ to 37/6, low and inferior 34/ to 35/; mixed, fair to good 37/6 to 38/6, common to middling 34/ to 37/.

COPRA.

Copra is firm and dearer. South Sea February-March and March-April have buyers, £25/10/ c.i.f. London.

HIDES.

The hide market generally has been dull, but at the auctions prices were steady.

GRAIN.

The price of wheat shows a decline of some 2/ per quarter compared to what it was at the beginning of March. Rumours have been circulated that the Government has bought up the whole of the Argentine wheat supply. On the face of it this was an exaggeration, notwithstanding there are still reports that the Government are heavy buyers of foreign wheat. This, combined with the prospect of the opening of the Dardanelles and consequent release of Russian grain, has made business dull.

APPLES.

The first arrival of Western Australian apples came to hand last week. They were a very poor sample, the fruit being too immature. The Jonathans, the better samples, sold at 12/ to 14/, ranging down to 7/ to 8/ for some very poor ones. There have been no arrivals this week. An excellent display of good samples of ripe fruit is being made in the windows of Western Australia's new offices in the Strand.

FUR SALES.

For the first time since the outbreak of the war fur sales have been held in London. They were remarkable for the absence of foreign buyers. The furs in which the home trade is particularly interested showed but little change in value, but those for which we have to rely mainly on Continental support show a heavy reduction, and a considerable portion of these remain unsold. As compared with the sales of last June and March, nearly every fur declined in value. Australian opossums were practically all withdrawn, the few lots sold showing a decline of 50 per cent. No ringtail opossum, wallaby, or kangaroo were sold, although the offerings were considerable. Wombat sold at 20 per cent. decline, and part only of the offering of Australian red fox was sold at 40 per cent. decline.

FIXING PRICES.

PROPOSED INCREASE IN JAMS.

COMMISSION'S INQUIRY.

An endeavour is being made by the Necessary Commodities Commission to bring the sale of all household commodities, such as tea, jam, and matches, etc., under its control. This cannot be effected before the commission fixes a maximum selling price in each case.

Yesterday the commission had under consideration an application on behalf of Taylor Bros. and Parson Bros. and Co., Ltd., to increase the price of jam. The increases asked were:—Assorted jams, 1lb gross (per doz.) 4/2 to 4/3; 1lb net, 5/ to 5/1; 2lb gross, 7/10 to 8/. Black currant, 4/8 to 5/, 5/6 to 5/9, 8/10 to 9/6; apricot, 4/5 to 4/8, 5/3 to 5/6, 8/4 to 8/10; plum, 3/8 to 3/11, 4/6 to 4/9, 6/10 to 7/4; and in the case of gooseberry jam the prices should be 4/6, 5/3, and 8/4. The grounds of the application were, among other things, that the cost of manufacture had greatly increased, owing to the high price of this season's fruit, black currant especially being scarce. It was stated that plum pulp had risen from £7 or £10 to £20, while the cost of Hobart gooseberries was 7/6 per bushel, as against 4/6 this time last year. The price of fresh apricots had doubled. The cost of tins also had increased.

The application was opposed by Mr. A. J. Waddell, general secretary of the New South Wales Fruitgrowers' Association, who stated that the proposed rise in jam prices was unwarranted, owing to summer fruit, with the exception of apricots and plums, being cheaper than they had been for years. Growers, he said, were willing to produce account sales to bear out the statement.

Mr. Nossiter (Stanmore Preserving Company), the Peacock Jam Co., Johnson Bros. and Co., and H. Jones and Co. also opposed the application until such time as the manufacturers could ascertain the extent of the proposed increases in the prices of sugar and other commodities used in connection with jam manufacture.

The commission made a recommendation to the Attorney-General that the existing prices should be fixed, and suggested to the producers that they should take joint action at a later date.

This morning, at 10 o'clock, the commission will consider an application by the Vacuum Oil Co. and R. W. Cameron and Co. for an increase in the price of oil; at 2 p.m. a prosecution for alleged sale of pollard at price higher than that proclaimed; and at 3 p.m. an application by Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Society and the Berrima District Farm and Dairy Company in regard to the price of butter.

BAKERS' LOSSES.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

The Necessary Commodities Commission (Mr. Justice Edmunds, president) yesterday heard further evidence in connection with the master bakers' application to increase the price of bread from 4d to 4½d per 2lb loaf.

Mr. Herbert William Law (Petersham), questioned by Mr. Bathgate, who opposed the application on behalf of the Attorney-General, stated that in normal times the bakers would expect a profit of from ½d to ¾d per loaf. The delivery saved in the wholesale trade, where the charge was 3½d per loaf, made that business as profitable as the retail trade, where 4d was charged. Most people who paid the extra farthing allowed by the Commission for booking invariably took advantage of extended credit.

In reply to Mr. Dyer (president of the Master Bakers' Association), Mr. Law stated that his losses during the last three months averaged 2s 8d per ton.

Mr. Frederick Reid, controlling bakeries in Annandale and Neutral Bay, stated that horses used for delivery lasted only three years. His manufacturing costs per ton of flour were £22 0s 5d. This produced 1300 loaves, which were sold at £21 13s 4d, showing a loss of 6s 8d per ton of flour manufactured. There were very few bakers who did not cut below the master bakers' price.

To his Honor: He supposed that every bakery business in Sydney had changed hands during the past 12 years.

Mr. Bathgate: Owing to the bakers retiring?—No, owing to them dying. (Laughter.)

Mr. Reid, continuing, stated that the only reason he could give for the discrepancy between the working figures of the Melbourne and Sydney bakers was that in all probability the Melbourne bakers were the more enterprising—perhaps they were too enterprising.

The hearing of further evidence was adjourned.

BORDER RAILWAY.

POSITION OF QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The New South Wales Public Works Committee, which has been making inquiries respecting the construction of a railway from Murwillumbah to Tweed Heads, and an alternative line from Kyogle to Richmond Gap, had an interview with the Queensland Railway Commissioner, Colonel Evans, to-day.

Colonel Evans said he was quite satisfied there should be no third rail business. The line, if constructed, should be built on the 4ft 8½in system from Richmond Gap to South Brisbane, but not necessarily to the present railway station, but to another part of South Brisbane, near where the projected bridge over the Brisbane River might be constructed later on.

With regard to the Murwillumbah-Tweed Heads line, he would oppose the three rail system. He would recommend, in preference thereto, the building of a narrow gauge line. This particular route, he said, passed through and would carry the products of agricultural and dairy land, and a 3ft 6in line would be much cheaper to construct. It appeared to him, however, that the Kyogle route would be best for both States, but, whatever was done, one gauge should rule. He felt that the question of narrow gauges from Murwillumbah was one that New South Wales should consider seriously. He thought it most economical for this line.

Mr. Miller: We proposed to submit a 4ft 8½in gauge to Tweed Heads.

Colonel Evans: Of course, that means a third rail through to Brisbane. He was, he said, of opinion that a coastal line was necessary as well as the other.

AN OLD COLONIST.

An old colonist, widely known in this State and in Victoria, passed away at his home, Rosstrevor, Chatswood, on Monday last, in the person of Farquhar Peregrine Gordon M'Crae. He was born in Edinburgh in 1838, and was brought out to Victoria in childhood, eventually entering the Bank of Australasia, in which service he remained 52 years. In the early seventies he was manager in Maitland, and in the eighties he spent a period of years as manager in Adelaide, after which he finished as inspector for this State and Queensland, retiring on a pension of £800 a year about 11 years ago. The late Mr. M'Crae, who was deeply interested in music, was of an especially kind, unselfish, and happy disposition. The funeral service was read by the Rev. Raymond King yesterday afternoon, at St. John's Church of England cemetery, Gordon when a great many old friends attended. The chief mourners were Murison and Kenneth M'Crae (sons), Adrian Cowper, Murison Cowper, and Gilbert Mant (grandsons), and F. R. Cowper (son-in-law), and Hugh M'Crae (Nephew). Mrs. M'Crae survives him, as well as his son Colin M'Crae, of Ducca Creek, and his daughters, Mrs. Mant, Mrs. Kilgour, and Mrs. Cowper.

MUNITION VOLUNTEERS.

Letters are reaching the Premier from persons desirous of working at the manufacture of munitions in England, in accordance with the published invitation of the Imperial Government. The Premier communicated with the Commonwealth in regard to the applications which are coming to hand, and has received a reply stating that the Federal Government has no information in its possession, but that a telegraphic inquiry has been sent to the Secretary of State.

CHAIR OF DENTISTRY.

At the request of the Premier, the Minister for Education and the Minister of Public Health recently took into consideration the question of establishing a Chair of Dentistry at the Sydney University. Both Ministers have endorsed the proposal, and the Premier announces that the Minister for Education has undertaken to place £900 on the draft estimates for the next financial year, to meet the cost.

Though death divides, fond memory clings.
Sometimes between long shadows on the grass
The little truant waves of sunlight pass;
My eyes grow dim with tenderness the while,
Thinking I see you, thinking I see you smile,
And sometimes in the twilight gloom apart,
The tall trees whisper—whisper heart to heart,
From my fond lips the eager answer falls,
Thinking I hear you—thinking I hear you call.

PLAYING THE GAME.

General Alderson's words to the Canadian troops, as noted in our London correspondent's letter yesterday, deserve to be written large in every Australian soldier's memory. They began with a warning about casualties due to unwise curiosity in the trenches. "To lose your life without military necessity," said the General, "is to deprive the State of good soldiers. Young and brave men enjoy taking risks. But a soldier who takes unnecessary risks through levity is not playing the game." Since those words were uttered the Canadians have made a great reputation for courage and resource. Nothing could have been finer than their fighting recently in Flanders. After Neuve Chapelle Colonel Havelock Wilson was promoted major-general on the field; and nine Distinguished Service Orders and twelve military crosses were awarded for bravery. The story of their fighting at a critical juncture will go down in history as one of the most inspiring episodes in the war. The reminder given by General Alderson had no unfair sting in it, we may be sure; and yet it was imperative to give the Canadians the warning that they were there to serve the State, that their lives were specially valuable, and that every life unnecessarily thrown away added to the already too heavy burden of the Allied armies. Is not this peculiarly applicable to our own men at the present time? No one can say that those who have reached the front have failed to do their duty. The gallant troops who landed at Gaba Tepe, on the Gallipoli Peninsula, have set the name of Australasia before the world in letters of flame. But we have to confess that the heavy losses were not all unavoidable. In their eagerness for battle the Australians got out of hand; and instead of obeying their officers, they went charging ahead in search of the Turks when they should have been entrenching themselves. This led to casualties in the counter-attacks which have swelled the casualty lists beyond reason, so that the initial and unavoidable losses in forcing a landing were augmented instead of being turned to good account.

Playing the game in this war, as in all wars, is as much a question of discipline as of valour. We have shown the world that we can fight. We may claim a share in Macaulay's noble eulogy when he wrote of "that unconquerable British courage which is never so sedate and stubborn as towards the close of a doubtful and murderous day"; but do our soldiers yet understand that battles are won as much by implicit obedience as by obstinate and determined defence or attack? From now onward fresh reinforcements and new bodies of troops will be sent by us to the front, and they will worthily sustain the name and fame won by those who have done so well at the Dardanelles. But their business is to accept to the full the responsibility of obeying orders, whether the enemy is on the run or has to be held back with a rearguard action. It is a very real responsibility, and the more so that Australian soldiers can think for themselves. They have the faculty of seizing the bearings of any given situation; and the reported exclamation of the captured German officer in reference to the British may be applied to them—"they are not privates; they are a lot of non-commissioned officers." But the British soldier can obey as well as fight and think, and our representatives at the front must learn the lesson if they are to give the Empire the full value of their superb manhood. This conclusion, however, has a warning for those in authority. The Australian private has the gift of measuring men as well as events on the battlefield. He knows when his officer is leading him and has the faculty of command; and nobody is more ready to give obedience and accept discipline when the right word comes from approved lips. It cannot be said that the forces now fighting have failed in their officers or that the success so far attained has been the result of good luck rather than of disciplined fighting. But the disposition of the Australian to think for himself, and his over-eagerness when fighting, can only be turned to the highest account when he has men over him who can dominate his individualism, and so make every unit part of a well-balanced whole. This, no doubt, is easily said, and does not take into account the difficulties which necessarily arise in selecting officers away from the strain and stress of conflict. The silver has to be tried before it can be stamped: and much of the present trouble will vanish before the stern discipline of war, which will reveal the leaders, and temper and harden the troops. We note with satisfaction that the Minister for Defence has announced his determination to make promotions and appointments by merit. The miles between Melbourne and the various military centres should not be measured by red tape, but the selected men should know their rank without the perplexing delays which may come with endless references to headquarters.

THE TWO FRONTS.

Our cables this morning are a complete answer to the more serious of the fears that have been expressed in consequence of the advance of our enemies against the position recently held by the British. Taken generally, they refute the suggestion that in any part of the line the initiative has passed to the Germans. It may be true that another attack will soon be delivered between Nieuport and Ypres, or it may suit German agents to say so. But clearly even on this northern section, the scene of the fiercest and most continuous onslaughts, the force of the original attack has failed. Sir John French has been able to establish his line to his satisfaction, and the French force, which has stood beside the Belgians for so many months, has been able to capture a position important not only from its own strength, but because from it a check will be put upon the bombardment of Dunkirk. Further south there have been vigorous attacks by both French and English, and the French at least have gained an indisputable success. There has clearly been no loss of the offensive in the region of Lille and La Bassee. While the fighting on the Yser was at its most critical point General Haig was advancing in this neighbourhood, and the French were continuing the pressure which for months past they have applied along the whole line. The success of the French and the continual attacks of the British forces over most difficult country answer a doubt which the loss on Hill 60, coupled with a lingering belief in German science, had instilled into many minds. There can be no fear now lest in the use of poisonous gases the Germans have found a means of ultimate victory. The gases as used by the Germans depend on such a conjunction of circumstances that no General can rely upon them. It is not sufficient that he has been in control of a position long enough to have his pipes properly laid. The wind must be in his favour, and the Allies must either be unprepared or armed only with respirators unfit for their purpose. Such a weapon is in many respects inferior to the hand-grenade or the high explosive, which the French threaten to employ on their side. If it is by the use of gases that the Germans hope to carry on their spring campaign, then the campaign has failed already. Such a device must succeed at once or not at all. All the success it has given the Germans at present is a position which they cannot use, the knowledge that some British soldiers have suffered great agony, and the certainty that no form of revenge will be considered too severe for them, however much the use of it may be opposed to the practice and the instincts of the Allies.

In Germany the attack on Lille is described as a retort to the successes of General Mackensen in Galicia. That the Austro-German armies have thrust back the Russians a considerable distance is beyond dispute. It is equally clear that the effect of these victories has been exaggerated, that great German losses have been concealed, and that for the present the armies invading Hungary need not and will not be withdrawn. But the armies neither in the West nor the East have ever been moved by considerations of dramatic or political effect. One front helps the other by a pressure which prevents the enemy from sending reinforcements to a threatened point. Attacks are not made, nor are lives sacrificed with the object either of impressing neutrals or of sustaining the confidence of a people hitherto prevented from knowing the truth. The attacks reported this morning are clearly part of a concerted plan to drive the German armies out of France and so to prepare the way for an advance by the Allies. The method adopted is that which has been employed by General Joffre throughout the line. The German positions will be isolated either by attacks on the country immediately surrounding them, or by the capture of their means of communication. The French advance reported this morning justifies the hopes that have been expressed by the French Commander-in-Chief and the highly satisfactory tone of his latest report. In common with many of his countrymen, and in spite of his critics, he has continued to believe that a policy of attrition pursued through the winter and the spring would prove to be the best preparation for an advance. He has been fortified in this belief by the exhaustive report on German resources in men and munitions, which was issued by French experts at the beginning of March. It may be that the opinions contained in that report are the basis of the optimism expressed by M. Ribot in his recent statement in the French Parliament. More probably the Minister in limiting his demand to a three months' credit had a more substantial foundation for his belief. In any case it is clear that the Germans have again failed in each of two important objects of their policy. They have not gained a great success in the West with which to open their spring campaign. They have, on the contrary, lost heavily in numbers and considerably in position. They are not in the least likely to conclude a separate peace with France even by the cession of part of the conquered provinces. The French are no less determined than the English that there shall be no peace with Germany until she has been driven out of Belgium as well as out of the French provinces which she has desecrated and profaned.

RESULT OF THE WAR.

BRITONS CONFIDENT.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

On board the Orient liner Osterley, which arrived at Fremantle to-day, was the Bishop of Nelson (N.Z.), who has been on a seven months' trip to England.

On the question of the war Bishop Sadlier said that the English people were now very confident as to the ultimate success of the Allies' arms. Opinions differed as to the probable duration of the war. It was such a difficult matter to predict. Germany had vast resources behind her, and much greater, perhaps, than the Allies had anticipated. It was possible that they would continue fighting for some time yet without any of the nations engaged making much territorial advance. He was inclined to think that economic pressure would eventually bring about the collapse of Germany. He was also of the opinion that when that collapse did come it would be sudden. It would be necessary for the Allies to see that such a collapse on Germany's part was not a subterfuge in order to gain a little breathing space so that she might be able to continue the war a little later.

Many of the prominent men at home were expecting the war to end suddenly in this way, but they realised that, having made such tremendous sacrifices, the Allies must see that the Prussian canker of militarism was uprooted.

Italy, according to Bishop Sadlier, has been making active preparations for the war for some time past, and he had been informed that the Government had received financial assistance from the British Exchequer. It seemed to be the impression in some official quarters at home that Italy would have struck before now had the Allies desired it, and, judging from what he had heard from the lips of men qualified to speak on the question, there appeared little room to doubt but that Italy would be fighting on the side of the Allies before many days had passed.

Referring to the work of German submarines, he said that Germany had lost a much larger number of these under-water craft than was generally known. The British Government had been taking preventive measures, but exactly what the nautre of the precautions were had not been divulged. It appeared to be tolerably certain, however, that the measures adopted had resulted in the loss of several of the German submarines.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

We publish on Page 14 of to-day's issue another series of portraits of heroes of the Dardanelles.

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

Many pages of this week's "Mail" are devoted to illustrations in connection with our brave troops who covered themselves with glory at the Dardanelles. These include numerous portraits of killed and wounded Australians, snapshots of Dardanelles heroes in training, prior to their departure from Sydney; and a relief map which gives an excellent idea of the nature of the country in which our soldiers are working, and shows the principal forts along the straits. What is rightly described as a tragic picture is reproduced from an early war number of the "Mail." It is a group, photographed shortly before the departure of the first contingent, of four mounted officers—Colonel M'Laurin, Lieut.-Colonel Onslow-Thompson, Major Irvine (all of whom have been killed), and Major Macnaghten (slightly wounded). French troops are seen on their way to the Dardanelles. Many interesting snapshots of the Australians in Egypt are published, while the war pictures from the Continent are full of variety.

FODDER BOARD.

SEIZURE ON THE BORDER.

The board appointed by the Government to ascertain what supplies of chaff and fodder exist in the State held its first meeting yesterday at the Department of Agriculture. The Minister for Lands and Agriculture, Mr. Ashford, was present.

Mr. Ashford announced last evening that at the meeting of the Fodder Board it was decided that, owing to the serious position created owing to farmers being unable to obtain fodder, supplies should be seized at Albury, Moama, and Corowa. The Minister explained that the Government Statistician was at present obtaining definite information as to the available supplies of fodder within the State, and until this information is submitted to the Minister the Fodder Board's policy as above outlined would be continued. Mr. Ashford is convinced that there is ample fodder within the State both for the necessitous farmers being supplied by the Government, and also for those farmers who are making their own arrangements for their supplies.

Mr. John M. Atkinson has been appointed to represent the pastoral industry on the board.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

MISSION TO TROOPS.

MORAL EFFECTS OF THE WAR.

PRESBYTERIAN ACTION.

An unwonted wave of enthusiasm swept the Presbyterian Assembly yesterday, when the Rev. John Ferguson moved that the Rev. Hugh Paton be sent by the Home Mission, in co-operation with the military chaplains' committee, to the Presbyterians in camp at Liverpool. Last Sunday, said Mr. Ferguson, he had held a Communion service at Liverpool. It was the most impressive sight he had ever imagined. Those hundreds of young men, who had practically surrendered all their earthly ties, were going forth to do battle for their country and for the cause. Many of them might never come back.

On the suggestion of the Rev. Professor Macintyre, who was supported by Mr. Wm. Wood and several other speakers, including a gentleman whose voice, as he told of his own sons in camp or at the front, was choked with emotion, the motion was not only carried unanimously, but it was resolved that, though the matter should be carried on by the Home Mission branch, the assembly itself would bear the entire expenses. The sum of £166 was subscribed forthwith, in order to provide a mission tent and pay some of the expenses of the mission.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Rev. R. J. H. M'Gowan presented the Foreign Missions report, which dealt with work among the aborigines, the Chinese in Sydney, and mission work in the New Hebrides and at Sholinghur, in India. According to the Rev. D. L. Malo, in reference to the Condominium, the sale of drink had increased enormously during the year, and in the Christmas holidays drink had been taken for the first time by several of the young men in the district. There was a deficit of £476 odd at the end of the year, and it was estimated that the expenditure for the ensuing year would be £4426. A vigorous appeal was made for stronger financial support in the future.

Rev. Dr. Boyd, who also addressed the assembly on New Hebrides missions, declared that it was no use trying to patch up the Condominium.

PUBLIC MORALS.

The Rev. C. E. James presented the report of the committee on religion and public morals.

In 1913, said Mr. James, the committee formed the idea of bringing the Churches together in a united effort for profress in all matters pertaining to the advancement of the moral interests of the community. After negotiations extending over some five months, a meeting of Church representatives was arranged, and on May 27 there were gathered in the Lord Mayor's room, some of the recognised leaders of the religious forces of the country.

That meeting was in a sense unique in the history of religion in New South Wales, and arising from it was the establishment of a new organisation, including Professor Macintyre, Dr. Burgess, Mr. Thomas Brown, M.L.A., Mr. William Wood, and Rev. C. E. James, called the council for civic and moral advancement, its object being simply defined as the civic and moral welfare of the people. The first president is the Archbishop of Sydney, and representatives of the Church of England, the Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational, Baptist, Salvation Army, and Jewish communions, have met from month to month to discuss such questions as might reasonably be brought before so widely representative a body.

The council has had under review such matters as public entertainments, military camps, and the sale of intoxicants, public advertisements on city hoardings, the question of venereal disease and its incidence on the moral life of the community and on the soldiers in our Expeditionary Forces. Communication was held with the Government and municipal authorities on these subjects. It is a most satisfactory thing that a body of citizens representing the best elements of our religious and social life is meeting regularly in conference on matters vitally affecting the welfare of the people. It is a matter for regret that since the constitution of the council there had arisen some difficulty over the representation of the Roman Catholic Church. Whilst Archbishop Kelly attended the meeting held in May of last year and spoke encouragingly on the general question of co-operation to resist evil, he at the same time foreshadowed his doubts of the feasibility of united action. The Roman Catholic Archbishop has since that meeting made it plain that he had no faith in united representations to governmental authorities, and as a consequence has not seen his way clear to the nomination of either clergy or laity as officially representing his Church on the council. At the same time, the gentlemen who were associated with the council on its establishment did so with the Archbishop's approval. Some of these gentlemen have regarded their position as somewhat invidious, and, perhaps, embarrassing, and have, therefore, not been present at recent meetings, and some have resigned their seats. Notwithstanding this, there is a genuine desire on the part of many Roman Catholics that their Church should join in this important movement, and the committee is not without hope that Archbishop Kelly may yet see his way clear to a hearty co-operation.

The report went on to deal with the question of drink, and expressed warm approval of the policy of the Minister of Defence in establishing the "dry canteen" at the military camps. The committee had joined other churches in asking the Secretary of State for War to take steps to protect our Australian troops from the drink evil—either when in camp or on service abroad. A condemnation of the totalisator and of the proposal to introduce it to New South Wales, the problem of social impurity and the necessity of awakening the public conscience on the subject, the question of Sunday trading, and other matters, were also dealt with.

THE GREAT AWAKENING.

"The war now raging," concluded Mr. James, "has forced upon the world the consideration of moral and religious issues with which the committee is continually faced. That which has been long considered in detail and sections has now been gathered into one impressive whole. In the red furnace of war national character is being subjected to the most searching tests which can be applied to moral qualities, and we look on at the process with something like amazed fascination. Questions which have for many years been the anxiety of the select few in politics, religion, and philanthropy, are now the urgent business of the whole people. The imperative demand for manhood at its highest co-efficient of fitness and strength has compelled the nation to grapple with those man-destroying forces which have had almost unfettered influence in the past. The nation is in search of the highest and best, and it is found, by an irony of providence, that the highest and best can alone be discovered where the principles of sobriety, self-control, and self-sacrifice are the rule of life. In other words, the despised watchwords of the church have become the appeal of the nation. Give us men in our armies, in our navy, our factories, and our councils who are sober and clean, and in whom burn the sacred fires of love of country and of humanity, and in whom love of self is thus consumed, and we will accomplish the great task before us.

"Your committee has watched for years past, with apprehension and alarm, the spread of the pleasure-loving spirit—the taste for demoralising and degrading spectacles—the terrible indifference to the claims of God and of patriotism in the truest sense. There are signs of a great awakening. We are thankful and proud to think of the high proportion of Presbyterians now serving King and country in the military ranks. We believe that the lessons of discipline and the influence of the widespread spirit of self-surrender will leave their lasting mark upon the national character in the years to come."

Dr. Wright, Archbishop of Sydney, was present at the conference. He was introduced to the assembly by the Moderator and Professor Macintyre, and received an enthusiastic welcome. In reply, the Archbishop said that he was sure all present looked forward to the day when the rent robe of Christ would be one. They could help that great work forward by working together as much as possible.

Rev. A. J. Wade delivered a vigorous attack on the proposal to introduce the totalisator.

A resolution was carried denouncing the proposed introduction of the totalisator.

Rev. Professor Angus, who spoke on the moral effects of the war, said that he believed that it would have the greatest effect in levelling social distinctions of any movement since the Crusades.

WOOL SALES.

STATEMENT BY THE SYDNEY, MELBOURNE, AND BRISBANE ASSOCIATED BROKERS.

For some months past difficulty has arisen in connection with the shipping of wool, owing to boats by which freights had been engaged having in some cases been commandeered by the Government to carry troops, or for some other purpose.

Buyers demand, to obviate difficulty which some many find in raising money to pay for wool before bills of lading can be obtained, that the brokers give them an extended time to pay beyond the 14 days' prompt, should they require it, without payment interest, insurance, or storage charges, and without payment of any deposit to secure the completion of the sale.

The buyers state that the possible difficulty they contemplated still prevails in the shipping position.

That Brisbane brokers gave them the concession they now ask from the Sydney brokers.

That there is a strike clause providing for extended time to pay without interest, insurance, or storage charges, contained in the wool selling regulations where there is no opportunity of shipping.

The brokers state—That there is not now the shipping difficulty upon which the buyers base their claim. Both Brokers and Buyers' Associations have been assured by the Oversea Shipowners' Association that there is beyond question ample shipping for all the wool that could be sold at the next Sydney wool sales, even allowing for the risk of commandeering.

The brokers further state that the strike clause [illegible] application, because it implies impossibility of shipment, whereas no such impossibility exists.

That the shipping position at the time the concession was made in Brisbane was very different to what it is now. At that time there was a scarcity of steamers. Now, as before stated, there is an ample supply.

That only under the most exceptional circumstances should there be any alterations of the conditions of sale, and even then the Buyers' Association have no right to place the grower in such a position that if, after much delay, the price of wool drops, and the buyer cannot complete his purchase, there will be no remedy but to put up the wool for sale again, and sell it probably at a much reduced figure.

That the brokers at one time signified their willingness to make a concession to the buyers in exceptional cases, where they (the brokers) were satisfied that shipping difficulties had arisen, and the brokers even went the length of saying that they would provide free storage and extended time for payment if interest at 6 per cent. was paid on the purchase money. Without such a payment, growers waiting for their proceeds, and in many cases under an interest charge to their bankers, might be the losers of considerable sums, and the rate named is small considering the risk of the transaction falling through, as above referred to. The brokers regarded the offer they made as a liberal one—somewhat too liberal, bearing in mind that no deposit was being paid. The offer was not accepted by the buyers, who insisted upon the adoption of their own terms, and must be regarded, therefore, as withdrawn.

In Melbourne a similar request to that made here was submitted by the Victorian Buyers' Association to the Associated Brokers. The latter unanimously declined to accede to any alteration, and the buyers up to the present have been operating under the old conditions. If the buyers in Victoria are prepared to purchase under these conditions, the Associated Brokers in New South Wales and Queensland are at a loss to understand why any difficulty should arise in either of these markets.

The Associated Brokers would like to point out that the Buyers' Association operating in this State and Queensland are a solid and united body, whose interests lie in quite an opposite direction to those of the grower. Nearly every concession that is forced from the brokers is a concession conceded by the growers.

The grower and buyer have little in common. The latter, very naturally, is desirous of purchasing wool at the lowest possible price, and obtaining every privilege that will benefit him, which is mostly at the expense of the grower. The former's interests run entirely counter to this, and he relies upon the broker to protect him. There is a principle involved in the present dispute which is perhaps of far greater importance than the amounts involved. The buyers, owing to the strength of their alliance, have thought fit to impose the terms upon which the Associated Brokers should sell their clients' wool. In the present dispute they have, as stated above, intimated that they "insist" upon certain alterations of the conditions. The Associated Brokers in Victoria, Queensland, and in this State consider that the time has arrived, in the interests of the growers, to protect against this attempted domination, and resist what they regard as a growing menace. One step further, and the buyers may attempt, to some extent, to regulate the price of wool in the principal markets of Australia, and attune their bids to suit the members of the association.

The brokers do not wish to convey that the buyers are not a body of honourable men; but they regard a combination which dictates the terms on which the wool trade shall be carried on as one likely to exhibit no limits to its demands. The growers are necessarily a disunited body. The scattered nature of their operations precludes them from protecting their own interests. The Woolbrokers' Associations are the only bodies that can step in and protect the growers. This these associations are doing year in and year out. In this respect it may be news to some of the growers to mention that a committee of the Associated Brokers in each of the three leading States is sitting constantly through the year, discussing and settling with representatives of the buyers matters relating to the trade. The Associated Brokers have done and are doing this work silently but effectively. Many of the growers are fully aware of this, and sincerely appreciate the efforts of the Associated Selling Brokers, but there are many, no doubt, who are not cognisant that this desirable work is being done to protect the growers' interests as a whole.

The present dispute, arising out of a demand which is a culmination, following many others made in the past, is one in which the broker has practically no interest. The Associated Brokers are taking up a stand which they believe is for the welfare of the grower and the grower alone. The fact that all the Associated Brokers of New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland have met, carefully considered the position, and have determined that the dictation of the buyers in this State and Queensland shall be resisted, and that wool shall be sold under ordinary conditions, should carry conviction to the growers, and satisfy them that the attitude of the Associated Brokers is one adopted for their benefit, and fully justified under the circumstances.

Since the above statement was handed to the press we understand that an official offer has been submitted by the buyers to pay 25 per cent. deposit on all purchases when it is sought to extend the prompt in consequence of ships being commandeered by the Government.

CATTLE BUYING.

SHORTAGE OF STOCK IN THE NORTH.

N.S.W. WORKS CLOSE.

MURWILLUMBAH, Tuesday.

Buyers for Queensland meat packing and exporting firms have been making extensive purchases of cattle in the Tweed districts during the past few months, and prices up to £18 a head have been received by farmers.

The supplies of cattle available on the Tweed have come as a surprise to many. The North Coast Co-operative Canning Works at Byron Bay were well established before anything like the present exodus of cattle to Queensland set in, but it has been obliged to cease operations in face of the keen competition displayed by Queensland dealers. One firm alone—the Queensland Meat Export Company—has during the past three months distributed over £30,000 amongst Tweed farmers for cattle. One local farmer alone sold £11,000 worth.

SIR ARTHUR STANLEY.

EDEN, Tuesday.

His Excellency the Governor of Victoria (Sir Arthur Stanley) and party arrived at Eden on Sunday night, after a trip through Gippsland and a visit to Mallacoota Inlet.

THE ALLIES.

NEAR LA BASSEE.

BIG EFFORT.

REVERSE IN GALICIA.

The Allies on the Western front are making a great effort against the Germans in the La Basse region.

Heavy artillery duels are proceeding, and the Anglo-French forces are pressing on.

The offensive covers a front of 25 miles, and the French have already advanced more than did the British at Neuve Chapelle.

A Petrograd statement reports desperate fighting in Western Galicia, and admits that the enemy has crossed the Wisloka.

An unofficial message refers to the Russians as now holding their own.

Austro-German reports further emphasise claims of victory, Vienna alleging that the Russian Third Army has now lost 80,000.

The Russians routed a division of cavalry and a Prussian Guards regiment in the Shavli region, of the Baltic province of Kovno.

GALICIA.

ENEMY'S ADVANCE.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

PETROGRAD, May 11.

A communique states: Desperate engagements are reported in West Galicia. The enemy crossed the Wisloka, near Krosno almost due north of Dukla.

THE GERMAN ATTACK.

OVERWHELMING FORCE.

Military circles state that the Germans brought up eight army corps from Cracow, massing artillery in overwhelming force on the precipitous and high banks of the Dunajec, which dominated the low country opposite them.

The Germans, with a costly series of frontal attacks, made with a reckless disregard for life, after a week forced the Dunajec, and their troops dribbled across until they were able to form a new front out of the river.

The Russian line has now been straightened, and is holding its own with increasingly frequent counter-attacks, the troops being thrilled by the splendid example of General Korniloff's 48th Division, which was cut off during a retirement on the Gorlice-Zolgrod-Dukla road, but cut its way through by an heroic effort, and rejoined its own army corps. Its losses were heavy, but its performance restored the Russian confidence in victory, which had been severely tried during the retirement from the Dunajec.

The Russians suffering the reverse were chiefly the victors of Przemysl, and not the Grand Duke's main force. The Germans must master the line of Wisloka defences before they can menace the Grand Duke's strategy on the southern slopes of the Carpathians.

ACROSS THE DUNAJEC.

ENEMY'S DEVICE.

BUDAPEST, May 11.

A description of the crossing of the Dunajec at Otfinow, where there are high banks on both sides, states that the Russians were well entrenched. Bridge construction was impossible, so, working silently and by night, the Austro-Germans bored great tunnels towards the banks, fitted with rails, carrying pontoons on wheels.

The tunnels were blown up at the last minute, and twenty pontoons were launched. Nine were destroyed by gun fire, but 11 reached the other bank. Many on the pontoons were dead or dying, but there were sufficient survivors to enable other pontoons to cross.

At least 2000 Austro-Germans were killed in the crossing at Otfinow.

The Russian artillery was amazingly good at first, but later became weak owing to lack of [illegible].

THE AUSTRO-GERMAN CLAIMS.

PURSUIT PROCEEDING.

AMSTERDAM, May 11.

A Berlin official message states: General von Mackensen again drove the Russians from position after position, taking prisoner 12,000, despite the enemy bringing up troops hastily by rail and by forced marches.

The pursuit is proceeding.

An Austrian communique says: The Russian Third Army, consisting of five corps and several reserve divisions, has now lost 80,000 dead and wounded, 60 guns and 200 machine guns.

BALTIC PROVINCES.

RUSSIANS HIT BACK.

GERMAN FORCE ROUTED.

PETROGRAD, May 11.

A communique states: We routed a division of cavalry and a regiment of Prussian Guards in the Shavli region. The pursuit lasted all night long on May 9, for a distance of several dozen versts.

We took several thousand prisoners last week.

BRITISH PRISONERS.

KILLED BY GERMANS.

DESERTERS' STORY.

LONDON, May 10.

The Official Press Bureau publishes a despatch from the British Minister at the Hague, enclosing a sworn declaration made by Mr. J. Martin, editor of the "Rotterdamsch Nieuwsblad."

He states that Richard Lorenz, a deserter, told him that Prince Rupprecht's Bavarians were formally ordered to make no British prisoners. In one case four British were burned alive in a hangar. Men who committed the atrocity received medals.

Friedrich Kuller, a Bavarian deserter, confirmed the order, and said that he had shot five prisoners. Kahlmann, a third deserter, stated that Britishers were brought to headquarters with their hands bound behind their backs, and their eyes bandaged. They were executed under the supervision of the commanding officer, without being told they would be shot.

Kahlmann added that nearly all were wounded, as British soldiers do not surrender while they are able to fight. Kuller and Kahlmann stated they did not approve of the order, as they did not hate the British, though they feared them. They deserted because of their officers' rough treatment. They were practically starved in the trenches.

A few days after the interviews with Mr. Martin, Kuller was short of money, and went to the German Consulate, despite a warning as to the danger. Kahlmann accompanied him, and waited outside the Consulate three and a half hours. Kuller has not been seen since, nor has he returned to his lodgings.

Mr. Vaditmar, a newspaper correspondent, in a declaration, states that Kuller told him his company shot 21 British prisoners because they belonged to a regiment which blew up the bridge over the Schgldt, when many German troops were crossing it in pursuit of the retreating British Army. All the men were placed against a wall, and shot one after another at Warvick, under the order of Major Hoffman. On another occasion a British officer and four soldiers who surrendered were shot in the Castle of Hollebeke, after a hand-to-hand fight.

IN GERMANY.

TREATMENT IMPROVED.

A White Paper which has been published contains reports of United States officials who visited the camps of British prisoners and interned civilians in Germany. The reports indicate an improvement in the treatment of prisoners, though there are many complaints as to the quality of food, accommodation, and sanitary arrangements.

SEDITION IN INDIA.

MANY ARRESTS.

FAILURE OF CONSPIRACY.

SIMLA, May 10.

An important prosecution before Special Commissioners, sitting under the recently-passed Defence of India Act, is progressing at Lahore against some 82 persons who are alleged to have taken part in a seditious conspiracy against the British Government, which was engineered by Indians returning from America.

The origin of the conspiracy is to be found in the movement on the Pacific coast, and is directed by one Hai Dyal in the hope that the administration will be weakened by the war emissaries who have come back to India in considerable numbers, and who have endeavoured to stir up trouble mainly in the Punjab and United Provinces. They have sought to collect arms and explosives, to circulate seditious literature, to tamper with troops, and find funds by robbery.

A series of dacoities have taken place, and murders have been committed. Owing to the vigilance of the police and the co-operation of the people, seizures of bombs have been made and plans detected. The ringleaders have been arrested and several of those implicated have made full statements of the aims and objects of the plot, which has conspicuously failed from the very beginning. The plotters have failed to win the sympathy of their own people in India, and, although a majority of them are Sikhs, the Government has had the fullest possible assistance of all Sikh leaders, who keenly resented the discreditable and unorthodox proceedings as an offence and insult to the Sikh's traditions and feelings.

Attempts to persuade the Mahomedans to join in the programme of revolt failed, and no Mahomedans are among the accused.

Other tribunals under the same Act are occupied in the disposal of the charges of dacoity and incendiarism in certain districts and the Western Punjab, which were the outcome rather of economic pressure and ill feeling between the Hindus and Mahomedans than connected with the above conspiracy.

FALLEN CANADIANS.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

LONDON, May

A memorial service to the Canadians who fell at Ypres was held at St. Paul's, the building being crowded.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Harcourt, and Lord Lansdowne were present. Many soldiers in khaki attended, a considerable proportion being wounded. The Dead March in "Saul" was played, and the bugles sounded "The Last Post." The Canadian National Anthem was given.

The Bishop of London quoted passages from the record of thrilling episodes given in an officer's account of the battle of Ypres.

LA BASSEE.

ALLIES' EFFORT.

PRESSING ON.

TERRIFIC ARTILLERY.

LONDON, May 11.

The "Daily News" correspondent at Dunkirk states that a great British attack against La Bassee commenced at dawn on Saturday. The shock of heavy artillery duels was felt at Bailleul, 15 miles away. The duels lasted seven hours on Saturday. They were resumed at 3 on Sunday morning, and are still raging.

Under the big guns our infantry are pressing onward for a great thrust at the La Bassee stronghold. The French are supporting us with great vigour.

FRENCH REPORT.

IMPORTANT SUCCESS.

PARIS, May 11.

A communique states: Despite German counter-attacks we maintained yesterday's gains north of Arras, and enlarged them, notably between Carency and Souchez.

The German prisoners exceed 3000. We captured also six guns and 50 machine guns.

ANGLO-FRENCH OFFENSIVE.

The Anglo-French offensive covers a front of twenty-five miles. The advance in the French sector is more than the gain at Neuve Chapelle. The German line protects a valuable railway system, and if it was pierced the Allies would threaten German communications.

The German position is exceptionally strong, consisting of slag heaps connected by a maze of barbed wire and communication trenches.

BERLIN'S STATEMENT.

ALLIES GAIN TRENCHES.

LONDON, May 11.

A Berlin official message says: A great Anglo-French attack was delivered south-west of Lille in reply to our success in Galicia. It was directed against the German positions east of Fleurbaix, east of Richebourg, and at Vermelles, Ablain, Neufville, and Saint Laurent, near Arras.

At least four fresh army corps, besides old troops, made repeated attacks. These were everywhere repulsed with very heavy losses, especially to the English. We took prisoner 500.

The enemy occupied our advanced trenches between Arency and Neufville. Counter-attacks are proceeding.

IN FLANDERS.

ENEMY'S ATTACKS.

BRITISH LINE UNCHANGED.

Field-Marshal Sir John French reports that, despite the enemy's repeated attacks last week, our line east of Ypres is practically unchanged.

The enemy made five unsuccessful attacks on Sunday, and suffered very heavy losses. Fighting on the First Army's front to-day was confined to the artillery.

GERMANS REPULSED.

PARIS, May 10.

A communique states:—Three fresh German attacks were made to the northward of Staenstraete, near Nieuport, but were repulsed.

YPRES REGION.

GERMAN CONCENTRATION.

DUNKIRK, May 11.

The Germans are preparing another offensive in the Ypres region, and are concentrating at Courtrai, Lille, and Roulers. They also have brought up heavy infantry reinforcements.

A hundred new Krupp guns are massed at Ingelmunster, whence they can quickly be moved by rail and road in almost any direction.

TURKISH ATROCITIES.

MINISTER CRUCIFIED.

LONDON, May 10.

An American missionary at Urumiah, Persia, in a letter, dated April 8, says that all Christian villages have been plundered and burnt by the Turks and Kurds. One thousand have been massacred, and 2000 have died of disease. Two hundred Turks are carrying on the massacres.

The Russian Vice-Consul at Salmas (Persian Armenia) has reported on the continual murders, outrages, and abductions at Salmas and Gulpashan. On the orders of Turkish Consuls, 25 prominent citizens were conveyed to the graveyard at Gulpashan, where they were butchered like animals in the presence of their relatives. One minister was crucified and burnt alive.

A bishop was hanged. Refugees in the Catholic Mission were taken before the Turkish Consul and 64 were beheaded. Several parties of Christians at Salmas were massacred with their arms tied together. In other instances, the victims were tied to ladders with their heads sticking through the rungs, and they were then beheaded.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

AGREEMENT CONFIRMED.

LONDON, May 10.

Hon. Neil Primrose, in reply to a question in the House of Commons, by Mr. B. E. Peto, M.P. for Devizes Division Wilts, confirmed the report that an agreement had been arrived at between China and Japan. He added that questions relating to railway concessions in Southern China would be reserved for future negotiation.

AIRSHIP RAID.

DETAILS OF DAMAGE.

RAIDER REPORTED HIT.

LONDON, May 11.

Details of the attack on the Essex coast show that when the airship, which was using a searchlight, was sighted, the town's hooter was sounded, warning the people to remain in their houses. About a hundred at Southend, Westcliff, and Leigh rushed into the streets. There was no panic.

When the bombs dropped fires broke out in several different places and spread rapidly. One family escaped from a burning house by jumping from the windows. A boarding-house was gutted, but the occupants escaped.

A bomb crashed into a Mr. Whitwell's house; the bed was ignited, and Mrs. Whitwell was killed while she was in bed. Mr. Whitwell was also severely injured in trying to extinguish the fire. Ten people were injured at Southend.

Spectators state that the Zeppelin was fired at when passing Pitsea, and they believe that it was hit, as it appeared to be in difficulties when it was passing over Romford.

An aeroplane went up at Sheerness and drove off the airship. It is feared that considerable damage was done at Canvey Island.

The incendiary bombs consisted of a core of tarred rope saturated with chemicals, and bound with wire until they were made sufficiently heavy to penetrate roofs. The fuse was apparently lighted before the missile was dropped. They were found hard to extinguish.

The damage to Southend and Prittlewell is estimated at £10,000.

A bomb was dropped near a prison-ship in which 1200 German civilians are interned. There were many narrow escapes.

Another bomb crashed into a bedroom, in which were two sisters. It fell within a few inches of the bed, and ignited the room.

RECRUITING STIMULATED.

The raid on Southend has stimulated recruiting in London. There was a brisk response to the Navy poster with the lines "William, the Murderer." "Lend a hand to bring him to justice."

GERMAN STATEMENT.

A Berlin official announcement says an airship bombed the fortified place of Southend.

HAGUE CONVENTION.

GERMAN DISREGARD.

LIQUOR LAWS.

GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSALS.

LONDON, May 10.

Mr. Lloyd George to-day explained the bill dealing with the drink problem. The Government, he said, proposed that the bill should be administered by a central board, which would advise the Government on the question of areas. In the latter, efficient local committees of employers and workmen already existed. The supply of liquor would be in the hands of the Government, and could only be obtained through the local committees.

The Government was prepared to appoint a committee to inquire into the statements, contained in the White Paper, as to the drinking habits of the working classes.

Mr. Henderson, M.P., promised that the Labour Party would do everything to make the Act effective.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

LONDON, May 11.

In response to the North-east Coast Armaments Committee's appeal, the Jockey Club has abandoned fixtures in that area.

Mr. T. MacKenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand, speaking at a meeting of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society, in the Mansion House, said that universal training enabled New Zealanders, in common with their Australian and Canadian comrades, to participate in the war in a manner worthy of the country.

"UNSURPASSABLE PATRIOTISM."

The "Tribuna," of Rome, in an article on the British military situation since the war, and the wonderful preparations in face of the enemy, discusses what Great Britain's position would have been if she had had conscription. While admitting that she would have had a larger army sooner ready, the "Tribuna" says:—"She would not have given the world the unsurpassed and unsurpassable spectacle of patriotism now offered. The spontaneity with which the British people have given in half a year a couple of million men is a wonder which has never heretofore occurred in any country of the world, and it is difficult to believe that it will happen again in future history."

AUSTRALIA'S THANKS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher, to-day despatched the following message to the Prime Minister of Canada in reply to his cablegram of the previous day:—"We were happy that our soldiers did so well, and that feeling is increased by your kind message."

STRIKE THREAT.

LOYAL DOCKYARD WORKERS.

Something more than discontent has developed among the workmen employed at the Naval Dockyard, Cockatoo Island, consequent upon the employment of a naturalised German, who is alleged to have made remarks on the sinking of the Lusitania that did not meet with the approval of those around him.

A deputation waited upon the general manager, Mr. J. King Salter, and asked that the man should be dismissed. This the manager refused to agree to. The deputation thereupon gave notice that if the man was not out of the works within 24 hours all hands would probably down tools, and leave the island.

Mr. King Salter admitted yesterday that there was considerable feeling among the employees, and said he was considering the whole matter.

WILFUL MURDER.

THE LUSITANIA.

CORONER'S FINDING.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

LONDON, May 10.

At the inquest as to the loss of the Lusitania, Captain Turner, who was in charge of the liner, in his evidence stated that when he approached the danger zone the boats were swung out and the bulkhead doors closed. The speed of the vessel was slowed down to fifteen knots. Owing to the haze that was the fastest that the boat was travelling. He received a number of wireless messages, including a warning that there was a submarine off the Irish coast, and carried out the special instructions which were issued for such emergencies. He saw the wake of a torpedo. The first explosion was followed by a second explosion, but that might have been internal. Smoke and steam arose between the third and fourth funnels. He ordered the boats to be lowered to the rails, and the women and children placed in them. He also ordered the engines to be stopped, but they were out of commission.

A verdict of wholesale wilful murder was returned against the German Emperor, the German Government, and the submarine crew.

GERMAN ATTITUDE.

WILL PERSIST IN POLICY.

THE CONTRABAND ALLEGATION

NEW YORK, May 11.

Dr. Dernburg, the German representative, in a message to the American people, declares that Americans only will be safe if they travel by American vessels not carrying contraband. United States ships with contraband will be topedoed exactly the same as British, except that an attempt will be made to give warning in time for the passengers and crew to escape.

A Cleveland message says Dr. Dernburg attempted to justify the sinking of the Lusitania on the ground that she carried contraband, and was classified as a British auxiliary cruiser. The warnings issued, he says, ought to have been heeded.

The destruction of the Gulf Light, he says, was also justified.

BLAMING BRITAIN.

The German Foreign Office has sent a wireless message to Washington, expressing its deepest sympathy for the loss of so many Americans.

"The responsibility for the loss," the message says, "rests with Great Britain, as the Lusitania carried 5400 cases of ammunition. The rest of the cargo was chiefly contraband also."

MERCHANT SHIPS.

ADMIRALTY STATEMENT.

ESCORTS CANNOT BE SPARED.

LONDON, May 10.

In the House of Commons to-day the First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Winston Churchill, informed a number of members, in reply to questions, that it was premature to discuss the torpedoing of the Lusitania pending an inquiry. It would be impossible to disclose the naval dispositions along the coast. The Admiralty's resources were inadequate to supply an escort for merchant or passenger ships.

The Admiralty, continued Mr. Churchill, owing to Germany's warning, had sent the Lusitania directions regarding her course. Excepting the Lusitania, the entire seaborne trade had been conducted without appreciable loss. No exception had been made in the Lusitania's case to the regular methods of safeguarding seagoing vessels.

UNITED STATES.

NOT FOR WAR.

PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE.

WASHINGTON, May 10.

President Wilson has allowed it to be made known that he does not intend to call a special session of Congress.

This shows clearly that the United States intends to avoid war with Germany, as Congress must be consulted before war is declared.

DEMAND ON GERMANY.

It is understood that President Wilson has demanded a pledge from Germany that she will abandon the methods of warfare which are contrary to modern civilisation, and pay a full cash indemnity for every American whose life was lost by the sinking of the Lusitania, the Gulflight, and the Falaba.

AMERICA'S DEAD.

VON BERNSTORFF'S REGRETS.

The German Ambassador to the United States, Count Bernstorff, called on Mr. Bryan, and expressed his regret that events of war had caused the deaths of so many American citizens.

Throughout the whole of the conversation Count Bernstorff avoided all mention of the Lusitania.

GERMAN CONTEMPT.

OF WHAT AMERICANS THINK.

When reporters asked Count von Bernstorff whether he had considered what Americans think, he replied: "Let them think," and then with an oath told his chauffeur to drive on.

INTERNED SHIPS.

SEIZURE SUGGESTED.

A suggestion that has been made that the United States Government should seize the interned ships belonging to Germany in revenge for the loss of the Lusitania is being seriously mooted by the American press of all shades of politics.

Others suggest that American warships should be allowed to convoy all ships on which American passengers are travelling to Europe.

ANTI-GERMAN FEELING.

RIOTS IN CANADA.

VANCOUVER, May 10.

Riots against the Germans have broken out in Victoria (B.C.). Houses and shops have been wrecked. Martial law has been declared.

Disturbances of a minor character have taken place in some small towns in the United States.

AGITATION IN ENGLAND.

REPRISALS URGED.

LONDON, May 10.

There is a growing agitation for the internment of alien enemies, whether they are naturalised or not. The police are interning all Germans in Liverpool, and have warned certain naturalised Germans to leave the district.

Owing to anti-German riots in Liverpool, the public houses have been ordered to close at 6 p.m.

THE EXCHANGES.

GERMAN MEMBERS EXPELLED.

British members of the Stock Exchange, after several scuffles, prevented a number of Germans from entering the building. Members of the Corn Exchange gave Germans five seconds to quit or else they would be thrown out.

Notices were posted at the Baltic Exchange and the Liverpool Cotton Exchange warning Austrians and Germans not to enter.

The committee of the London Stock Exchange on Saturday advised German members not to attend.

RUNNING AMOK.

"THE MADNESS OF GERMANY."

Mr. Bonar Law, speaking in London today, said:—"What did the sinking of the Lusitania mean? It might mean that the Germans were simply running amok, for these were the deeds of desperate men. But he thought there was a method in the madness of Germany. Having failed to secure the sympathy of the neutrals, she was determined to terrorise them.

"The Lusitania outrage," concluded Mr. Bonar Law, "would convince us that not only the soldiers, but the whole nation was at war, and every ounce of strength must be directed to bringing the war to an end."

ITALIAN ANGER.

THE EVE OF WAR.

ROME, May 10.

The sinking of the Lusitania has aroused intense anger in Italy. The "Corriere D'Italia" and other Catholic organs deplore such shameful methods of warfare.

Newspapers state that the Pope is convinced that the Germans have proved utterly regardless of every law of humanity and morality.

"Il Secolo" says: "The torpedoing of the Lusitania happened at an opportune moment, because we are on the eve of entering into war and participating in a struggle against tyrants, bullies, and violaters of every law of human right."

MR. VANDERBILT'S GALLANTRY

A lady passenger by the Lusitania pays a tribute to Mr. Vanderbilt's gallantry. He devoted himself, along with his valet, to collecting and placing children in the boats of the sinking vessel.

SUBMARINE WAR.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, May 10.

The British steamer Queen Wilhelmina, (3388 tons) has been sunk in the North Sea. She withstood considerable shelling, and eventually a second torpedo blew her up.

The crew were allowed time to take to the boats.

APOLOGY TO HOLLAND.

THE HAGUE, May 11.

Germany has informed Holland that the steamer Katwijk was sunk by mistake. The Government expressed regret, and has offered compensation.

LUSITANIA PASSENGERS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Macky, of Auckland, who are reported among the missing Lusitania victims, have several friends in Sydney, where they spent a short visit a year ago. Mr. Macky belonged to the same family as the late Dr. Dill Macky. Mrs. Macky, who was a Miss Birrell, was a Victorian. She was educated at the late Mr. Budd's school in Melbourne, and kept in touch with many of her former schoolmates, who will all keenly regret her loss. Writing to a friend in Sydney just prior to sailing from Auckland, Mrs. Macky said that Mr. Macky and she were going to England, via New York, with their son Jack, who wished to enlist with an English regiment. Mr. J. C. Macky was the senior partner of Messrs. Macky, Logan, and Caldwell, warehousemen, of Auckland (N.Z.).

A PROTEST.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The New Zealand Patriotic Society Executive has passed a resolution of protest against the latest act of barbarism and murder committed by Germany in sinking the Lusitania. It pledged members to assist to bring about the punishment of the perpetrators of such vile crimes, and also expressed the opinion that the time had arrived when unnaturalised Germans and Austrians, who are at present enjoying liberty, and in some cases occupying good positions in the Public Service, should immediately be interned and held prisoners of war; also that the Government be asked to scrutinise carefully the conduct of naturalised British subjects.

LORD LIVERPOOL'S MESSAGE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

On behalf of the Government and citizens of New Zealand, the Governor, Lord Liverpool, has cabled to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Harcourt, asking him to convey to the people of the United Kingdom, especially relations and friends of the Lusitania's victims, New Zealand's sympathy, also her horror and detestation, at the foul, dastardly crime which has been committed.

TRANSFER OF VESSELS.

The Acting Collector of Customs and Acting Registrar of Shipping, Sydney, advises in connection with the proclamation prohibiting the exportation from the Commonwealth, except with the consent of the Minister for Trade and Customs, of vessels, craft, and boats of all kinds, floating docks, and their component parts, that in future no facilities will be given, and no formalities executed, in connection with the transfer of a British ship to a foreign owner until such transfer has been sanctioned by the Minister for Trade and Customs.

£3500 FOR AMBULANCES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

From the United Commercial Travellers' Associations in Australia the Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, has received a cheque for £3500. Of this sum £600 has been given by Sir Edwin Smith, of Adelaide, the Australian president, £100 to each State association.

WAR NOTES.

ARMENTIERES-ARRAS SECTOR.

The offensive of the Allies in the Armentieres-Arras sector of the western front appears to be meeting with success, notably towards the southern end, where the French have not only maintained the ground yesterday reported to have been taken, but have pushed still further eastward. One account declares that already the French have made an even greater advance than the British did in their historic effort in the Neuve Chapelle district; and the fact that they captured six guns in itself indicates that the forward move has been a notable one, for it must be remembered that guns are placed well behind the infantry lines, and considerable ground has to be won before they can be even endangered. The attacks of the British continue north of La Bassee, and it is stated that our troops have also launched a big assault on that town itself. This place with its junction of four railway lines, is one of the most important positions on this section of the front, and the Germans have held on to it with the utmost tenacity. They have, during their months of occupation, so strongly entrenched themselves that to take it now would be almost tantamount to taking a fortress. The French in making their eastward thrust south of La Bassee seek in the first place to bring the Allied line still further round the German stronghold there, and in the second place to win a way to the highly important railway from Arras to Lille, which runs behind and roughly parallel with the German line. Along this railway all the German supplies for the troops in the trenches in this sector are conveyed, and if the Allies can cut the railway, it will, of course, completely dislocate their lateral lines of communication. The French are already within about four miles of the line in the Vermelles-Loos district, and it begins to look as though not many weeks will pass before they push right across to it. The German positions here, however, are very strongly entrenched, and the last mile or two will only be won at big cost.

THE DARDANELLES.

No official news as to the position on the Gallipoli Peninsula has come to hand for some days. It was stated when the last communique came through that no further official statement would be made until the present phase of the operations had been completed; so there is no particular significance in the absence of such news. The "Daily Chronicle" correspondent, however, reports that fighting continues far inland from Gaba Tepeh, where the Australasians landed, but that it is beyond doubt our hold on the ridges is quite secure. As to the British forces further south, they are stated to have driven the Turks from the woods beyond Crithia, a town on the southern slopes of the dominating hill, Atchi Baba (730ft), a little over four miles north of Seddul Bahr. This item suggests very stubborn fighting, for the British troops were reported to have gained a secure foothold in this locality a good many days ago. In the meantime the fleet is very active, and some ships have actually penetrated as far into the Straits as Sari Sigiar Bay, the inlet immediately south of the entrance to The Narrows, and are now vigorously bombarding the forts of Kilid Bahr, Chanak, Nagara, and Kum Kalessi at short range. It will be short range indeed, for Kilid Bahr is hardly more than two and a half miles from the cape Kephez Burnu, which marks the southern extremity of Sari Sigiar Bay. The effect of such a bombardment must be terrific, and if it is continued there should be few stones left unturned in any of the forts. The fact that the ships are right up to the very jaws of the Narrows, as it were, suggests that the Admiral is confident of having overcome the floating mine menace, and it also proves that the guns of Kilid Bahr and Chanak, at least, are by this time not worth worrying much about.

THE GALICIAN BATTLE.

The descriptions of the fighting in Galicia now coming to hand, both from Budapest and Petrograd, convey some idea of the fierceness of the struggle during the Austro-German attempts to gain the eastern bank of the Dunajec River. The enemy attacked on the lines the Germans have long since familiarised us with—a series of great frontal assaults hurled against the Russian positions with an entire disregard for the sacrifice of life involved. The river fight lasted for a whole week, and we are told that the Russian artillery made amazingly good practice until, towards the end, it became weak owing to the lack of ammunition. In view of these two facts—a solid week of frontal attacks and the deadliness of the Russian artillery—we can assume that the losses of the Austro-German forces, concerning which both Berlin and Vienna are silent, were overwhelmingly greater than those suffered by the Russians, and that, although the Czar's troops had eventually to give ground, the success achieved by the enemy was won at bitter cost. And so with the fighting which followed the forcing of the Dunajec. As the Russians fell slowly back to position after position, they must have inflicted enormous loss upon the oncoming enemy. The severest handling which fell to the lot of the Russians appears to have been suffered by the troops in the angle formed by the main line on the Carpathians and the right flank running north-westward to the Vistula. The retirement from this corner seems to have been left a little late, and one division was cut off. The latter, however, with splendid gallantry, dismissed all thought of capitulation, fought its way through the Austro-Germans barring its way, and eventually rejoined its own army corps. The losses must have been very great, but the incident appears to have been not without its value to the Russians, for the heroism displayed by the division thrilled the whole of the army of the right, and did much to restore the confidence that had been somewhat shaken during the retirement from the Dunajec.

THE IMPORTANCE OF KROSNO.

Military circles in Petrograd are reported to hold the view that the Austro-Germans will have to master the Russian line of defences on the Wisloka River before they can menace the Grand Duke's strategy in regard to the southern slopes of the Carpathians. This corresponds with the view expressed in this column yesterday, when we said that they would have to push further to the eastward before we could accept the Austrian claim of a couple of days ago, that the Russians were falling back from the Carpathians as far as Uszok. And a cable message, received after our note had been written, reported that the Russians had repulsed a number of attacks in the vicinity of Mezo Laborcz, which is on the southern side of the Carpathians, between the Dukla and Lupkow passes. This obviously proved the Austrian claim to be wrong. This morning, however, we are not only told by the Germans that their forces have now crossed the Wisloka River, but the official communique from Petrograd admits that the enemy "has crossed the Wisloka near Krosno." This Russian message has the elements of an unpleasant surprise in it. As far as we know there is no town of Krosno on the Wisloka, but there is a Krosno on the Wistok River. It is about 13 miles east of Jaslo, on the Wisloka River, and about 20 miles due north of the Dukla Pass. The message seems to have mixed up the names of the rivers—the Wisloka, which flows northward to the Vistula, and the Wistok (sometimes referred to as the "Wislok"), which runs, roughly, north-east to the San, both having their sources in the Dukla district.

INVASION OF HUNGARY CHECKED.

No indication is given us as to the strength of the German forces which have pushed on to Krosno, nor if the main body of the Austro-German army is still being held up on the line of the Wisloka. If Krosno is strongly held by the enemy, and their line generally can be brought forward in conformity with this advance, then we must expect to hear of the Grand Duke withdrawing his forces from the southern slopes of the Carpathians, if not that he is preparing to release his hold on the Lupkow Pass—the only railway pass in his possession. The news of the next day or two should be awaited, however, before we take such a retirement for granted. All we actually know up till the present is that the Russian right wing has been driven in a considerable distance, and that this has had the effect of checking the Grand Duke's intention to push down into Hungary. Such a check is admittedly disappointing; but the enemy brought it about at apparently greater cost to themselves than they inflicted upon the Russians; and, although the latter have had to give ground, their armies are still intact, and from now onward will receive greater reinforcements than the extra men the enemy can throw into this sphere of operations.

THE LIBAU-RIGA REGION.

The German incursion into Russia in the direction of Libau and Riga has met with the expected set-back. As we pointed out at the time it was first reported, there was everything to indicate that the Germans were not in very great force, and the whole affair looks like a big raiding expedition. It was strong enough, however, to take the port of Libau, weakly held from a purely military point of view; but a Russian force appeared on the scene in time to bar the German advance towards Riga, and Berlin now admits that its troops had to fall back before they reached Mitau. A Petrograd communique states, further, that the Russians have inflicted a severe defeat upon the Germans near Shavli, which is on the Vilna-Libau railway; and the circumstances of this action suggest that it is a Russian column, strong in cavalry, that is dealing with the invaders. Such a force was reported to be operating in the vicinity of Memel some weeks ago, and we suggested that the Germans pushing northward might possibly find their attenuated line of communications in jeopardy before long. If the Russians at Shavli are mainly cavalry, and the Germans are still in Libau, then the latter should shortly find themselves in danger of isolation; and, unless the German fleet is in undisputed control of this section of the Baltic they should have considerable difficulty in extricating themselves.

ANOTHER GOOD DAY

AT THE BARRACKS.

THE RUSH CONTINUES.

There was little diminution of the muster at the enrolling office yesterday. The recruits began to roll up early, and by 10 o'clock there was a long queue waiting for both the enrolling officer and the doctors. This does not mean that the enrolling officer or the doctors were not ready for the men—they were; but it is not the usual thing to see a string of men waiting outside the enrolling office. Such a state of affairs denotes a rush, and a rush there has been for several days, owing to the fact that New South Welshmen have recognised that it is up to them to follow their friends and join the colours. Nearly 250 passed through the enrolling office yesterday, and as far as physique is concerned they were an improvement on the last three days. They included bank clerks, motor mechanics, law students, men from the University, and bank officials.

Among the applicants were a couple of Russians. Both had been in the Russian navy, but one was so deficient as far as one eye was concerned that he was rejected. There was also a Greek, who said he had been born in Cyprus. He could speak French, German, and Roumanian fluently, and his English would have led the ordinary Australian to have taken him for an Englishman. Further, he held a commission as lieutenant in the Greek army, and was only too keen to place his services at the disposal of his adopted country.

It was a great day, taking it all round, and the enrolling officer expressed himself as very satisfied with the recruits. He added that a number of countrymen had also come forward to offer their services, each man having his own business, and only asking for time to settle up affairs.

At the Government House grounds yesterday, the members of the Lands Department Rifle Club made a farewell presentation to the following officers of the Lands Department, who leave for the front with the next contingent:—Captain Travers, Lieut. F. Gonbert, Messrs. Thomas, I. Matthews, F. Londsdale, J. Best, Upton, and Cook. Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, made the presentation.

Privates Martin Collins and Sid McKinnon, who are proceeding to the front, were tendered a farewell on Monday evening by their Darling Point friends, and were presented with silver-mounted pipes and pouches.

Private J. Black, who is leaving for the front, was on Saturday, at a gathering of the litho. department of W. E. Smith, presented with a wristlet watch and a small silk Australian flag, on behalf of the employees. Another presentation took place in the letterpress department of W. E. Smith on Friday.

A supper was given to members of the North Sydney branch of the National Reserve (South African Rifle Club) at Arcadia on Saturday night to Messrs. A. C. Boxsell, W. T. Meggitt, and R. J. T. Forsyth, who are going to the front.

At the Technical College on Friday evening last, a send off was given to Private L. S. Taylor, who has joined the expeditionary forces by the staff and students of the woodworking classes. He was presented with a wristlet watch and a pipe.

The members of the Palace Emporium Swimming Club met on Saturday afternoon to farewell Mr. J. G. Brown, their race secretary, who is leaving with the Royal Army Medical Corps for the front. A presentation of a silver wristlet watch and a sport knife was made.

Private Jupp, son of Mr. E. Jupp, sen., of Devlin-street, Ryde, was entertained at the Ryde Town Hall, and presented by the Mayor (Alderman T. Kelly), on behalf of the citizens, with a wristlet watch and a silver stud case, prior to leaving for the front with the Light Horse.

Private Leonard Valentine, of Regent-street, Ryde, was entertained at Plasto's Hotel, and presented with a wristlet watch.

FOOD AND CARE OF TROOPS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The question as to whether our troops in Egypt are being adequately fed is one of supreme importance. It is one that is agitating the minds of thousands throughout the Commonwealth, but it has received little attention in your columns. A son in Egypt informs me that his ration is 1lb of meat, 1lb of bread, 2oz of sugar, and 4oz of jam per day. The old ration to boundary riders on stations was 10lb meat, 10lb flour, 2lb sugar, ¼lb of tea per week, and such a ration is now rarely if ever insisted upon; but observe that it is far more liberal than that said to be supplied to the troops in Egypt.

You published last Tuesday a letter from a youth who said that the rations in Egypt are all that could be expected, and quite adequate; but the testimony is unsupported. I consider you would be doing a great service to the State as a whole if you would throw your columns open to the people, that they might publish any information bearing upon this subject—that they have obtained direct from our men.

It is well known to me and to thousands of others, that the food arrangements and the camp management at Liverpool were very bad indeed for a very considerable time. I have heard it has been improved and I hope that is true.

On the transports, we are informed that the meals, though by no means elaborate, were adequate, this comes from the same authority as the ration of 1lb of meat, etc., already quoted; it has to be remembered that on the transports the men were not undergoing severe training, in Egypt they are, and of course they should be properly, even generously, fed. If this is not being done, it is high time that a fund to provide food to Australian troops in Egypt were inaugurated. It is probably not the direct fault of the military authorities that the men are not adequately fed, if, in truth, they are not, it is probably some wretched contractor is pocketing the difference in value between plenty of food, and an inadequate provision.

But all Government departments move slowly, and the people of this country are patient under official blundering; but once let them awake to the fact, if fact it is, and someone's hair is going to fly. The best thing those at home can do is to fight for the men, who are gone to serve us where we can be of use, by stirring up official inaction, and, if necessary, changing the whole personnel of the administration till it is competent to deal with the problem of supplying our troops in camp with generous nutrition. I hope this letter may be the means of bringing evidence to bear on the subject of this victualling question. If the men are well fed all will be right; if not, some of us, yes, a good many thousands of my fellow-countrymen, will want to have that matter rectified by cablegram. It is in the hope of getting the matter well ventilated that I appeal to you.

I am, etc.,
TRUTH WANTED.

PREMIERS CONFER.

RAILWAY GAUGES.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION.

The Premiers' Conference was continued at State Parliament House yesterday, Mr. Holman presiding.

The question of a uniform railway gauge for Australia was discussed.

Mr. M'Kinnon (Vic.) moved.—"That in the opinion of this conference a commission of two leading railway experts, preferably from outside Australia, should be forthwith appointed by the Governments of the Commonwealth and the mainland States, to consider, report, and advise upon the question of unifying the gauge of Australian railways, particularly as to: (a) The need for a uniform gauge; (b) the most suitable gauge in the circumstances of existing and probable future development in Australia; (c) the best method of carrying out unification of gauge if deemed advisable; (d) what benefits will result (1) to the Commonwealth, (2) to each of the States; (e) the probable cost of such unification. The expenses of this commission to be borne by the States upon a population basis."

The motion was carried, without dissent. Mr. O'Sullivan (Q.) and Mr. Walker (W.A.) said that they voted for the resolution subject to the approval of their respective Cabinets.

BULK-HANDLING OF WHEAT.

Mr. Ashford (the N.S.W. Minister for Lands and Agriculture) laid before the conference his views regarding the bulk handling of grain.

A motion on the business paper read as follows.—"That the Railway Commissioners of the various States should confer, and ascertain if there is scope for combined action in certain respects, with resultant saving of cost, or other advantages." Mr. Ashford said that "the only ports available in New South Wales to-day for grain export were Sydney and Newcastle. An elevator might be established later at Jervis Bay. It was estimated that the cost of a silo at Sydney would be £175,000, and at Newcastle £75,000. There were centres in the country where elevators would be established. His proposal was to construct 55 in the country districts of New South Wales during five years. The elevators would have a capacity of from 50,000 bushels to 300,000 bushels, and would cost £875,000. If the four States, New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, co-operated in the matter, great economy could be effected. To carry an expected harvest in New South Wales, 40,000,000 bushels, 1281 special railway trucks, at a cost of £1,050,000, would have to be built. The trucks would be a dual purpose one. The total cost of the New South Wales scheme would be £2,200,000."

A resolution was carried to secure co-operation among the States, in connection with bulk-handling generally, and the design of elevators.

THIRD RAIL TESTS.

It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Holman (N.S.W.), seconded by Mr. M'Kinnon (Vic.), "that, in view of the grave importance of the unification of the railway gauges, the State and Federal Governments be urged to send representatives to the practical test of the Brennan third rail device proposed to be conducted at Tocumwal at a later date."

FEDERAL AND STATE ROLLS.

Mr. Black, Chief Secretary (New South Wales) suggested, therefore, that steps should be taken to secure uniformity between the Commonwealth and the States. To secure uniformity of boundaries, there would have to be some alteration in the number of State representatives. There would have to be two State members approximately for each Federal electorate. His proposal was to adopt, to some extent, the course followed by Tasmania, and he suggested that there should be a Royal Commission appointed to deal with the question of boundaries, such commission to consist of the chief Federal electoral officer in each State and the chief electoral officer in each State. He moved—"That steps be taken to secure electoral roll uniformity between Commonwealth and State."

Sir Alexander Peacock (Vic.) seconded the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

Mr. Vaughan (South Australia), moved.—"That a more liberal interpretation of the ruling relating to the admission of pensioners to benevolent asylums and payment for their maintenance in institutions be accepted by the Pensions Department, and that, when application for admission is made a decision be arrived at without the application having to stand over for three months for consideration."

What the mover wanted was a continuance of pensions after the pensioners entered institutions.

At the suggestion of Mr. Holman, the following addendum was added—"also, that full pension right should be paid to institutions on account of pensions received by them."

The motion, with the addendum, was carried.

FOOD AND DRUG STANDARDS.

It was represented by New South Wales, through Mr. Black, that draft regulations designed to achieve finality in the matter of uniform food and drug standards, had been framed on the basis of the report of the Royal Commission (Dr. Ashburton Thompson). These had been submitted confidentially for the consideration of the other States.

Mr. Black moved:—"That it is desirable to bring into uniformity the clauses of the various States' Pure Food Acts, dealing with the question of guarantee of goods, so as to secure ample protection to the retailer against the manufacturer, and to prevent the use for advertising purposes of any words indicating the existence of a guarantee."

Some revision of the present standards was, Mr. Black said, absolutely necessary. The public was not yet sufficiently protected, not only in regard to quality, but in respect, also, to weight. Only recently certain manufacturers had combined to send out 13oz tins instead of the usual 1lb tins.

In reply to Mr. M'Kinnon (Vic.), Mr. Holman said he believed New South Wales to be the worst offender in these matters.

Sir Alex. Peacock said South Australia and Western Australia had carried out the regulations, and Victoria was preparing to do so.

The first part of the motion was carried, and in respect to the second part, it was decided, at the instance of Mr. Hall, that the Attorney-General of Queensland should be requested to draft a bill on the question of guarantees, and submit it to the various States.

MIGRATION OF POPULATION.

Mr. Holman, referring to the question of immigration, said that Mr. Fisher had suggested the question might be again discussed at the conclusion of the war. New South Wales was prepared, therefore, to withdraw the matter.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION.

There was a proposal by New South Wales and Victoria that uniform legislation should be introduced respecting the hall-marking of jewellery. On the motion of Mr. Hall, it was decided that the Attorney-General of Victoria be requested to prepare and circulate a bill among the States.

On the motion of Mr. Hall, the Attorney-General of Victoria was requested to prepare and circulate a bill providing for uniform legislation in gold-buying.

It was decided that uniform legislation be introduced in regard to footwear. Mr. Hall stated that he had prepared a bill, and sent it to Victoria. He had since adopted the Victorian amendments, and sent the bill, as amended, on to the different States.

The conference will be resumed at 10 a.m. to-day.

FREETRADERS' PROTEST.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A protest was entered to-day by a deputation from the Victorian Freetrade and Land Values League to the Minister for Customs, Mr. Tudor, against the proposals for increased taxation on the necessaries of life.

It was pointed out that the deputation did not represent vested interests, but that part of the community which had to pay heavy taxes through the Customs. As freetraders they were much dissatisfied with the greater part of the reports of the Interstate Commission, but appreciated the fact that something like national policy as to imposing taxes was sought to be arrived at. Mr. Tudor, in reply, said that he did not agree with what the deputation suggested. As the result of monopolies people were paying more than they should. He would do his best to prevent the products of countries in which the industrial conditions of Australia did not exist from coming into Australia.

WOMEN DOCTORS

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The resident medical officers, including three women doctors, for the year 1915-1916 for Melbourne Hospital were introduced to the committee of management at its meeting to-day.

Mr. John Grice, chairman, in welcoming them on behalf of the committee, said their services would be very acceptable just now.

If anyone desires to make a special gift to either of these funds the Consul will be pleased if they will specify same in their letters.

INCREASED RECRUITING.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

Since the sinking of the Lusitania it is reported that recruiting in most parts has increased considerably.

BELGIAN DAY.

SENSATIONAL GIVING.

MONEY FLOWING IN.

Yesterday was the most electrical day in the whole Belgian Day campaign up to date. With the first mail Mr. Hugh J. Ward received the twenty-fifth cheque for £500. This was from Mr. Patrick O'Brien, "The Nest," Leura. The next £500 was from the Master Builders and Master Brickmakers Allied Trades. In the afternoon a telephone message informed Mr. Ward that the Sydney and Suburban Timber Merchants' Association desired to be represented with £500. Immediately following upon this Mrs. Board Marshall visited the Williamson offices to state that her name had appeared in the press as having given £25. "I was very indignant," she said, "as my telephone message was that I wished to give £500. Will you please put me down for that amount." A letter was received in the afternoon from Messrs. George Morgan and Co., Ltd., enclosing £500.

Later in the afternoon a telegram arrived from Mr. Hickson, hon. secretary of the Armidale National Belgian Fund. This ran: "Accept £500 from the Armidale National Belgian Fund."

This made a tally of six £500 cheques for the day, bringing the total number to thirty, as under:—

Mr. John Hunter, £500.
Mr. Sam Hordern, £500.
Mr. Anthony Hordern, £500.

Mr. Hugh J. Ward, £500.
Mr. Ed. Resch, £500.
Mr. James C. White, £500.
Messrs. Anthony Hordern and Sons, Limited, £500.
Mrs. Isabella Dwyer, £500.
Mr. Patrick O'Brien, £500.
City and Suburban Timber Merchants' Association, £500.
Master Builders and Master Brickmakers' Allied Trades, £500.
Mrs. Board Marshall, £500.
Messrs. George Morgan and Co., Ltd., £500.
Armidale National Belgian Fund, £500.

The appeal for nineteen cheques of £25 each from ladies of the State (the originator of it to be the twentieth in order to make up a cheque for £500) has been so successful that the twentieth has been called upon. This is Mrs. Charles Hart, 9 Greenknowe-avenue, Potts Point. The twenty £25 cheques called for have been donated by the following:—Mrs. John Hunter, £25; Mrs. C. Conway, North Sydney, £25; Anonymous, £25; Mrs. R. T. Carter, £25; Mrs. Victor White, £25; Mrs. Spencer Nolan, £25; Mrs. W. J. Trickett, £25; Mrs. Florence A. Vindin, £25; Anonymous, £50; Miss Flora Macansh, £25; Miss S. C. Brennan, £25; Mrs. M. A. E. Lee, £25; Mrs. J. C. Pratt, £25; Misses Stella and Hilda Pratt, £25; Miss Josephine Paxton, £25; Mrs. J. H. Kitchen, £25; Two Sincere Sympathisers, £50; Mrs. Charles Hart, £25.

Yesterday morning the Misses Elsie and Muriel Catter, anticipating that the first £500 in cheques of £25 would be quickly forthcoming, asked Mr. Ward to start the second run for £500 with £25 from themselves. This second £500 has been achieved with the following donations:—Misses Elsie and Muriel Catter, £25; Mrs. George S. Littlejohn, £25; Mrs. Leslie Rouse, £25; Mrs. Robert Sands, £25; Mrs. George Elliott, Mosman, £25; Mrs. Fairlie Harold Tronson, £25; Miss Rita Maiden, £25; Mrs. C. Arkell Smith, £25; Mrs. W. P. Faithful, £25; Mrs. W. H. Anderson, £25; Mrs. Wally Weekes, £25; a Lady Prominent in Nursing Circles, £25; Mrs. Esmond Friend, £25; Misses Jeannie and Maude Murray, £25; Mrs. A. W. Swan, £25; Miss Lass Goodheim, £25; Mrs. R. M. Pigott, £25; Mrs. James Brown, £25; Miss "E.," £25; Mrs. W. D. Simson, £25.

The third £500 from the ladies is now in process of realisation, four £25 cheques towards it being available from the following:—

Mrs. Margaret Smith	£25
Mrs. John Fletcher	£25
Mrs. Amy Rowland	£25

Mr. Philip R. Reaney, a Sydney dentist, yesterday wrote Mr. Ward saying that he would be prepared to give £100. If nine other dentists would join him he thought it would be a substantial recognition of their indebtedness to "brave little Belgium." The Mayor of Enfield also telephoned Mr. Ward that he would give £10 if eighteen others would give £5 each.

Mr. Percy R. Stevens, the honorary secretary of the carnival, which is being promoted for Belgian Day at Moree, in a letter to Mr. Ward yesterday, intimated that in response to a special appeal made to wealthy men in his district, one gentleman had come forward with a promise to donate £25, on the understanding that nineteen others gave the same amount. This offer has stimulated a number of promises, and Mr. Stevens is satisfied that the amount of £500 will be raised independent of other means. Mr. Ward readily agreed to accept a £500 so contributed as one of the five hundreds in his list, and is agreeable to it being paid into the local Belgian fund.

Mr. Ward stated last night that he hopes to see a great effort put forward in the last three days of the campaign for Belgian Day. He felt sure that at least forty £500 cheques would be forthcoming in all. Thirty were now in hand. It was now a question of everyone giving what he could. The big men would continue on the £500 mark. Cheques for £250, £100, £50, £25, £20, £10, and £5 are now being called for. "Give to your limit" is the slogan of the day.

The objective of Belgian Day cannot be too greatly emphasised. It is to create for New South Wales the world's record in a single day's giving.

Miss Nella Webb and Mr. Julius Knight have consented to give a special performance at Messrs. Grace Bros. on Friday, for a fee of £100 each, which they will give to the Belgian Day Fund.

AN APPEAL TO THE CHILDREN.

Children of Sydney, big and little, rich and poor, this appeal is to you. You are living through the greatest war the world has ever known, which means you are living in the saddest time there has ever been. Belgium, the country of heroes, whose glorious stand against a merciless enemy will never be forgotten, is devastated from end to end; thousands of her heroes are dead, those who are left are fighting still, and their wives and children are suffering, starving, dying—they have given their all, and are now entirely dependent upon the kindness of heart and practical sympathy of the rest of the world—it is for us to save them. No one is too young or too poor to help, and if every boy and girl in Sydney (under 16) were to give one penny a week for the next six months it would be of great assistance to the little Belgian children—they are hungry and cold, and often frightened; just as you would be if you had no home, were perhaps separated from your parents, and surrounded by cruel and merciless soldiers. Even those children who do not receive pocket money can always earn a little by helping others in various ways, and every penny subscribed would mean less hunger and suffering and sadness to the little ones of this brave nation. Many schoolchildren in Sydney are already helping, but the assistance of every single child is needed. The Belgians did their share in saving us from the foe—our share is to save them from the enemies of starvation, sickness, and death.

This scheme has been approved by the joint secretaries of the National Belgian Relief Fund, and will all children who are willing to help for the next six months send in their names and addresses, together with the first contribution of one penny stamp, to Miss S. Button, Addington, Macleay-street, Potts Point, Sydney, as soon as possible.

The postponed carnival in aid of the Belgians will be held in the ground of the Ku-ring-gai Recreation Club, Warrawee, on Saturday next. In addition to amusements during the afternoon two concerts will be held at night, one from 8 to 9 o'clock, and the other from 9 to 10 o'clock. Other entertainments will be in progress. Mr. Wyatt Burns, illusionist, and Messrs. Sinclair and Reay will give their services. A feature of the afternoon displays will be a Belgian street. Besides the amusements for the general public, there will be club events, such as tennis, croquet, and bowls tournaments. Mr. Joseph Cook, M.P., M. Watteeuw (Belgian Consul-General), and other notable people will be present. As a preliminary to the carnival a concert was held on the verandah of the club-house on Saturday last. Mrs. Lynne Rolin gave a patriotic song, which brought a shower of coins. Over 200 people were present.

GERMAN DECOY.

SUBMARINE METHODS.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

But for a timely warning from the British Admiralty, and the presence of mind of her commander, it is more than probable that the Orient liner Osterley, which arrived at Fremantle to-day, would now be resting on the bottom of the ocean somewhere in the Bay of Biscay.

Before leaving London Commander Jenks had been warned by the authorities to use the utmost caution when vessels were sighted flying distress signals, as it was known to the officials that a number of such vessels were being used as decoy ships for the German submarines. No sign of enemy submarines were seen in the Channel, but when the vessel was off Start Point during the early hours of the morning, a submarine was in the act of sinking a British vessel less than a mile away from the Osterley, but the passengers afterwards heard that the damaged vessel had been safely towed into port.

The following day, just as the vessel was entering the Bay of Biscay, a steamer flying a French flag was sighted some distance on the port bow. Having regard for the Admiralty's warning, Captain Jenks and his officers looked upon all strangers with a certain amount of suspicion, which was strengthened when a little later the vessel was seen to be flying signals of distress. The Osterley was kept on her course without diminution of speed, and on approaching closer Captain Jenks noticed that a mistake had been made in the hoisting of the signals, the flags having been reversed. The distressed vessel appeared to be carrying a quantity of timber as deck cargo, but through his telescope the Osterley's commander was able to observe certain signs that led him to the belief that the stranger had no cargo on her decks, and that what appeared to be timber was only canvas painted to represent timber. The Germans, however, had used a colour just a shade or two too dark, and the trick was discovered.

When the German noticed that the Osterley was not taking any notice of her signals she ran up another string of bunting, the purport of which was "rudder damaged by submarine; want immediate assistance." She continued on her course across the Osterley's bows, and, despite the fact that the rudder was supposed to be damaged, Captain Jenks noticed that she was able to maintain a good speed. After crossing the mail steamer's bows, the decoy doubled back again, but by this time the Osterley's commander and his officers had satisfied themselves that the stranger was only a decoy for a submarine, which was probably lurking near by ready to discharge its deadly torpedo immediately the Osterley stopped her engines to render assistance. Instead of slowing down the speed of the Osterley was accelerated, and her course was slightly altered. Immediately this was done the Germans caught sight of a big 4.7 gun, which was on the after-part of the mail steamer, and which, manned by the Naval reserve crew, was being kept trained on the decoy. Realising that the trick had failed, the Germans hauled down the distress signals, and with a mobility that was simply amazing for a crippled steamer she made off at full speed, and was soon lost upon the horizon.

PANAMA.

MR. DEAKIN AND MR. NIELSEN.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Minister for External Affairs, Mr. Mahon, referring to the recall of Mr. Edward, said the resignations of Messrs. Deakin and Nielsen had been accepted.

He said Mr. Edward was recalled on the recommendation of the permanent head of the department, on the ground that four senior officers were absent. Owing to demands in the Northern Territory and the war it was necessary that he should return to his duties in the department.

Mr. Mahon added that in any case the work of the commission was practically finished. Even a section of the press admitted that the American press was taking no notice whatever of the Australian pavilion, owing to the fact that the commission had not the funds to subsidise the American press with advertisements.

Mr. George Oughton, who had been appointed to succeed Mr. Edward, was an Australian now resident in San Francisco. He was receiving £10 a week, which was only £1 5s more than the expenses of Mr. Edward. He regarded Mr. Oughton as a very efficient man.

After the Cabinet meeting to-day the Minister said that the resignations of the commissioners had been accepted.

PREMIERS' RESOLUTION.

Mr. Earle, Premier of Tasmania, called attention at yesterday's sitting of the Premiers' Conference to the announcement that Messrs. Deakin and Nielsen had resigned their commissions at the Panama Exposition, and that the "conference had requested them to withdraw those resignations."

"This was not a conference matter at all," remarked Mr. Earle, "and I think that fact ought to be made clear to the public."

Sir Alexander Peacock: It was left to the three States—New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland.

Mr. Holman: It was only by permission of the conference that it was dealt with by the representatives of the three States.

FLOUR SHORTAGE.

SUPPLIES MAY BE IMPORTED.

It was represented yesterday to the Assistant Minister for Lands and Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, by a deputation from the Deniliquin-Moama district, introduced by Mr. Scobie, M.L.A., that the 8000 people living there had only enough wheat and flour to provide bread till the first week in June next. Mr. Grahame promised the deputation that if the Wheat Acquisition Board could not find wheat for them the Government would supply them with sufficient flour to see them through.

It is understood that the New South Wales Government is now making arrangements to import flour to make good the deficiency in the State which has latterly been found to exist. It will probably be bought in the Argentine.

BELGIAN PIANIST.

ON THE OSTERLEY.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

Among the passengers on the Osterley is Mr. De Bourgiunon, the Belgian pianist, who, prior to the war, was professor of music at Brussels Conservatorium. He also appeared frequently at the Royal Palace of that city before the King and Queen.

On the outbreak of war he volunteered with the Belgian army, serving in the trenches at Termonde, and afterwards at Antwerp, right up to the time of the fall of that city.

During the past few months he has been giving recitals in England in aid of the Belgian Relief Fund, and he is now on his way to Melbourne for the purpose of giving a series of concerts in Australia.

INCREASED PRICES.

BERRIGAN, Monday.

Owing to the scarcity of supplies, the local butchers have decided to advance the price of beef 1d a lb. Milk vendors have raised the price to 6d a quart.

The Chief Secretary and Minister for Public Health, Mr. Black, announces that he intends to have a series of health lectures delivered in country districts.

SCHOOLS HOSPITAL.

MEDICAL BRANCH TO BE EXTENDED.

That the Travelling School Hospital is doing excellent work in the isolated parts of the country is proved by reports received by the Minister for Education.

Letters have also been received from various teachers, referring in eulogistic terms to the good following the school medical inspection. The ophthalmic surgeon attached to the travelling hospital quotes a letter from a teacher, in which he says: "The glasses you prescribed for the children here have all turned out excellently, and the effect of the removal of tonsils and adenoids has made a marked improvement."

"These," said Mr. Griffith yesterday, "are only isolated examples of the terrible conditions in regard to medical aid under which the bush pioneers live, and the operations of the school medical branch covering the whole State, and backed up by the bush nursing scheme, evolved by my colleague, the Minister for Health, cannot but prove a boon to the people out back. I take keen interest in the school medical inspection work, and as soon as ever the conditions warrant it I propose carrying out a considerable extension in this direction."

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

MINISTER'S VIEWS.

The Chief Secretary (Mr. George Black) has forwarded a letter to the Rev. Stephen Taylor, hon. secretary of the Sunday Observance and Social Reform Committee. The following are extracts:—"I have seen in the daily newspapers of May 8 a letter of yours, regarding my communication to you of April 27, which calls at once for a reply and an apology, and I hasten to make both. The fact is that, in dictating replies to two organisations at one time, in my hurry I incorporated one with the other, and sent a letter to you of which only the first portion had any reference to anything you had written to me, or said of me. I am deeply grieved that I should have made such a mistake. However, let me say that your protest against interference with the sanctity of the Sabbath is somewhat belated, especially as regards infringements of the law. Under the conditions of modern civilisation, it is quite impracticable to keep laws which were made Anno Domini 1627 to 1677. You should know that the laws of Charles I. and Charles II. make travelling of any kind impossible on the Lord's Day, whether by vehicle, boat, ferry, lighter, or barge, and also make it penal for any man to follow his ordinary occupation on that day. Since these injunctions still exist, and since you have hitherto refrained from protesting against their non-observance, it appears to me in the highest degree absurd that you should denounce the very small accession of freedom which I have permitted, while allowing very much greater infringements of these obsolete laws to continue without protest. The fact is that, while it is necessary for the health of man and the worship of God that the seventh day should be set apart as a day of rest, as far as may be, the conditions of modern civilisation make impossible a rigid observance of the legal conditions set up 240 years ago. The laws for Sunday observance are broken by every one in the community; by church-goers and clergymen who use vehicles of any kind on that day; by the officers of the churches, who ring bells and open doors; by the choristers and organists, who are paid to lead and assist in church psalmody; just as they are broken by those who are employed on public railways, public tramways, and on ferry boats and boats which ply for hire. All that I have done is to make applicable to the whole of the country that freedom in purchasing soft drinks and fruit on Sunday which has been accorded to the whole of the metropolitan district during the last four years, and which prior to that date was accorded freely to all seaside resorts."

THE DRINK CURSE.

HIS MAJESTY'S EXAMPLE.

The English mails just to hand contain the full text of the letter addressed to Mr. Lloyd George, in which the King announced his intention of setting an example to the workers engaged in the output of munitions by giving up all alcoholic liquor himself and prohibiting its consumption in the Royal household.

The letter reads as follows:—

"Buckingham Palace,
"30th March, 1915.

"Dear Chancellor of the Exchequer,—

"The King thanks you for so promptly letting him have a full report of the proceedings at yesterday's meeting of the deputation of employers.

"His Majesty has read it with interest, but also with the deepest concern. He feels that nothing but the most vigorous measures will successfully cope with the grave situation now existing in our armament factories. We have before us the statements, not merely of the employers, but of the Admiralty and War Office officials responsible for the supply of munitions of war, for the transport of troops, their food and ammunition.

"From this evidence it is without doubt largely due to drink that we are unable to secure the output of war material indispensable to meet the requirements of our army in the field, and that there has been such serious delay in the conveyance of the necessary reinforcements and supplies to aid our gallant troops at the front.

"The continuance of such a state of things must inevitably result in the prolongation of the horrors and burdens of this terrible war.

"I am to add that if it be deemed advisable the King will be prepared to set the example by giving up all alcoholic liquor himself, and issuing orders against its consumption in the Royal Household, so that no difference shall be made so far as his Majesty is concerned between the treatment of rich and poor in this question.

"Yours very truly,
"STAMFORDHAM.

"The Right Hon. D. Lloyd George, M.P.,
"Chancellor of the Exchequer."

THE KANOWNA INCIDENT.

The Minister for Defence, according to a communication received from Messrs. Sullivan Bros., has arrived at the following decision in regard to the trouble on the transport Kanowna:—

"There was no mutiny of either crew or firemen; the naval officer, on receipt of signal that crew had mutinied, and later 'firemen only,' was justified in taking the steps that were taken; the captain of the Kanowna acted hastily and without judgment in dealing with the situation, particularly in reporting that the crew had mutinied: the firemen being placed under arrest, the military officer in charge should have satisfied himself whether he was justified in keeping them under arrest; he did not do so, and in consequence some of the firemen were unjustly treated in being arrested at all, and others for being continued under arrest without due cause. There is no evidence to prove the charge of want of food, etc, for firemen after arrest."

NON-UNIONISTS.

FUTURE TREATMENT IN THE SERVICE.

A VEILED THREAT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Interstate Conference of the Federated Public Service Assistants' Association was opened in the Temperance Hall yesterday by the Postmaster-General, Mr. Spence. Delegates were present from New South Wales, South Australia, Victoria, Tasmania, and Queensland.

Mr. Spence said he did not think there was any section of the Public Service that was not organised, though, as a unionist, he was sorry to say there were some who stayed outside.

"I am not going to say anything," Mr. Spence continued, "but something might happen some day, and they may be uncomfortable. It is most unfair of any man in any walk of life to leave it to others to fight his battles. I never have the slightest sympathy for the non-unionist. He is a selfish kind of man who leaves the work to others. However, some change may occur in that regard."

FEDERAL FINANCE.

WAR EXPENDITURE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A special "Commonwealth Gazette" issued to-day contains a statement of the Commonwealth receipts and expenditure for the nine months ended March 31.

It shows that the total revenue was £15,302,411, against £15,323,907 for the corresponding period of 1914. In addition to this ordinary revenue it required the sum of £8,795,000 to defray the extraordinary expenditure in connection with the war. This amount was raised by the issue of Treasury bills in aid of revenue for £2,795,000, and by utilising £6,000,000—instalments of the loan granted by the Imperial Government of £18,000,000—in addition to the whole amount of the surplus revenue from the preceding years of £1,175,932.

"FOLLOW THE KING."

The Lord Mayor, in connection with the "follow the King" movement to abstain from alcohol during the war, has convened a public meeting for to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. The speakers will include Archbishop Wright for the churches, Mr. F. E. Winchcombe, M.L.C., as president of the Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the business community, Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart on behalf of the medical profession, and Mr. A. Evans, secretary Political Labour League, for the workers.

PENRITH, Tuesday.

The "follow the King" movement was considered by the Penrith Council last night.

The voting being equal the Mayor gave a casting vote in favour of the motion and is calling a public meeting.

NEW YORK LIFE

The annual report of the New York Life Insurance Company states that the death losses incurred in 1914, including an extra reserve of £100,000 for losses probably incurred but not reported, were 73 per cent. of the amount provided in the premiums for the mortality of that year. In 1913, when they had no war claims, their mortality was also 73 per cent. of the amount provided. In 1912 it was 76 per cent. The total war losses actually incurred to December 31, 1914, including the countries where their risk was abundantly covered by policy conditions or otherwise, according to information obtained by both letter and cable, amounted to a little less than 2 per cent. of the total death losses for the year. It had been said that the company would suffer because of its foreign investments. This was not true. Their foreign investments, limited as they had been to Government bonds and high-grade municipals, had naturally fallen in price, but not appreciably more than domestic securities. No security issued by or in any country engaged in this war and held by the company was in default of either principal or interest.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Sydney Ice-skating Rink and Cold Storage Company, Ltd., has declared an interim dividend of 1s per share, payable May 31.

THE FODDER BOARD.

RETAILERS' REPRESENTATIVE APPOINTED.

A meeting of the distributing produce trade was held at Steenbohm's store, Sussex-street, yesterday, to protest against the personnel of the Fodder Board appointed by the Government on the previous day.

Mr. Gilpin, of Burwood, who occupied the chair, stated that the meeting of the produce trade which was held on Monday for the purpose of selecting two merchants to sit upon the Forage Advisory Board was not representative of the whole trade. It was thought that the meeting should have represented every section of the trade.

Mr. S. M. Steenbohm, who convened yesterday's meeting, explained the difficulties which had to be contended with in connection with the chaff sales at the Railway Market. He said that last week he had written to the Minister for Justice, pointing out the advisability of having two representatives appointed to the board, who would look after the interests of the distributing trade. At the previous day's meeting the distributors' representatives were refused admission. He proposed that the meeting should nominate three gentlemen, whose names be submitted to the Minister, to be placed upon the advisory board.

On a vote being taken Messrs. Gilpin, Greenwood, and Taylor were selected as the distributors' representatives. Mr. Steenbohm refused to be nominated.

At 2 o'clock the three representatives waited upon Mr. Ashford, with the result that the Minister accepted Mr. Gilpin as representative on the board of the distributing trade.

It was pointed out to the Minister that the proclaimed price of £8/10/ a ton was not sufficient to induce farmers and holders in the country to consign to Sydney. It was asserted that many holders had bought at £8/10/ and £9 a ton to fill their requirements, and it was suggested that if the price were made £9 holders would be prepared to send in sufficient chaff to satisfy the requirements of the trade. At the present time it was almost impossible to get a load of prime chaff. The present proclaimed price really meant that third and fourth grade chaff was bringing £8/10/ a ton.

The Minister was attentive to all the deputation had to say, and assured it that its suggestions would receive attention. He wished to act fairly by all concerned.

WAR PROBLEMS.

AUSTRALIA PURCHASES FROM ARGENTINA.

AN EXPORT DUTY MOOTED.

It was announced at Buenos Ayres on February 12 that Australia intended to purchase wheat in Argentina to the amount of one million five hundred thousand bushels. The "Review of the River Plate" states that already some oats have been shipped, and wheat shipments would commence shortly after the date mentioned above. Not only was the British Government a large purchaser of wheat from Argentina, but the Italian, Spanish, and French Governments were also heavy purchasers. The price of wheat consequently rose to 5/10½ per bushel, compared with 3/10 at the corresponding period of the previous year. At the beginning of the year the price was 4/8½. This sudden rise brought about an increase in the price of flour, and the bakers in the Federal Capital issued a notice to the effect that they had increased the price of bread. This alarmed the authorities, and in the Chamber of Deputies a project was brought forward by a Socialist member asking that Government be invited to send a bill for immediate discussion imposing an export duty on nearly all of the produce, the idea being that this would keep sufficient produce in the country for home requirements. Another project, brought forward by the acting Mayor of the Federal Capital, was that the National Government should buy sufficient wheat for home consumption to make sure that the country would not be left without supplies, and that this should be sold at a fixed rate to millers. A rumour was also current in Rosario to the effect that the Government intended to decree the prohibition of the export of wheat. Commenting on these projects, the "Review" stated:—"We very much doubt if any of those who have formulated the above schemes know what our wheat crop is, and that, in spite of the drawbacks of wet weather, etc., and after deducting one and a half million tons for home consumption and seed purposes, there will remain a surplus for export of three million tons or more."

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Further inquiries were made for matches yesterday, and wax vestas had parcel sales at enhanced values. Distributing 4/9 to 5/ was asked. Safeties were without alteration at 6/ for small lots. Local candles were advanced ⅛d per lb by the local manufacturers, prices ruling now being 5⅛d to 7⅛d, according to brand. Jams were unchanged, and so was tinned fruit. Advice by cable stated that business had been done in new season's Red Alaska salmon at the same price as last season. British Columbia advices were to the effect that about half the Sockeye pack, new season's, in halves, in all 150,000 cases, had been sold at an advance of 2/6 on last year's prices to Sydney. Nearly all the salmon will be turned out in the new hygienic tins, clamped instead of soldered. Californian dried fruits were quoted very much lower than last year, the reason being the blockade of Germany, which is one of California's best customers. The demand is for prunes and; apricots chiefly. Peaches are stationary, and pears have no demand. An advance was cabled in some brands of Norwegian sardines, varying from 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. on previous rates.

In the oil market turps had further movement. Sales were made of Pinetree at 4/5. Twenty-five barrels of G grade rosin, to arrive ex the Port Hunter, due next week, sold at £18/10/. For N grade, out of the same vessel, £19/10/ was quoted. For lots on spot of N rosin £21 was paid. Cotton seed oil was dearer at 7/3. Castor oil was easier at 3/9 in drums, and 3/7 in cases. Whale oil was easier at 2/3. Whitelead, Champion's, had a little parcel business at £43 per ton.

As regards brewers' goods there was no change in malt, either English or Victorian. Sales of best samples of Tasmanian hops have been made at 1/6 delivered. It is reported that there has been some inquiry from England for Tasmanian hops of fair sample, but stocks in Hobart are very small. Following on this came inquiry for next season's hops, also from England. Evidently a shortage in the English market is expected. Trade between houses in Hobart during the past week has been good, although there has been some difficulty in obtaining supplies owing to the small stocks. American hops are without alteration, and the same may be said of Kent hops. A few pockets of Kent hops are available at 2/2 duty paid, but what inquiry there has been has named a lower rate. As to New Zealand hops Nelson Californians are quoted at 1/ duty paid, and Greenbine at 1/1 c.i.f. Sydney. There are no stocks of these hops held here, and merchants will only import according to order. Isinglass is without alteration.

There was no movement in jute quotations either for immediate or forward delivery. On spot, woolpacks were worth 3/5, and branbags 5/2 net to rails. For cornsacks the "pool" wanted 6/3 net in bond. Letters from Calcutta dated April 20 set out that the jute crop was going through a troublous time in some areas—first drought, then excessive rain and hail, and for the last three weeks dry winds and intense heat had been the portion of cultivators in the important Eastern area. In the west and north the conditions were more favourable up to the end of March, but since then heat and the lack of rain had been the prevailing features.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

BUTTER FAMINE CONTINUES. CHEAPER EGGS.

There was no improvement in the butter position yesterday. If anything, supplies were even smaller than they were on Monday, and some agents were unable to fill more than 40 per cent. of their orders. Production on the North Coast is said to be still shrinking, and agents are of the opinion that midwinter will see butter almost unobtainable in Sydney. The proclaimed price was unchanged at 126/ per cwt delivered in boxes. The Brisbane market advanced to 202/—a record.

Eggs were cheaper. New-laid suburban were offered at from 2/2 to 2/4, railways and South Coasts from 1/8 to 1/10, and Northern Rivers at from 1/7 to 1/9 a dozen. One agent was said to have secured 2/6 for a few cases of new-laid. Duck eggs commanded to 2/3.

TIN STOCKS BUOYANT.

COPPER AND GOLD SHARES SOFT.

The Sydney Stock Exchange was completely dominated yesterday morning by the attention paid to tin stocks. In the case of the white metal interests, it was a case of "tin, and all the rest nowhere."

At all events, this was the chief characteristic of the morning. Neither Barriers, copper, nor gold stocks had a "look in." Kampong Kamuntings were extremely active, and changed hands freely on ordinary terms, also for cash, likewise on six weeks' terms, and such was the buying strength that they held a firm position right up to the noon adjournment. Kamuntings were sympathetically affected by the apparent buoyancy of tin, for a sale at 27/10 was a recovery and advance from 26/. On the other hand, the run on tin did not extend to Katoo Deebook, for whilst there were sellers, buyers were silent.

Austral Malays were nibbled at, but the price was too low to tempt sellers landed with them at 37/6, 37/, and even 36/6. In like manner, holders of Malaya Corporation at the high prices reached shortly after they were born are disappointed at the slow progress made in recovering the ground lost. There were several inquiries for Deebook Dredging, but business was impossible owing to sellers declining to make a concession in a market apparently favourable to tin. Very solid offers failed to draw holders of Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging, but Tongkah Compound and Trong were not mentioned, whilst Ratrut Basin showed continued weakness.

As before remarked, the other sections of the market—copper, gold, silver-lead-zinc—cut a very poor figure. Not only was the business done miserably small, but there was nothing reassuring in the values realised. The proceedings during the afternoon did nothing to alter this state of affairs. It appeared to be so exhausted by the morning spurt as to have little inclination for another flutter in the afternoon.

MINING NOTES.

The tunnel at the Mount David gold mine has been extended another 15ft to 276ft, and the last 20ft are in slate with quartz leaders carrying gold. In the open cut, north of the fault, and on the west or foot wall side of the main lode, the slate formation is about 160 feet thick, and carrying many quartz leaders also lens of stone, all of good value.

The manager of the Mount Ross Mine reports under date May 8 having driven 10ft for the week in the north-east drive in bouldery ground. He will not see the bottom until he gets through the boulders, as it is dipping considerably. The water is on the increase, but he has plenty of power to deal with it. Since the last report, a second boiler has been installed, and pumping facilities increased, so as to meet any emergency that may arise in this respect.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Mr. A. R. Williams, who has been for some months managing the Lloyd Copper Company's mine at Burraga, has been appointed manager of Marouma copper mine, Nymagee.

Mr. Williams has risen from the ranks. At one time he was a working miner in Burraga mine.

ARDLETHAN TIN FIELD.

BORING FOR WATER.

WANT OF A "GUSHER."

It is a common remark on the arid Ardlethan tin field that a big flow from an artesian well would be as valuable as a tin mine. Even some of those who never had a good word to say of Ardlethan as the centre of a tin field have admitted that if there was a good supply of water on hand the field would produce a large quantity of tin. But it has not a good supply of water. That is the difficulty. If there was a Ringarooma river running through the depression formed by Crosby's Hill on the White Crystal mine and the Carpathia hill there would be many years of profitable work provided in milling the large quantity of high and low grade ore that could be won between Carpathia and Bygoo.

The race of mining experts which sprung into existence when the Carpathia tin mine started, and which expressed the opinion that the Ardlethan lodes would cut out at 50ft in depth, have long since died, because the lodes have refused to cut out at three times that depth. As to their contention that the history of tin lode mining in Australia is opposed to the existence of tin lodes at depth—that contention was based on the experience of the Herberton tin field in Queensland. But they are now faced with the fact that at the Vulcan tin mine in the northern State payable ore is being won from [illegible] stage at the 250ft level; that it is proposed to locate the same ore body at the 900ft level, and that the ore body 20ft wide at the 550ft level has widened out to 22ft, the whole of which carries payable tin.

This fact is totally opposed to the dictum of the Pitt-street miner that a tin lode, whether associated with chlorite, griesen, quartzite, porphyry, tourmaline, mispickel, or any other rock or formation, does not live down to any depth. The last five weeks' operations of the Vulcan mine show that 1092 tons of ore won from 550ft to 730ft in depth produced 55 tons 6cwt 2qr of concentrates that realised £4079/14/8. Seeing the Pitt-street mining experts proved false prophets when they declared that the Ardlethan tin lodes were mere gash veins, and unpatriotically speculated in the hope that they would prove to be such, there is no reason why they should not be as veritically persistent as the Vulcan lode is in Queensland.

But the great handicap at Ardlethan is the want of a good supply of water, hence the experiment of the Wild Cherry directors in calling in the aid of the artesian well-borer is being keenly watched. He is down 298ft, and has struck water that has risen up to 100ft in the bore. The directors have told him to go to 450ft, and see what will happen. If he strikes an artesian gusher, its value will be incalculable.

In the meantime the development of the mine is proceeding. The north drive at No. 1 level is in low-grade ore. The south drive at No. 2 level shows a lode 2ift wide, carrying good tin values, whilst the stopes are on good ore north end of the winze below No. 1 level. On the western end of Burns's block the ore is improving in values. Last week the manager gave the mill and tables a run, and everything was in order. He will make a start crushing as soon as the pumping plant is in position on the bore.

AMALGAMATED HILL END.

The managing director reports for the month of April:—

Mica Vein.—Early in the month the streak or floor in the stopes which yielded the bulk of our gold became very much poorer, and finally was no richer than the vein in the stopes generally, which, by reason of this disappearance, are now unpayable. However, we are continuing the stopes, in the hope that the rich gold will make again. In view of this disappointment it is some consolation to know that a development of considerable importance has occurred in the drive on the Mica Vein in the bottom level, which was started last month with the object of picking up the gold that went underfoot in a part of the intermediate level, some 70ft overhead. At 23ft from the starting point the vein began to carry coarse gold in two to three inches of stone, and the face, now some 70ft, is till carrying coarse payable, although not sensational, gold, and a break in the vein which occurred in the course of driving did not affect its value. Opening-out work is proceeding with the utmost vigour, and for this purpose machine miners were withdrawn from the main shaft. A crosscut was run out to the old Star of Peace workings for ventilation. A leading stope has been cut out and timbered to within 15ft of the face, and nearly 100 machine-holes are ready for firing, so that before the end of May, when the general clean-up takes place, we should not only have a fair tonnage, but should prove the lasting or ephemeral character of this new development.

Main Shaft.—Timbering not yet finished, but will be within the coming month. Haulage gear restored, and sinking resumed. In cutting back to take the timbers a small vein was exposed showing gold, but it is of little importance at this stage.

Middle Workings Vein.—In the crosscut east from the intermediate level a few cuts on this vein have been taken out. The vein still carries gold, but is so far unpayable.

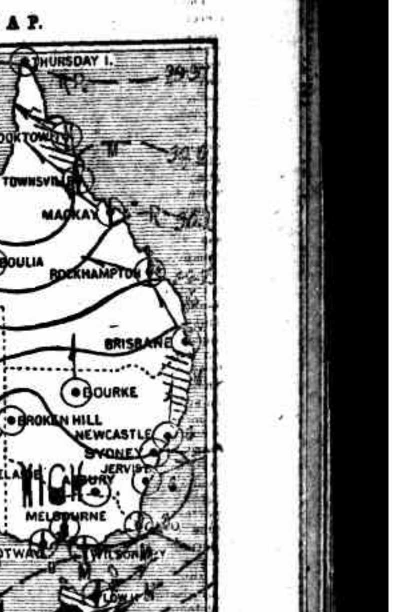
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



During the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday the extensive high pressure which occupied the greater part of the continent worked north-eastward. The centre now covers the south-eastern corner. The rear isobars of this great pressure system now run from the Western Bight north-eastward to the Northern Territory, having contracted eastward, with the movement of the centre.

Thus inducement has been given to the extension southward of the tropical depression in Western Australia, and this is shown in a rather more pronounced form than on Monday. Unsettled weather still obtains generally in that State; and light to heavy rain has been recorded at many places over the NW goldfields, agricultural areas, and on the south coast. Monsoonal inclinations are still in evidence over other tropical parts of Australia, but chiefly over Queensland; but very little rain has so far resulted there. In New South Wales, some further showers are likely on the north coast; otherwise fine and cool generally, but becoming unsettled later in the SW.

Ocean Forecast.—Strong, squally, south-easterly winds on Queensland coast, especially north of Cooktown; smooth to moderate elsewhere.

FRESH FISH.

CITY COUNCIL'S REQUEST.

MONOPOLY WANTED.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) and Aldermen W. P. M'Elhone, Sandy, English, and Burke, and Mr. T. H. Nesbitt (Town Clerk) waited on the Chief Secretary yesterday, and asked that all private fish markets in the metropolitan area should be closed, and that the exclusive right of conducting markets for the sale of fish in such area should be vested in the council.

It was stated by the Lord Mayor that the present fish market in Quay and Thomas streets and Ultimo-road, which for land and buildings had cost the council £35,000, should not be subjected to any competition on the part of the Government. If the council were given a free hand care would be taken to see that the citizens of Sydney and adjacent suburbs would be regularly supplied with fish. The present work was hampered by the absence of such legislative provisions as were absolutely necessary—the right of monopoly.

Mr. Black, in responding, said he had the utmost sympathy with the proposals put forward. There should be no competition between the Government and the council, because they were each working for the public good. Some one had asked him if he intended to close the municipal markets, and he replied that to do so, while he wanted to increase the supply of fresh fish, would be madness. Though he was unable at the moment to give any decided answer, he was inclined to say that the Premier would agree with him that the council should have the legislation it required. The Government or the municipality would have to undertake some such work in order to provide the people with cheaper and good food. If some fish shopkeepers made £5000 a year, they did it by the saving of soap and disinfectants. Any legislation that might be brought in should give the authorities power of control over those establishments.

VACCINATION.

COMMISSION OF INQUIRY.

The Victorian Parliamentary Special Committee to inquire into the efficacy of vaccination resumed its sittings at Parliament House yesterday, Mr. A. R. Outtrim, M.L.A., presiding.

Dr. W. G. Armstrong, senior medical officer for health, spoke in favour of vaccination. He stated that about 1000 cases of smallpox had ocurred in New South Wales in 1913, mostly all unvaccinated. That vaccination was a safeguard against the disease was evidenced by the fact that four doctors and 48 nurses, who had been successfully vaccinated or re-vaccinated, had done duty at the quarantine station without contracting the disease.

Of the 1673 persons attacked in New South Wales, 69, or 6.4 per cent., had probably been vaccinated in infancy, or an average of 13 years before being attacked. The balance, 93.3 per cent., had never been successfully vaccinated.

Replying to the chairman, witness said that he knew of no cases in which vaccination had affected the constitution permanently in any injurious way.

Witness, on being told of the previous day's evidence of death following vaccination, said he was quite convinced that vaccination was not the cause of death, but he would not recommend vaccination for a person suffering from heart failure or advanced kidney disease.

George Cann, M.L.A., said he was not a believer in vaccination. His brother, Mr. J. H. Cann, had smallpox when 11 years of age. He had been previously vaccinated. His two sisters also had smallpox. They, too, had been vaccinated. Witness was not vaccinated and he did not get smallpox, though his mother had it while he was an infant in arms.

Joseph Holmes, Cooper-street, city, said he had a little boy vaccinated during the smallpox scare. Five or six days after vaccination sores broke out all over his body, and eventually he died at the Little Bay Hospital. The medical certificate was skin trouble.

Philip James, of Marrickville, said his girls were very ill when vaccinated. He knew the boy Sidlow, whose death was, in his opinion, due to vaccination three days after the operation.

Dr. Cassidy, of Paddington, said he believed in vaccination, but not in making it compulsory. If he were consulted he would tell a man that he would advise him not to be vaccinated. He suggested that vaccination should be left to the option of the individual, on account of the great diversity of opinion of its value and danger. In his opinion the outbreak in Sydney of 1913 was chicken-pox only.

The Commission adjourned till to-day.

MANUFACTURERS.

SCENE AT AN ELECTION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A considerable stir was created at the annual meeting of the Victorian Chamber of Manufactures yesterday by objection being raised to the election of a member who had been nominated for the council, on the ground that he was a German.

The president, Mr. Herbert Brookes, had announced that there were only six nominations for the same number of vacancies and [illegible], moved that these gentlemen, including Mr. Herbert Wertheim, be declared elected.

Mr. R. D. Lawrence said:—"Mr. Herbert Wertheim was born in Australia, the son of a German father, and his mother is a German. The family own big interests in Germany, and have now a large industry here." Mr. Lawrence then read out a number of German names which he said were those of men employed at the Wertheim factory.

The president said that he wished to point out that, while he sympathised with the patriotic sentiments underlying the remarks of Mr. Lawrence, the chamber was in the position that these nominations were made at a general meeting and all the members were circularised, and so were aware of these names. Nobody at the meeting had power to stay the matter of the nominations that night.

With regard to Mr. Wertheim, Mr. Lawrence had pointed out that he was an Australian citizen. After the elections had been declared, he (Mr. Brookes) intended to ask members to pass a rule which would give the chamber power to expel any member under certain circumstances, and such a rule would enable them to deal with a case like this one. As these nominations were the only ones received, he must declare these six gentlemen to be duly elected.

MR. FRANK HUTCHENS' RECITAL.

Mr. Frank Hutchens opened his recital at St. James's Hall last night with the solemn performance of Beethoven's Funeral March on the Death of a Hero, the whole audience standing as a tribute to the Australians fallen at the front.

This pianist was of service in the advancement of young endeavour, justly demanding recognition by introducing a "Sonata for Violin and Piano" composed by Rex de Cairos Rego, and a "Piano Sonata in A Minor" by Roy Agnew. Mr. Cyril Monk was associated with Mr. Hutchens in the first of these new works, which may properly be considered as of importance. Both artists had studied the score with evident care, and played it with enthusiasm. The first allegro opened in fantastic spirit with syncopated exchanges of staccato chords between the two instruments, passed into a more gracious phase in which the deeper tones of the violin were employed with pathetic effect, momentarily entered a tragic atmosphere, and ended in a spirit of [illegible]—the interest always well sustained. In the Lento con affetto it became evident that the violin was to predominate, and Mr. Monk made the most of his theme to a quiet accompaniment. The popular movement of the work was the Molto Allegro, opening like a scherzo with little rapid phrases for violin, subsequently transferred to piano, and then strenuously worked out to a climax. A touching theme for violin of a song-like character, partly in chords, proved highly attractive. The last movement, a Maestoso in the style of a martial and heroic march led off on the G string by the violinist, was played with immense spirit by both artists, and brought the work, which showed a high level of inspiration, to an effective conclusion. Mr. De Rego, as well as the performers, was recalled with enthusiasm.

Mr. Agnew's Sonata was rendered with exquisite brilliancy and expression by Mr. Hutchens. We are inclined to think the first movement the best, opening as it did with an excellent theme well developed, whilst the accelerated, lightly-ascending passage in the bass in the sparkling second theme proved a winning feature. The andante tranquillo was graceful, and Mr. Hutchens played it with feeling, but a deeper sentiment seemed demanded for sonata-composition. The work closed with an Allegro Espressivo, and may be summed up generally as a trifle indefinite in aim, but yet worth hearing, and an effort showing talent. The young composer was called and recalled in the most cordial manner.

THE SHIRES.

EXTENSION OF POWER PROMISED.

VIEWS OF A MINISTER.

The seventh annual conference of the Shires Association of New South Wales was opened by his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland in the Southern Cross Hall yesterday morning. There were delegates present representing 127 out of the 135 shires within the State. The president, Councillor A. K. Trethowan (Urana) presided.

In the course of his reply to the cordial welcome extended to him, Sir Gerald Strickland said:—As we are at war we should give the first place, and a place far above every other effort and idea, to the thought of achieving a victory, which should set all other considerations aside. (Applause.) Every one of you has been thinking now for eight months what could be done to forward the efforts of State Ministers, Commonwealth Ministers, and Imperial Ministers for the defence of the Empire. The more difficult the task seems, the more necessary is it to think it over and over again, and by thinking it over and discussing it, each one of us may find some little thing where we may be personally helpful. I know that some have been encouraged to go to the war by many here who are personally too old to go. You realise probably more than anyone else how futile it is, how impossible it is, to govern altogether and entirely from London or Melbourne or Sydney. Government is practical. It is to extend and reach those governed by actual contact with the men on the spot. Now, the men on the spot in New South Wales are few and far between in the back blocks. And they have elected you because they recognise you are the best men that can be put forward for brains and character and ability and energy to represent them.

Alderman J. G. Griffin, president of the Local Government Association, conveyed fraternal greetings to the delegates. "We all feel that there is nothing we can speak about hardly except this terrible war," he said. "We hope we shall win; we are sure we shall win. (Applause.) We are certain that the gallantry of our Australian soldiers will yet achieve a magnificent victory for the Empire. The Germans will be taught a lesson that will prevent them or any other nation from repeating the outrages they have perpetrated. The one answer to their brutality is that we should reach Berlin and dictate the terms of peace there. I am certain the English blood throughout the whole world will be one in its demand that for ever after this no German thraldom shall be permitted in the world." (Applause.)

In moving the adoption of the annual report, the president referred to the provisons of the new Local Government Bill, introduced at last session of Parliament. He said that the Minister had met them fairly and reasonably in nearly all matters put before him. "I am bound to say that the bill is a good one from a general point of view. But the Minister's proposal to alter the franchise and do away with the limitation of borrowing and rating is more than we can stand. Property owners under this bill will be giving to non-property owners practically the power to mortgage our estates. It is not going to benefit local government, and it is not going to advance it or to put it on any higher level."

Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the extension of the franchise to embrace resident qualification is diametrically opposed to the true principle of local government. The proposal to alter the existing franchise so as to include all adult persons as electors was also opposed.

Mr. A. Griffith, the Minister in charge of local government affairs, said that the Government proposed to give them much wider power. Concurrently with the gift of these wider powers, however, there must go on a broadening of the franchise by which they were exercised. "Once the local government bodies of this State acquire the full measure of local government experience," Mr. Griffith continued, "and when the Federal Government gets further powers, I certainly think, as I have said before, that the State Parliament can disappear altogether. But there must be a corresponding expansion of the basis of those larger powers—I mean, of course, the franchise."

The conference adjourned until 10 a.m. to-day.

CASUALTIES.

DEATH FROM TETANUS.

Fanny Amelia Senior, 33, was taken ill at Marrickville on the 10th ult. She was removed to the Marrickville Cottage Hospital, where she died 10 days later. The City Coroner (Mr. H. S. Hawkins), at an inquiry held on Tuesday, found that death was caused by tetanus.

PTOMAINE POISONING.

At Trafalgar-street, Annandale, on the 5th inst., Mrs. Edith Ellen Harris, 31, was taken ill, and died two days later. The City Coroner on Tuesday found that Mrs. Harris died from ptomaine poisoning, caused through eating some pig's cheek. Two of her children, who had eaten the same food, were not affected.

FATAL FALL.

William Whiteway, 40, wharf-labourer, while working on the S.S. Ascanius, at Central Wharf, on the 8th inst., fell down a hatch and fractured his skull. He died from his injuries on the same day. A verdict of accidental death was returned at a Coroner's inquiry held on Tuesday.

MUSICIAN'S DEATH.

Alfred Joseph Simpson, 50, a musician, was found dead on the 1st inst. at a George-street hotel. His throat was cut, and by his side was a penknife. On Tuesday the City Coroner, after hearing evidence, returned a verdict of suicide.

TANNER'S DEATH.

On the 26th ultimo Henry Melville, 19, employed at a Mascot tannery, while oiling a cog-wheel on a drum, got his hand caught in the wheel. Three of his fingers were crushed. He was conveyed to the South Sydney Hospital, where he died on the 9th inst.

WATCHMAN'S BODY FOUND.

Richard Strong, 69, a watchman, last Thursday morning went down with a lighter which sank off Garden Island. Search was made for his body without finding it.

Yesterday morning Strong's body was found in a state of decomposition in the water at Neutral Bay. The head is missing from the body. The police supposition is that the decapitation was caused by the propeller of one of the harbour steamers. Dr. Palmer made an examination, which showed that death was due to drowning.

WOMAN POISONED.

Kitty Laws, 22, a domestic servant at a hotel in Kent-street, died from the effects of poison on Tuesday. The Civil Ambulance removed her to Sydney Hospital, where she died three minutes after being admitted by Dr. Joyce.

MISHAP TO CARTER.

On Tuesday afternoon in Oxford-street William Frederick Masters, 33, a carter, employed by J. M'Carthy, of Camperdown, was leading his horses attached to a lorry laden with three tons of flour. He slipped and fell under one of the wheels, which passed over his stomach. The Civil Ambulance took Masters to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was admitted by Dr. Stafford.

OCCUPATIONS OF GIRLS.

Last year 471 girls were reported to have left the High schools, but of these 197 were continuing their education; 25 girls went to the University, 35 to the Teachers' College, 42 to business colleges, and the remainder were largely girls who, through force of circumstances, were transferred to other High schools or district schools. 223 girls, after practically completing the High school course, entered upon home duties, while 51 went into various occupations. 8163 girls left the primary schools, and of these no less than 2164 passed on to some higher school. 4840 girls were returned as having left the primary schools to enter upon home duties. 190 girls became shop assistants, 137 clerks, 105 went into factories, and 27 were returned as having taken up professions. 269 girls left school to become domestic servants.

£500 DISAPPEARS.

TRAMWAY DEPOT LOSS.

The further hearing of the case against Milton Hedley Vicars Withers, on a charge of having stolen £522 from the Tramway Depot, Rushcutter Bay, the property of the Chief Commissioner for Railways, was continued yesterday, before Mr. Smithers, S.M., at the Water Police Court.

Frank Gerald Longson stated that at 11.40 p.m. on April 18, while in Darlinghurst, he saw two men, one of whom, from the side face, he recognised as accused, carrying a heavy box between them. Accused wore a light overcoat, grey trousers, and a brownish felt hat. His companion was a shortish man, and red in the face.

Withers, who put in a plea of not guilty, was committed for trial, bail being allowed in self £500, and a surety of the same amount, or two of £250.

PARK MYSTERY.

Regarding the case of the woman found dead in Prince Alfred Park on the night of Monday, the 3rd instant, the police of the Regent-street station would be glad if any persons who were in the locality of the gymnasium that night, up to half-past 10 or 11 o'clock, would communicate with them.

A new rule, as follows, was submitted by the executive council, and will be discussed to-day:—"That it is desirable that a scheme of interstate clearances be brought into existence, and that the executive council be, and is hereby authorised and empowered to incorporate in the rules of the order, the scheme being propounded by the Registrar and Actuary of Friendly Societies for New South Wales, and the Actuary of Friendly Societies of Victoria, if such scheme is considered by them to be suitable."

The conference will be resumed this morning.

COAL CLIFF MINERS.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

At the local police court to-day the charge against Harold Carrick, an enginedriver at the Coal Cliff Colliery, of absenting himself from work on March 17 without reasonable cause was proceeded with.

Mr. G. S. Beeby (instructed by Mr. J. Stuart Thom and Co.) appeared for the company, and Mr. A. A. Lysaght for defendant.

The case was dismissed without hearing evidence for the defence, but no costs were allowed.

Cases against other Coal Cliff Colliery employees will be proceeded with on Friday.

"THE SILVER BULLET."

The first of a series of functions organised by the Millions Club in connection with the anti-enemy trade movement will take place on Thursday at Baumann's Cafe, when addresses will be given by Mr. Griffith, Minister for Education, and other public men. Among those invited are the delegates to the Premiers' Conference.

THE WEATHER.

COOLER TEMPERATURES.

During the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday some light to heavy rainfall was recorded at scattered places in coastal districts north from Maitland.

At 9 a.m. yesterday it was still cloudy at scattered places along the coast, chiefly on central and northern parts; cloudy also on parts of northern border districts, and a few showers were falling on the northern seaboard; otherwise fine and clear.

Many frosts are again reported on the highlands, and a few fogs formed during the night and early morning of Monday.

The comparison of yesterday's 9 a.m. temperatures with those at the same hour on Monday showed a rise in parts of central and north-eastern districts, but elsewhere the general tendency to cooler temperatures has been maintained.

The chief increases were:—Eight degrees each at Dubbo and Armidale. The largest decreases amounted to 12 degrees at Jervis Bay, 9 at Bega, and 7 at Moruya Heads (on the South Coast); and 7 degrees each at Wilcannia, Menindie, and Cobar (in western division).

HAVE A HOME OF YOUR OWN,
AND A HOME YOU'LL BE PROUD OF—
COME TO HABERFIELD.

Get away from the ordinary—the
back yards. Come out to Haberfield, where every cottage is built on a distinctive artistic plan. Every
block of land that enables you to have flowers, vegetables, and poultry if desired.

You will take pride in a property such as this,
and in a few years
the improvements you put in will greatly increase its value.

"That sounds interesting"—you will say—"but I can't afford a home of my own."

YOU CAN AFFORD TO
HABERFIELD,

We say, because the terms are so liberal.

is all you need to enter into possession. You can pay this amount in, or a greater sum, and the balance will remain at 5 per cent., reducible by weekly payments to, say, 25/ to 30/.

It is well known that the ruling rate in the money market to-day for ordinary mortgages on brick dwellings is from 6 to 8 per cent. We are still able to sell to you on a 5 per cent. interest basis.

Haberfield is Sydney's garden suburb. Every home is substantially built of brick on stone or concrete foundations. In design they are unique. The title is Torrens in all cases.

Come out to Haberfield,
the suburb.

SNOW'S

COVERED ITSELF WITH

GLORY YESTERDAY.

If there exists any notion in your head that this event has been created in order to "bait" the advertising, or to lure people in to see something cheap and buy something dear, read over again the good reasons behind Snow's windfall.

The Ribbons we are selling at about Half Regular Prices are a part of a certain Wholesaler's Stock. All sound and unhurt. He had to do a certain amount of Business in a certain time, letting was his way of doing it. Snow's are simply passing the saving obtained along to you. At the same time, Snow's Specialty Underwear Shop (like the Wholesaler of Ribbons) must do a certain amount of Business before May 31, so

DOWN COME PRICES

UNDERWEAR.

Imagine buying Pure SILK GLACE RIBBONS, 4 inches wide, for 4½d yard. And others 4 1-3 inches wide for 5½d yard. Or 5-inch widths at 6½d. And almost any colour you can name. The values are easily 6½d, 7½d, and 10½d yard. Yet these are just a few only.

Picture LADIES' COMBINATIONS, worth 3/11½ and 5/11 being sold for 2/9 and 4/6.

LADIES' KNICKERS at 1/9, instead of 2/9; or at 2/11, instead of 3/11.

And still the story is only partly told. For in every part of the House are Good Values.

Has 54in SERGES, in Black, Navy, and Cream that could easily be sold for 7/6. Yet the price is only 5/11 yard.

And a Tableful of TWEEDS, in checks of all colours, including Black and White, which might be marked 2/6½, but are selling at 1/11½ yard.
